SHORTRIDGE LEADS POLL

CLOSE IN SOUTH CAROLINA

But Senator Smith, World Court Advocate, Is Ahead—Olsi Is Running Third.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Returns in today's California primary election from 352 of 8,274 precincts in the State showed Isidore Dockweiler, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, leading John B. Elliott, indorsed by William Gibbs McAdoo, 940 votes to 764.

On complete returns from 132 San Francisco precincts, Justis S. Wardell, the anti-McAdoo candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, was leading Carl Alexander Johnson, San Diego dry, endorsed by McAdoo, 1,437 to 602.

The campaign of the candidates for the Democratic Gubernatorial and Senatorial nominations has attracted nation-wide attention as an alleged preliminary skirmish of the predicted Smith-McAdoo battle for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1928. In this contest the McAdoo candidates accused their opponents of complicity in a plot to capture the Democratic Party in California for Governor Smith of New York.

Shortridge Gains Lead.

United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Coolidge Republican, running for renomination in today's primary on a platform of protective tariff and support of the Administration, was leading his anti-World Court opponent, Robert M. Clarke, by more than 5,200 votes on returns from 900 out of 8,274 California precincts.

The vote for Shortridge was 24,422; Clark, 19,132.

The candidacy of Senator Shortridge, who stressed his pro-Coolidge record in the Senate and described his opponents as anti-Coolidge men, was opposed by Senator Hiram Johnson, his colleague in the Senate.

Lieut. Governor C. C. Young was leading Governor Friend W. Richardson by about 4,000 votes for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination with 1,229 precincts reporting.

Richardson adherents refused to take seriously Young's lead, pointing out the rapidity with which the Governor was overcoming the two-to-one advantage shown by Young in the earlier reports.

Registrar of Voters Harry Zemansky said tonight an early tabulation of votes indicated that Mrs. Florence Kahn, Congressional incumbent in the Fourth District, who urged modification of the Volstead act in her platform, was nominated in today's primary.

Heavy Vote Is Polled.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—California voters, favored with excellent weather in all parts of the State, went to the polls today to register their party preference for candidates for State, district, county, Congressional, Legislative and for non-partisan offices.

Although heavy voting was reported in San Francisco and Los Angeles during the early hours, following the opening of the polls at 8 o'clock, the vote in other parts of the State this evening was reported light.

With a banner registration of more than 1,854,471, an increase of 233,018 over 1924, a large vote was predicted by observers at the opening of the polls. But as many voters refused to designate party affiliations, requisite for their eligibility at the primaries, today's total vote is expected to be about 1,700,000.

From Los Angeles there was reported a lull in the voting following the casting of about 30,000 votes in the two hours after the polls opened. Labor districts, apparently, were voting lighter than usual and the heaviest balloting came on the West Side of Los Angeles City.

Throughout San Francisco there was a prevailing quiet at the election booths and Registrar Zemansky declared that there were no unusual happenings. A county vote of over 125,000 is looked for.

San Francisco registered its choice for candidates upon the voting machines, 649 of which were in use in the city. In some precincts there was delay in the operation of the machines, due to the unfamiliarity of the citizens with the new way of voting.

In what has been characterized as an attempt to regain ascendancy in the Republican Party in California, Senator Hiram Johnson, in addition to supporting Judge Clarke against Senator Shortridge, backed Lieut. Governor Young against Governor Richardson in the Governorship contest.

Senator Smith Leads in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 31 (AP).—With 1,118 of the State's 1,371 precincts heard from, United States Senator Smith had a lead of about 6,000 votes over Edgar A. Brown in the race for JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 31 (AP).—South Africa's latest diamond rush brought 15,000 persons, including 120 women, in full running kit or bathing costumes to a farm in the Transvaal district. Prospectors in one field have already found diamonds worth $180,000.

Among the sprinters were severa runners with good track records One syndicate employed thirty university athletes as runners.

More than 25,000 claims were pegged out and the population of the district was increased from a few hundred to about 50,000 almost overnight.

WORLD COURT ISSUE UP IN GENEVA TODAY

LEAGUE SEAT COMPROMISE

Drafting Committee's Solution, Generally Approved, Not Yet Agreed To by Spain.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—With each passing moment clouds are rolling up more darkly around the American reservations to the statutes of the Permanent Court, which will be discussed tomorrow morning at the International Labor Bureau by the best legal minds of twenty-four States.

Among the diplomats assembled here hard canvassing has failed to find a single optimist. Even the Americans who fathered these reservations are looking blue tonight and refuse to be interviewed.

That is not all. The problem has raised the question in the minds of many diplomats about Council procedure in regard to asking the Permanent Court for an advisory opinion. It has been generally considered that unanimity was required, as in all Council decisions. There are many, however, who now declare that the request for an opinion is only a matter of procedure and can be taken by a simple majority of the Council.

This view was expressed by Signor Scialoja, as President of the Council during the discussions on Mosul, but the decision in that case to ask the court's opinion was taken unanimously. Thus it would appear that the question has never been settled and it is this question which plays the most important rôle in the discussions around the American World Court reservations.

The Obstacle in Reservation No. 5.

Reservation No. 5 is based on the idea that the unanimity is required in the Council and that the United States should not have less power than any single Council member. But there is a group who are saying that unanimity of the Council is unnecessary and therefore the American reservation gives the United States a power which is not possessed by any single Council member—that the United States would, in fact, have the same power as a majority of the Council. Necessarily under these circumstances the American reservations could never be accepted.

In view of this situation it is generally considered that the coming conference cannot really arrive at a decision but must postpone the question at least till the Council comes to a decision regarding its own procedure. Then if it is decided that unanimity is required a formula might be drafted which would prevent the American reservation from delaying League action.

And if it is found that unanimity is not required, some nations might work on the assumption that the American Senate would not wish to allocate to the United States a power not held by any other nation, and point out the anomalous situation to the United States in the hope that the Senate would soften the reservation.

HALL INQUIRY TURNS TO HENRY STEVENS; HE STICKS TO ALIBI

Detectives Question Brother of Mrs. Hall for Hour and Half In His Home.

FINGERPRINTS NOT TAKEN

TALE OF HALL'S FEAR TOLD

Ex-Preacher Swears Rector Said Henry Stevens Had Threatened Him for Mills Affair.

Detectives investigating the slaying of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills questioned the murdered rector's brother-in-law, Henry Stevens, yesterday. He reiterated his alibi for the night of Sept. 14, 1922, which is corroborated by four witnesses.

Captain Harry Walsh and Sergeant Richard Burke were the questioners. They reached the Stevens home, at Lavalette, N. J., shortly after 3 P. M. Stevens was questioned for an hour and a half. When Walsh and Burke came out they refused to make known the result of the questioning.

"Were Stevens's fingerprints taken?" they were asked.

"No," was the response, as the detectives got into an automobile, which contained Sheriff Dan Grant of Ocean County, and were driven off to report to Inspector John J. Underwood at Somerville, where Stevens's brother, Willie Stevens, and his cousin, Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, are held without bail, charged with the murders. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the clergyman, is at liberty in $15,000 bail, also awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on a murder accusation.

The questioning of Mr. Stevens is understood to have been caused by an affidavit of the Rev. Paul B. Hamborsky, a real estate salesman, who formerly was a preacher in New Brunswick. In his affidavit, Hamborsky asserted that Dr. Hall once had told him he feared Henry Stevens, who had threatened him with harm because of the affair with Mrs. Mills.

Stevens Offers Fingerprints.

Reporters who called at the Stevens home were told that Henry Stevens was suffering from the aftermath of an attack of influenza. Although a sick man, he consented to talk. He said he was ready to cooperate with the investigators of Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson at any time. He offered to give them his fingerprints whenever they thought they needed them.

Mr. Stevens, an expert shot and a former New Jersey champion trap-shooter, was asked about his movements on the night of the crime. Lavalette is more than fifty miles from New Brunswick, on the outskirts of which the double murder was done.

"I really have nothing to add to the sworn statement I made four years ago which was in the form of an affidavit delivered to Prosecutor Joseph E. Stricker of Middlesex County," he said. "On the evening of Sept. 14, I was fishing on the beach in front of my home with a group of my friends here.

"I remember the evening distinctly because one member of the group, Arthur Applegate, caught a very fine bass and I went into the house and got my scales and weighed the bass. It weighed six pounds. In verification of this, I find the following entry in my diary:

"'Sept. 14—Art, bass, six pounds.'

"I went into the house and went to bed at 10:30 P. M. that night. I got up some time between 5 and 6 A. M. the following day and went fishing again."

In addition to Applegate, the other members of the Stevens fishing party as he recalled them, were William Seger of Philadelphia, Max Chadwick, now dead; George Johnson and Mayor Enoch Van Camp. The address of Seger in Philadelphia is unknown. He was merely a Summer resident of Lavalette in 1922. Mr. Johnson remembered the bass incident, but was not sure of the date, Sept. 14. The Mayor remembered the date and the catch of the bass and also recalled that when

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Hamilton Fyfe tonight relinquished his editorship of The London Daily Herald, a labor newspaper, of which he has made a notable success. Asked what were his plans for the future, he said:

"I am going back to vagabondage."

Mr. Fyfe is said to have seen more of the world than any other man. He has already arranged to visit Australia and may cross the United States on his way there.

Discussing the future of English politics Mr. Fyfe declared he believed that eventually, probably within twenty years, there would be only two parties, one consisting of Laborites and Liberals and the other of Communists.

EXPERT SAYS 'CRAWL' CONQUERED CHANNEL

Modern Stroke, He Finds, and New Knowledge of Tides Made Fast Time Possible.

EDERLE ROUTE DESCRIBED

By ALEC RUTHERFORD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—It is admitted on all sides that no fast swimmers were seen in the English Channel until America sent her representatives to attempt to lower the record. This has proved to be correct, and one hears nothing but admiration for the splendid prowess of Miss Gertrude Ederle. Mrs. Clemington Corson and Miss Clare Belle Barrett.

W. J. Howcroft, the British Olympic coach, points out that the American swimmers are products of modern instructional methods and employ modern racing strokes. In the past practically every Channel swimmer has relied on the breast, side or trudgen strokes, but it has now been proved that speed and stamina are both essential for a successful Channel swim.

All 1926 Victors Used Crawl Stroke.

The three successful swimmers this year have used the crawl stroke, which goes a long way in explaining the frequency with which the feat has been accomplished this Summer.

Throughout her swim Mrs. Corson kept on with her very free style of the crawl, and there is little doubt that she will put up a good fight against Miss Ederle if she meets her next Summer.

When she arrived in London today she received an enthusiastic reception from the American colony, which has extended many invitations to her during her short stay. She says that she feels very little effects from her exertions and, beyond the usual stiffness, thought that she would be herself again after a few days' rest.

"I could not get much rest in Dover during the last day or two," she said. "The people were terribly kind and really I do thank them. They fairly bombarded me with congratulations."

Ernst Vierkotter, the German wonder who lowered Miss Ederle's record by doing the Channel in 12 hours 43 minutes yesterday, may possibly beat his own world's record next year, but I do not think that he will be able to carry out his boast that he would swim the Channel and back.

Dover to Calais Record Still Stands.

It has now been proved beyond all doubt that the English Channel can be swum within twelve hours, but only from France to England. Records have been set up during the past months and records have been broken, but there is still a very fine record waiting to be broken, and that is the one of 21 hours 45 minutes set up by the late Captain Webb in August, 1875. Half a century has passed and his record remains unchallenged.

There is still an opportunity for a good swim to be put up from Dover to Calais, but can it be done under twenty hours? I say decidedly yes, but it will take more than twelve hours to do that trip, as the conditions are by no means the same as on the journey from Gris-Nez to Dover.

Wonderment and amazement have been caused by the fact that this year three swimmrs have crossed and it is reminiscent of the triple success in 1923, when the following successes were achieved: Sullivan, Dover to Calais, 27 hours 23 minutes; Tiraboschi, Gris-Nez to Dover, 16 hours 25 minutes, and Toth, Calais to St. Margaret's Bay, near Dover, 16 hours 54 minutes.

This year in the swimming camp at Cape Gris-Nez the opinion was freely expressed—after Miss Ederle's success—that there would be a cycle of three, and how true have the prophets been again!

Credits Feats to 25-Year Tide Study.

But how is it such marvelous swims have been accomplished and why is it that in the old days none could put up a show anything like that of the present year? The answer is that the successes of this year—yes, and the successes of 1923 and of Burgess in 1911—have been the result of a quarter century's study of the intricate tides of the Straits of Dover.

The old idea was to start the swim from the vicinity of Dover and many

CROPSEY QUITS RACE, YIELDING TO ATTACKS, FRIEND ANNOUNCES

Justice Won't Run for Governor, Due to Wadsworth Criticism of Dry Stand, It Is Said.

BUT BOOM MAY BE REVIVED

FISH SCORES WADSWORTH

Says Party Makes Enough Sacrifice to Rename Him Without Letting Him Dictate State Platform.

An intimate friend of Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey of Brooklyn, who for a week has been most prominent in the discussion of potential Republican candidates for Governor, made a statement yesterday in which he flatly declared that in view of the objection voiced by United States Senator James W. Wadsworth Jr. against a State enforcement plank in the Republican platform, Justice Cropsey would not permit his name to go before the Republican State Convention.

Justice Cropsey, when communicated with later at the Brown Health Farm, near Garrison, where he has been spending his vacation, denied he had authorized any statement on the subject of his candidacy, but did not say that the statement of his friend did not represent his views. The statement was accepted as representing his views in Republican circles and conversations with the intimate friend of the Brooklyn jurist, whose identity is known, left no doubt on the subject.

It was pointed out, however, that owing to the silent part he has played the hands of Justice Cropsey would be free if the official party attitude on State enforcement should be shown in be such as to make it possible for him to run. This may not be revealed until the convention meets.

Boom May Be Revived.

While it is generally believed among Republican leaders that Justice Cropsey is "out," suggestions came last night from some quarters to indicate that the last has not been heard of the Cropsey boom. At present the party has no wealth of Gubernatorial timber and the dry wing of the Republican organization up-State unquestionably has taken very kindly both to Justice Cropsey as a possible candidate and to his proposal that the Republican State Convention come out for State enforcement of prohibition.

The first rumbles of a storm were heard yesterday when Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of Putnam came out with a crisp denunciation of Senator Wadsworth's stand on State enforcement and a cutting comment on the sure prospect that he is to be renominated in a statement that was made public by the Congressman from Cornwall, N. Y.

"The Republican Party will be making sufficient sacrifice of its traditional stand for enforcement by renominating Senator Wadsworth without letting him dictate the platform and the candidates," Congressman Fish said.

The statement from Justice Cropsey's intimate friend was to this effect:

"Justice Cropsey will not become a candidate for the nomination. Up to this time Justice Cropsey has remained silent at the request of various prominent leaders throughout the State.

"Justice Cropsey believes the State should enforce the Eighteenth Amendment as well as all other laws. In view of Senator Wadsworth's statement, it is clear that Justice Cropsey would be forced to become a factional candidate in the State convention. He has not been a candidate and I am certain that he will not permit the use of his name upon the floor of the convention under such circumstances.

"I doubt if Justice Cropsey will make any statement about the nomination unless the existing situation changes and such a statement seems to be necessary to prevent further discussion of the Justice as a Gubernatorial candidate."

Wet-Dry Split More Acute.

There is no doubt that the talk of Justice Cropsey as a candidate for Governor and of a dry enforcement

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The severest earthquake in the history of the Azores caused considerable damage today to the city of Horta, according to a report to the State Department from Horace Remiliard, American Consul at Horta.

"Severest earthquake in history of Azores," the message read. "Many houses down, all houses suffered. Impossible to yet estimate loss of property and life. All Americans believed safe. All residents prepared to live out of doors."

Acting Secretary of State Grew immediately sent an urgent message to the American Consul at Horta asking what assistance could be given by the American Red Cross.

"Your telegram received," Mr. Grew cabled. "Express to authorities of Azores a profound sympathy of Government of United States for this shocking disaster.

"Please inform Department immediately, for the information of the Red Cross, as to whether Americans or others are destitute and what kind of supplies, if any, are most urgently needed."

Mr. Grew also sent this message to the American Legation at Lisbon:

"Please convey to the Portuguese Government the profound sympathy of the Government and the people of the United States upon terrible disaster which has befallen the Azores."

LISBON, Aug. 31.—Private and official telegrams received here today announce a destructive earthquake this morning in the Azores Archipelago.

The City of Horta on Fayal Island was reported to have been almost totally destroyed, with many persons killed and injured.

Mayor Puts Injured at 400.

LISBON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Island of Fayal is described in a message from the Mayor as "a mass of ruins, especially the City of Horta."

The injured in the earthquake are estimated by him at 400.

The Mayor's message came through after hours of silence and much anxiety over the fate of the Portuguese on the Azores Islands devastated by the quake.

The aspect of Fayal Island and the suffering of the victims, says the brief cablegram, were terrible to witness. The catastrophe defied all description.

No mention is made in the message of the number killed.

A sanitary column left for the Azores this morning on a merchant steamer commandeered by the Government. This was to be followed immediately by troops, and engineers corps and three warships.

All through the afternoon and evening the central telegraph offices in Lisbon were crowded with those having relatives or friends in the Azores, but only the most meagre information was received, indicating in itself the extent of the disaster.

Tidal Wave Sweeps Village.

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The city of Horta, capital of the Island of Fayal, in the central group of the Azores, was partly destroyed by an earthquake today.

The first shock, brief advices received here say, occurred about 11 o'clock in the morning. This was followed by a series of shocks, some of a minor nature, which affected both Fayal and the neighboring islands. They were accompanied by a tidal wave that swept the small village of Feteira.

The Governor of the Horta district, cabling to the Lisbon Government, as the island is a Portuguese possession, estimates the total casualties at about fifty. These are believed to include both killed and injured. The Governor's dispatch, however, which was sent in French, employs the term "victims," and this may possibly imply fifty killed.

A private report gave the number of killed as six, with numerous injured.

A dispatch from Horta to Lloyd's says that ten deaths are known to have occurred.

Although early dispatches stating that Horta was in ruins seem to have been exaggerated, it would appear from all reports that Horta suffered great damage, and that the people, fearing further shocks, have not returned to their homes and are living in the open.

The Portuguese Government has sent assistance by fast warships.

Coincidentally, Greece was today shaken by a strong earthquake. The entire country felt the shocks, but the damage is said not to have been great and no casualities are reported.

The Azores Islands are of volcanic origin, and at various times have been shaken by earthquakes.

Many Houses Shaken Down.

HORTA, Azores, Aug. 31 (AP).—Several minor shocks have been felt here since the first quake this morning. The village of Feteira has been severely damaged by a tidal wave.

The first violent shock occurred at 11:40 A. M. Fayal Island and neighboring islands were affected. Many houses were shaken down.

The local hospital is full of injured. The list of dead has not been compiled, but it may yet prove very heavy. Soldiers have been called out to guard the roads and the town buildings abandoned by their owners. Many houses considered earthquake-proof fell in the tremor.

At the office of the French Telegraph Cable Company here it was said that the company operated four cables via the Azores and that all were oper-

HAYS ASKS COOLIDGE FOR FILM ARCHIVES

VAULTS CAN BE SET ASIDE

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge had a long conference today with Will H. Hays, head of the motion-picture industry, relative to the Government making provisions in the $2,000,000 Archive Building for the preservation of historic films. It was indicated that the President favored such a plan and that members of Congress had expressed their belief that such pictures should be preserved in the Archive Building for the education of future generations.

According to Mr. Hays, the scientists have found a system of preserving the films for a long time and the negatives for all time. He says the signing of the Versailles Treaty can be reproduced in movies 150 years from now, and that the other historic events recorded on films in the last ten years will be available and will form an important historical collection.

President Coolidge spoke of what an education it would be if the present generation could see President Lincoln making his Gettysburg address reproduced, with all its coloring and historical characters moving on the stage as in real life.

It is proposed by the motion-picture industry to cooperate with the Government and turn over all the historic films for preservation if twenty vaults are set aside in the Archive Building to house 1,000 reels each. The space is large enough for thirty such vaults and, according to Mr. Hays, the Government would be put to little expense in maintaining the films and negatives. The latter must be kept at proper temperature, but this, he said, could be maintained at a small cost.

Mr. Hays said the first historic films made were of McKinley's inauguration. Many films were made during Roosevelt's administration, most of which were collected by the Roosevelt Memorial Association and could be placed in the vault. Other such pictures show the signing of the Versailles Treaty, Pershing's homecoming, Wilson reviewing troops, the burying of the unknown soldier and nearly all incidents of moment connected with the World War and the proceedings following it.

BULLETS HALT MOB IN TEXTILE STRIKE

SEVERAL STRUCK, ONE A BOY

Tear Bombs Hurled Earlier—National Guard Detachment Rushed to the Scene.

MANVILLE, R. I., Aug. 31 (AP).—State police fought a series of battles tonight with striking operatives of the Manville-Jenckes Company's textile plant here and their sympathizers when a crowd of 1,500 persons tried to storm the bridgehead leading to the mill. Several persons were shot and wounded.

A man tried to break through and was pushed back by the troopers. The crowd then rushed the police cordon. The troopers drove them back with tear gas bombs.

After three-quarters of an hour the fighting was still in progress, with the police occasionally hurling a bomb as further attempts to take the bridge were made.

Shortly after 9 o'clock troopers fired a volley from their revolvers into the crowd. One man ran into a store bleeding from a wound in the arm. There were probably others injured.

The bridge, which leads from Yelle Square across the Blackstone River to the mill, was unoccupied at the time, except when troopers made an occasional foray to attack the crowd, which jammed the square in a furious mob and retaliated with a bombardment of stones taken from piles brought to the bridgehead.

Troopers Fire Again.

At 9:40 o'clock troopers fired another volley of six or seven shots and one of them struck a boy in the leg. A third person, a man, was reported to have been struck. The boy was carried to a store, of which a window was shattered by another bullet. He was in a state of collapse.

Colonel Everitte St. J. Chaffee, commanding the State police, asked Adjutant General Cole for assistance, and thirty-five picked men from the 103d Field Artillery were rushed to the scene from Providence armed with revolvers and clubs. They started in trucks, accompanied by four ambulances and detachments from the 118th Medical Corps and the 152d Ambulance Company.

Commanded by Major Francis W. Rollins, they took up positions about the mill. They made no attempt to disperse the strikers and sympathizers across the bridge on the Lincoln side of the Blackstone River, the crowd late in the night dwindling to a few hundred.

List of the Injured.

Those injured in the first clashes were:

The strikers apparently were not appalled by the casualties in their ranks. They stood firm in Yelle Square, on the village side of the bridge spanning the Blackstone River and retaliated on the troopers with a bombardment of stones.

Deputy Sheriff Percy Butterfield of Providence was shot in the nose with buckshot when two men fired over the heads of the crowd from a vantage point on the hill behind. Lieutenant Baird of the State Police was struck on the foot with a heavy stone. He was carried into the mill. He was hurt at the outset of the fight.

State Senator Russell Handy of Lincoln tried to calm the crowd. Following his speech counseling abstinence from further violence, the Rev. Eustace Magnan, Curate of St. James's Church, won the crowd's attention with a fervent plea for peace. He was in part successful, for at the close of his address a number departed, and the tenseness of the situation seemed relieved.

The troopers were aided by more than a score of deputy sheriffs. It is understood that more deputies were sworn in today. An increase was also made in the number of State police guarding the street in front of the mill, where disorders have occurred almost nightly since the strike of 1,700 employes on Aug. 18. With fourteen State troopers, nearly two-thirds of the force, cooperating with the deputy sheriffs and local authorities it had been hoped to prevent gatherings such as stoned the mill last night and

Plane Service to Mont Blanc Observatory Planned by Rich Hindu Savant Who Owns It

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—Lieutenant Thoret, the French aviator, who has been engaged by Assam Dina, a Hindu millionaire, to take equipment for his observatory through the air to the summit of Mont Blanc, today made a trial trip over the great mountain, but did not drop any equipment because of the non-arrival of guides from Chamonix there.

Discussing his plans for the observatory M. Dina, whose wife was Mary Wallace Shillits of Cincinnati, Ohio, said today:

"I want to transform the observatory on Mont Blanc, which was bequeathed to me by M. Vallot, the well-known French savant, into one of the leading scientific stations in the world and then I will build on Salève Mountain, above Geneva, another observatory next year which will have the largest and most powerful telescope ever constructed."

The Salève schemie alone has already cost £1,250,000, and 400 French soldiers with the consent of the French Government have now made a road to the summit of the mountain 3,000 feet high, where the future observatory will stand. At present M. Dina's attention is confined to the observatory on Mont Blanc. He wishes to create a regular Summer aerial service to the summit, which, he explained, would enable even elderly savants to travel in comfort and without danger in order to carry on experiments at this high altitude.

As necessary scientific instruments were lacking M. Dina made arrangements to supply the Vallot observatory with them by air. Lieutenant Thoret, whom he engaged for the trip, will use a Farman machine, able to carry a load of 100 kilos, consisting of copper sheets to cover the roof of the observatory, as well as food and warm clothes. Parachutes will be attached to the freight, which will be dropped at the will of the aviator.

M. Dina intends next year to have a larger airplane constructed to bear a weight of 1,000 kilos, so that heavy scientific instruments may be carried to the observatory, which is 15,781 feet in the air. He also intends to have a special platform constructed on the ice near the summit so that airplanes can land.

More than 2,000 boys and girls returning from Summer camps in Northern New York, New England and Canada jammed the Grand Central Terminal yesterday, where they were greeted by 3,000 parents and friends.

The milling youngsters came in on special trains and sections arriving at the terminal within fifteen minutes of each other. The din was deafening, as camp leaders led their charges to designated points on the north and east sides of the gallery and in waiting rooms.

To prevent confusion, the railroad officials had placards and banners with the names of the camps suspended from the balcony rails. As far as possible the youngsters and those waiting for them were kept out of the way of other travelers.

The largest of the groups came in on special sections with the Bar Harbor and the State of Maine express. The New York Central train arriving at 6:45 in the morning carried six extra Pullmans. The campers were from Schroon Lake Camp and Camp Cayuga.

This train was followed shortly by the special over the New York, New Haven & Hartford tracks carrying youngsters from Camps Powhatan, Kineowatha Abenaki, Newpound, Ropia and Wildwood. It took seven extra cars to handle the boys and girls from this section of Maine. The train from Burlington, Vt., brought in youngsters from Camps Keewaydin, Barnard and Iroquois. Additional cars were hooked on this train for the accommodation of campers from Camp Modin and Camp Norway Pines.

Although the largest number came in on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, many of the trains arriving on the New York Central tracks carried extra parlor or Pullman cars.

It was said at the terminal that while the influx of the returning campers started Monday, the peak which began yesterday will continue today and tomorrow.

Most of the campers brought their baggage with them. Those who did not will have to wait for several days, as the baggage rooms have become jammed with incoming baggage of all sorts.

The capacities of the terminal and station baggage facilities are being taxed to the utmost by the rush of home coming vacationists, it was said, and there is always a delay at this time in getting baggage promptly from point to point.

COAL PEACE FADES AGAIN IN BRITAIN

MINERS BAR WAY TO ACCORD

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The House of Commons and the Executive Council of the Miners' Federation today threw what one newspaper described as a "coal douche" on the hopes that out of Friday's meetings of one or the other bodies would come a step toward a settlement of the coal strike. Both adjourned, leaving the situation as it was before the deadlock.

The House of Commons, which convened yesterday to extend the emergency regulations, adjourned today till Nov. 9, after five hours of talk on the coal strike, by a vote of 225 to 100.

Despite opposition by ex-Premier Ramsay MacDonald, the House at 5 o'clock adopted Winston Churchill's motion to adjourn, overriding Mr. MacDonald's amendment that the House should meet again in a week's time to consider whatever proposals might come from the national conference of miners' delegates which opens on Thursday night.

Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who led the Government forces in the absence, owing to doctors' orders, of Premier Baldwin, declared that he had no knowledge of anything justifying the idea that there would be any fundamental change in the situation during this week and that, even if it underwent some "beneficial change," the negotiations could be better conducted "without the accompaniment of heated debate in Parliament."

He expressed the hope that the miners' conference, however, would be able to accomplish something.

The Miners' Executive Council, meeting here today, by a majority of one decided not to formulate any peace proposals at the conference on Thursday. Since A. J. Cook, erstwhile fiery miners' secretary, had expressed the desire for peace proposals, it was thought that some basis for new negotiations might be forthcoming. By a majority of one he was overridden.

The meeting, however, was emphasized by a discussion between Mr. Cook and Herbert Smith, President of the Miners' Federation, who led the majority which refused to initiate a peace move.

For the House of Commons Premier Ramsay MacDonald opened the debate by offering a suggestion that negotiations for a settlement of the strike be started afresh between the miners and owners at a conference called and controlled by the Government and with an open agenda.

In his speech he accused the Government of responsibility for the deadlock, and described the Cabinet as a "very obedient and loyal sub-committee of the owners."

In reply Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland, Minister of Labor, declared that Government intervention would be useless unless the miners budge from their present position.

Ex-Premier Lloyd George spoke next in defense of Mr. MacDonald's plan, declaring that the miners had now realized that their full demands were impossible of attainment and that the time was ripe for Government intervention.

Speaking for the Government, Mr. Churchill said that it could do nothing till some definite proposal came from one side or the other, but that at present he saw nothing encouraging in the attitude of either side.

One question, he declared, on which the Government had quite definitely made up its mind, was that there was to be no further subsidy.

The Government is watching the situation, ready, he said, to deal promptly with any new phase that might arise. He stigmatized the coal dispute as the "most ignominious breakdown of British common sense that has ever been exhibited."

A million dollars will be raised in the United States for the British coal miners, according to Miss Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., who returned today on the Aquitania.

"Our mission in America on behalf of the miners has been an emphatic success," said Miss Wilkinson. "We had a fine reception everywhere we went."

She mentioned that a donation of $100 was given by the Passaic textile strikers, although they had been out of work for twenty-eight weeks, and that $1,000 was given by the International Garment Workers, though they were involved in a strike of 40,000 people.

Miss Wilkinson contended that Premier Baldwin's letter denying there was any hardship in the coal fields was the best thing that could have happened from the miners' viewpoint. It gave the newspapers something to talk about, she said. Americans were soon discussing the dispute and the delegation was able, once the public interest was excited, to follow up the Baldwin letter with the true facts of the situation.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's reply to Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Lloyd George's denunciation of the Premier's letter also had done much good, she averred.

PANGALOS AND AIDS ACCUSED OF TREASON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 31.—Professor Triantafyllopoulos, Minister of Justice, expressed the opinion yesterday that General Pangalos and his Ministers are guilty of high treason, basing his stand on data which judicial authorities will consider later.

The Pangalos régime, says the Minister of Justice, was illegal, as it was purely a de facto government. He declared it was not enough to maintain an absolute régime where might is right, but the régime must be recognised by those living under it, that is, the people must be convinced the administration is just and not merely based on violence. General Pangalos suppressed the means by which the people could express their recognition by abolishing completely the liberty to express opinion, consequently the armed rising on Aug. 22 was no more than a legitimate defence against usurpers who were neither President of the republic nor Ministers, and who would therefore be judged according to existing laws, not as Ministers but as individuals who had assumed power.

In regard to the procedure to be followed during the trial, the Minister explained that the penal laws to be applied would be those in force when the crimes were committed. It is stated from an authoritative source that the Government has decided to bring to immediate trial all who were Ministers between the date of the proclamation of the dictatorship and Aug. 22, and to deprive such Ministers of their personal rights for a definite period, to prosecute Ministers for infractions of the Constitution during their term of office and to hold them responsible in their private fortunes.

In regard to the last decision, the Minister of Justice stated the Pangalos régime had committed many crimes at the expense of the State and private individuals, for which the former ministers will be held responsible in criminal and civil actions. Consequently, private individuals who have suffered will be entitled to exact compensation from these Ministers.

ATHENS, Aug. 31 (AP).—Premier Condylis announces that his decision favoring a proportional legislative election system is final, notwithstanding the opposition of a majority of the party leaders, who have insisted on an absolute majority system. The anti-Venizelist leaders have threatened to abstain from participating in the elections unless the proportional system is employed.

Other difficulties of the new Premier include the smoothing down of ripples caused in certain army circles, where a demand is made for the retirement of officers who were the pillars upholding former Premier Pangalos, but who at the eleventh hour contributed to his overthrow by General Condylis.

The position of General Condylis is that these officers were "merely backing the wrong horse and ran the risks of revolt." This, he says, constituted a patriotic act which brother officers should not ignore.

SCHOOLGIRLS REINSTATED.

Hackensack Board Withdraws Its Threat to Expel Sorority Members.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Aug. 31.—The Hackensack Board of Education at a special meeting tonight withdrew its threat of expulsion made against twelve high school girls on the ground that they had formed a secret society, and agreed to allow them to return to school as usual in the Fall.

Last July a photograph of the girls with the story of the organization of Beta Sigma Phi appeared in a New York newspaper. Soon after its publication the Board of Education notified the girls to appear before it on Sept. 2 to answer charges of having violated the Dater law, which prohibits high school students from forming secret societies.

The special hearing tonight was attended only by the pupils, their parents, members of the School Board and attorneys for both sides. The meeting was called after parents of the girls threatened with expulsion had announced they would fight the case in the courts, on the ground that the girls had disbanded their organization on March 30. Miss Margaret de Baun, Secretary of the now defunct society, produced minutes of the organization at the meeting to prove this contention.

The girls who were members of the society were Glenna Conklin, Virginia Smith, Helen Mathis, Carol Zeig, Elsa Flanagan, Ruth Forster, Lucille Shiviler, Margaret de Baun, Amy Dunkaupt, Virginia Yancy, Martha Kingman and Frances Chamberlain. Their attorney was Wendel J. Wright. The board had for counsel Herman Vanderwart.

MRS. CORSON TO GET A NOVEL RECEPTION

PARADE ON FIFTH AVENUE

From indications yesterday the reception in this city of Mrs. Clemington Corson (Mlle. Gade), second American woman to swim the English Channel, will be different from that received by Gertrude Ederle, although it may prove fully as enthusiastic. Mrs. Corson is to arrive on Friday, Sept. 10, on the Aquitania.

Tentative arrangements being made by Arch Selwyn, Mrs. Corson's manager, contemplate the taking of Mrs. Corson from the liner, either on a hydroplane or an eagle boat. She will not land at the Battery, but will go directly to the naval militia training ship Illinois, anchored off the foot of Ninety-sixth Street in the North River. There she will be greeted by the naval militia, possibly 500 members, and by her personal friends. The affair will be of a semi-private nature.

Later the trip to City Hall for the formal public reception is to be made in automobiles. Mrs. Corson and her escort are expected to reach the City Hall about 2 o'clock, the time depending on the arrival of the Aquitania. At the City Hall the Reception Committee now being formed will take charge of affairs, and following the ceremonies and the formal greeting by Mayor Walker there will be a parade, probably up Fifth Avenue, and thence again to the Illinois.

Mothers Will Parade.

In this way there will be no similarity to the public greeting to Miss Ederle in lower Broadway. It seemed probable yesterday that the parade following the City Hall reception might assume substantial proportions, as many Scandanavian societies have asked for the privilege of marching, Mrs. Corson being of Danish birth. The Mothers' Association of New York, with a membership of 200,000, is scheduled to take part, and many of Mrs. Corson's former pupils, now members of the Police and Fire Departments, will be in line, dressed in white trousers and swimming shirts, according to Mr. Selwyn.

No official sanction for the participation of any branch of the navy has been obtained as yet, but it is hoped that two destroyers will act as escort on the journey from the liner up the North River, and that navy airplanes will meet the ship and accompany either the hydroplane or the eagle boat.

Cablegrams printed yesterday morning indicated that Mrs. Corson would not return to this country until October, as she intended going to Denmark first. Mr. Selwyn had been informed of these plans and cabled Mrs. Corson it would be better if she returned as soon as possible. He received an answer early yesterday saying accommodations had been engaged and she would return on the Aquitania. He also said that Mrs. Corson was to be at the Pavilion Theatre in London last night, with Will Rogers and the Prince of Wales.

Mr. Selwyn announced that he had been offered a contract for Mrs. Corson to appear in combination motion picture and vaudeville houses, calling for the payment to her of $100,000, and that he would accept the offer. He explained that the swimmer had already planned an act, knowing, he said, that she would succeed in her attempt to swim the Channel. He did not go into the details of the offer, but said he had it in mind to offer Miss Clare Belle Barrett of Pelham Manor, who had not been fortunate enough to make the Channel crossing, a part in Mrs. Corson's swimming act.

Miss Ederle Thanks President.

No further challenges were exchanged yesterday, following the reply sent to Mr. Selwyn by Dudley Field Malone, representing Miss Ederle. Mr. Malone was out of the city. It was learned that Miss Ederle had written to President Coolidge, thanking him for his message of congratulation. Miss Ederle's letter follows:

Dear President Coolidge:

It was so charming and thoughtful of you to send me your message of congratulation when I arrived on the Berengaria and it gave me an honor I had never dreamed of getting.

Over there at Cape Gris-Nez there were swimmers from all the nations, Russian, German, French, English, Egyptian and even Japanese, and I made my swim with the thought alone of bringing the honor to my country.

So you see how happy it makes me for you to be thinking of me when I arrived.

Respectfully yours,

GERTRUDE EDERLE.

On behalf of the family of Mrs. Corson denial was made yesterday that any of her relatives had attempted to belittle the Ederle accomplishment in any way. L. B. Sharp of Staten Island, a nephew, said that none of Mrs. Corson's relatives had made any statement of the sort and added:

"Miss Ederle is entitled to the greatest credit for what she did and members of the family who are in touch with Mrs. Corson know that is the way she feels about it and that not for anything would she belittle what Miss Ederle did. As to Miss Ederle being the undisputed champion, that is something that remains to be seen."

TOWN CHEERS MISS EDERLE.

Highlands, N. J., Celebrates in Honor of Channel Swimmer.

Special to The New York Times.

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Aug. 31.—Gertrude Ederle returned today from her Channel triumph to this little seashore town where she first learned to swim and where she has spent her Summers ever since she was a little child.

Thousands of Summer residents of the Jersey coast joined her neighbors and friends in welcoming her, with a colorful parade and a joyous celebration which lasted far into the night. Miss Ederle led the procession herself at the wheel of the bright red roadster which she won as a prize for her Channel swim.

She was dressed in a trim tan sport suit, with a collar and necktie, and wore some of her swimming medals on her coat lapel. Her hat was of bright red felt, matching the color of her automobile, which was laden with bouquets of flowers and streamers of confetti thrown by the crowds.

Behind her rode her father and mother, "Pop" and "Mama" Ederle. Mr. Ederle waving a small American flag lustily at the crowds which lined the parade route. After them came local and State officials in gayly decorated automobiles, while a band blared, hundreds of flags and banners fluttered in the breeze and auto horns and sirens shrieked an incessant greeting.

Twenty pieces of fire apparatus rolled along in the parade, gayly festooned in honor of Miss Ederle's homecoming. They came from all parts of Monmouth County, one coming from as far away as Freehold and others from Elberon, Long Branch and other towns along the Jersey coast.

The parade began at Cherry Tree Farm, near Middletown, eight miles outside Highlands. Fourteen "bombs," one for each hour of her Channel crossing, were fired at the start as a signal that the procession was under way. Just outside Highlands a triumphal arch of green foliage spanned the roadway, while banners and signs proclaimed "Highlands Welcomes You, Trudy" and "Highlands Is Proud of You." At every cottage and hotel a knot of people stood, waving flags and shouting in greeting.

The crowds closed in around Miss Ederle's car as she arrived at the reviewing stand, where United States Senator Edward I. Edwards and other officials were waiting to welcome her on behalf of the State of New Jersey. She smiled as Mayor John L. Ostermann gave her a huge key to the Highlands, and still more broadly when he gave her a diamond-studded wrist watch of platinum, the gift of Highlands townspeople.

Happy as she was at the reception, Miss Ederle was even happier when, late in the afternoon, she found an opportunity to swim for an hour and a half with her father in the Shrewsbury River. These are the waters where she first learned to swim, and where she won her first swimming races, long before she dreamed of swimming the English Channel.

In the evening there was a dinner which a citizens' committee had arranged in Miss Ederle's honor at McGuire's Hotel. It was a friendly, neighborly party with no speeches, to Miss Ederle's delight. Only friends and neighbors were there.

Navy Cannot Salute Swimmer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Clementine Corson will not be accorded a naval salute nor be met by warships upon her return to the United States, officials of the Navy Department said today, explaining that such action would not be possible under naval regulations which prescribe the particular occasion for such ceremonials.

While wishing in no way to depreciate the achievement of Mrs. Corson in conquering the Channel, officials pointed out that naval salutes are only given on occasions such as the visit of royalty or chiefs of State, on national holidays or as a courtesy toward fleets of other powers on certain prescribed occasions based on international etiquette. But they saw no objection to any plans or celebration which may be contemplated in New York by such officers or men of the navy as may be able to welcome the returning swimmer, who was a former instructor on the militia training ship Illinois.

SULLIVAN CHALLENGES ALL.

1923 Channel Victor Asks Long Distance Test in Atlantic.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—An open challenge to all swimmers, masculine and feminine, was issued today by Henry F. Sullivan of Lowell, who swam the English Channel in 1923.

Sullivan, who claims the world's long-distance swimming championship, calls for a long-distance test off the Atlantic Coast. Each contestant would be required to deposit $1,000, the winner to take all.

Sullivan, Burgess and Webb are the only three men who ever swam the Channel from the Dover side. It has been claimed that this swim is more difficult than the France to England swim because of the Channel currents.

The challenger is thirty-four years old, stands five feet, six and a half inches tall, and weighs 226 pounds. His average speed in the water is two miles an hour.

CALAIS, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—Ernst Vierkoetter, the German swimmer, who yesterday broke the record for the English Channel crossing, declared today that he was ready to accept Gertrude Ederle's challenge for a match race across the Channel next year.

Vierkoetter, who has postponed his departure for home until tomorrow, said he had already retained a tug for next season.

Kahanamoka Disdains Swim Prize.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31 (AP).—His amateur standing and the privilege of entering the next Olympic games for a crack at the crown he lost to Johnny Weissmuller mean more to Duke Kahanamoka, three times Olympic champion swimmer, than a $25,000 prize. The Hawaiian announced here today that he would attempt to swim the channel between Santa Catalina Island and the California mainland three weeks hence, but would not swim for the $25,000 Wrigley purse, as that would make him a professional.

30 Bystanders Hurt by Auto Explosion After Two Men Are Taken From Wreck

PASSAIC, N. J., Aug. 31.—Thirty persons were hurt here today when an automobile, driven by Andrew Pitney of Passaic, was overturned by a collision with a motor truck at Passaic and Aycrigg Avenues, and an explosion sprayed metal in all directions. Pitney and R. H. Brown, his companion in the automobile, were taken to the Passaic General Hospital. The others were treated on the scene and went home, being only slightly hurt. They were passersby and bystanders.

When the automobile was overturned many persons ran to get Pitney and Brown from under the automobile. The accident attracted more than a hundred onlookers. As they stood by the wreck, gasoline leaked out upon the street and formed a pool under the automobile. Suddenly there was an explosion and pieces of steel were hurled about, many striking the crowd. All those injured in this way refused to go to the hospital.

JARDINE DECLARES AGRICULTURE SOUND

Urges Cooperative Marketing to Put the Industry on a Business Basis.

WEST GETS ON ITS FEET

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—There is nothing unsound in the principle of cooperative marketing and it is the only remedy for the establishment of agriculture on a sound, progressive and businesslike basis, was declared by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine before 3,000 Farm Bureau representatives and State agriculturists at the State Fair grounds this afternoon.

"I am not here to give the New York State farmer advice about agriculture," he said, "as my knowledge and training in the work was received from professors trained in New York State colleges, Cornell in particular.

"You have many advantages here which we do not realize out in the West. Right now the swing of the pendulum in agriculture is from the West to the East. After the Civil War we set to work to open up and settle the West. There were vast acres of rich land which could be had for practically nothing."

The natural outcome of this, Secretary Jardine pointed out, was that with the unlimited development of the farm lands, products were so plentiful that their very cheapness almost put the Eastern farmers out of business. Then he called attention to how cheap food and cheap labor from immigration led to the immense industrial development in the East, producing in turn a greater population, with the result that now the East is the greatest market for agricultural products in the world, while the increase in freight rates has made it difficult for the Western farmer to compete with the Eastern farmer.

Says Agriculture Recovered.

Secretary Jardine emphasized the recovery of the country's agriculture after the collapse of the war markets, and he expressed the belief that the future of the American farmer and business in general ar particularly bright in view of the good crops that are coming and in view of the fact that production has been cut down to somewhere near the proportion of the nation's needs.

"The end of the war, which found American farmers, as well as all other business, suffering from overproduction, caused a general comedown all over," said Mr. Jardine. "We went down in proportion to the effectiveness of our organizations. Steel companies and such highly organized industries could readjust themselves to meet new conditions quickly. Within thirty days they could accomplish what it would take the different agricultural enterprises months to do. Where you have animals to take care of and when you have crops planted, it is not possible to make the readjustment quickly, at least eighteen months are needed, and as a consequence, agriculture went down further and staved down longer than other organized industries.

West Is Coming Back.

"But we have gone a long way in three years. Agriculture in the West is getting on its feet. We have marketed our surplus, may be at a loss, but we have marketed our surplus."

Wisconsin, he pointed out, did not suffer as much as the States in the wheat and corn belts because they had anchored their industry around the dairy cow, and, he declared with some force, "the dairy cow is the best friend the farmer has in the time of a crisis."

"Now the farmers there are getting on their feet. They went down. But they are coming back and, what is more, they still have their homes. These they didn't lose, though their families suffered many hardships and had to go without many things. Now prices are somewhere near the pre-war level. Feed is cheaper in comparison with the prices you are getting for your milk, and the crops throughout the country promise to be good.

"With the purchasing power of the farmers bettered after they have made their turnover on these crops, we will see business improved all along the line."

What has to be done, he declared in conclusion, to improve the agricultural situation in this country is to put agriculture on a more businesslike basis. It is a problem which big business can help to solve, and when the facts are gathered and put up to the farmer and the business man, Secretary Jardine believes the solution will be found.

"Cooperate, standardize, increase your productive power by better methods of marketing and merchandising," this, he declared, "is the only remedy I know for the ills of agriculture."

Mrs. Edward Young, President of the Home Bureau Federation, also stressed the importance of cooperation in all sorts of farm life and farm labor.

BELIEVE 300 DROWNED ON RUSSIAN STEAMER

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 31.—Three hundred victims of the Neva disaster, when the Leningrad-Kronstadt steamer Burysvestnik rammed the Mole late Sunday night and sank in fifteen minutes amid a terrible panic, are now estimated by the steamship company, which states it sold 583 passenger tickets, whereas the persons saved number fewer than 300.

The accident, which is said to be the worst in the history of Leningrad's port, occurred in the channel about half way to Kronstadt when the Burysvestnik swung sharply to port in order to avoid approaching the German steamer Greata and rammed the stone breakwater with such force that some passengers were instantly killed and others seriously wounded. The night was pitch dark and the little vessel was overcrowded with holidaymakers—Kronstadt officials, sailors, dockworkers and their families, returning from a week-end in the former capital. There was one small lifeboat, 172 cork vests and fifty-five lifebelts.

The post was deserted, and as the vessel slowly slid stern foremost down thirty feet to the bottom the frantic crowd on deck was left to sink or swim, except a few lucky ones who were able to cling to the single funnel and mast. Scores perished miserably below, unable to escape from the restaurant and private cabins, one of which was occupied by the wife and two children of the captain, who managed to cling to the funnel until rescued.

Later reports state the captain was not in charge of the ship, which was commanded by the first officer and that the key of his locked cabin was in his pocket, which raises an ugly question.

Apparently few at first realised the gravity of their danger and when the ship suddenly began to sink the sudden panic was uncontrollable. On the other hand, the conduct of a sailor from the Russian battleship Marat throws a ray of heroic light on the dark picture. As soon as he felt the shock he dashed to the engine room, buffeting his way past terrified engineers and firemen and turned off the steam cocks, averting an explosion of the boilers.

The news reached Kronstadt in the early hours of the morning and the dock was soon besieged by an anxious crowd whose agony was increased by the arrival of only two or three boatloads of survivors, the majority having been transferred to Leningrad. All through yesterday the breakwater above the scene of the disaster was a dense mass of people watching the divers bringing up bodies. At intervals there were screams as women recognised their husbands. Then again came the dreadful silence of waiting.

COUNCIL SEAT COMPROMISE.

Drafting Committee's Report Is Expected to Be Adopted Today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—A compromise plan which would re-establish the eligibility of three Council members at the time of their election this month was agreed on late this evening by the Special Drafting Committee of the Commission on Composition of the Council. At future elections the eligibility of Council members for re-election will be decided only at the expiration of their mandates.

This plan retains all the other points of the Fromageot scheme which was drafted in consultation with London and Berlin, and will unquestionably be adopted at tomorrow's plenary meeting of the committee. Whether it will meet the demands of Spain is, however, another matter. The revised plans will assure Spain another six years on the Council, and there is no doubt that if Primo de Rivera will accept this considerable term of Council membership he will earn good-will for his country for even more permanent representation.

Spain would be assured of practical permanence without, however, full recognition yet of what she is seeking—classification as a first class power. At the June meeting of the Council Spain's representative read a communication from his Government saying Spain could not accept a decision which discriminated against her as a first class power. This she has been unable to secure. Even Primo de Rivera, however, seems aware that the diplomatic prestige which even temporary membership on the Council has given Spain has a usefulness which it would be unwise for him in his present somewhat shaky position to reject.

Here already there are indications that this will be the attitude of the Spanish Directorate, which is fully aware that all political parties in Spain, whatever their internal quarrels, believe in the usefulness of Spain's membership in the League and will continue it if and when the Directorate ever falls from power.

The plan of M. Fromageot, the French delegate, it is understood, represents the maximum which Germany is willing to concede in order to keep Spain in the League. It is understood also that Italy—despite Signor Sciaioja's criticism yesterday—is not opposed to it. Italy, indeed, seems likely to urge Spain to accept this settlement, which gives her practical, if not moral, satisfaction.

Opposition comes from small nations led by Sweden. At this morning's meeting of the Drafting Committee, these nations wanted all seats made semi-permanent, a proposal which would have destroyed the whole scheme. England and France flatly refused to listen to such a proposition and declared they could not consider making more than three seats eligible for re-election.

Here again a difficult problem presents itself. Two semi-permanent seats are being created for Spain and Poland. To whom should the third be given? There are many applicants for the post but the big powers seem to wish to keep the choice undecided till a later date. In doing so they appear to wish to offer temptation to Brasil and perhaps to hasten her expected return.

Ambassador Palacios of Spain said tonight that his Government was reserving all decisions regarding the League and had not yet decided whether it would send a representative to the Spanish seat in the Council or its delegation to the Assembly meeting. It would reach a decision after the Reorganization Committee had drawn up its report.

COUNCIL ISSUE ADJUSTED.

Subcommittee Adopts Cecil Plan With Slight Modification.

GENEVA, Aug. 31 (AP).—The subcommittee of the commission charged with examining into the reorganization of the League Council after a six-hour discussion today finally adopted Lord Cecil's scheme with slight modifications. This is calculated to satisfy the aspirations of Spain and Poland for semi-permanent seats in the Council, of which the tenure is three years. The subcommittee will report to the full committee at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Another delegate pointed out that the Assembly, under the draft approved by the subcommittee, can by a two-thirds vote give re-eligibility to any non-permanent member of the Council whose term expires in 1926 and that the Assembly this year can also by the same vote endow the new non-permanent members with re-eligibility in advance.

Hereafter, however, the re-eligibility of outgoing non-permanent members of the Council will be voted on by the Assembly only after the expiration of their three-year mandate.

Lord Cecil, author of the original plan propounded last May, informed The Associated Press that he was highly satisfied with the accord arrived at. It was learned that formal adoption of the Cecil-Fromageot compromise was greeted with applause by all the members of the subcommittee.

M. Sokal, Poland's representative on the subcommittee, declined to state whether the accord satisfied Poland's aspirations, but M. de Brockere of Belgium expressed the opinion that both Poland and Spain should be content with the solution reached, as it met their desires.

EXPERT SAYS 'CRAWL' CONQUERED CHANNEL

By ALEC RUTHERFORD,

were the attempts from the beach under the celebrated Shakespeare Cliff, west of Dover, or from St. Margaret's Bay, nearer the North Sea.

What would have happened in the early part of this century if Wolffe or Holbein or Horace Mew or Ted Heaton or Mearn or Frank Stearn and even Burgess had had the advantage of the experience gained on those early swims?

These pioneers of cross-Channel swimming were, practically speaking, entirely in the dark as to the means of surmounting the difficulties of the tides of the Channel. Carefully worked out plans were put into operation and swimmers started again and again from various points, but always had to give up.

In later years we had one or two attempts from the French coast and I well remember Wolffe starting away from the shore at Wimereaux, about fifteen miles westward of Gris-Nez, but, if I may use the term, he was hopelessly at sea.

Hails Burgess's "Ederle Course."

How many thousands of pounds have been spent by these pioneers? A fortune was spent on the Channel in those days and now the present generation is having benefit of the terrible, gruelling hours of those old-time swimmers in their vain attempts to reach the opposite coast.

We must take off our hats to Bill Burgess, the conqueror of the Channel in 1911, for it is to him that credit must be given for finding the "Ederle Course," as the track of successful swimmers from France should now be called.

Never was a man happier than Bill when he was pottering about in the sea at Gris-Nez, where for some years he had spent his Summers, and his time was not wasted. It was first thought that an ideal course would be from the rocks underneath the lighthouse at Gris-Nez, where Miss Ederle started her first swim this year and where other unsuccessful attempts were started.

It was last year that Burgess told me that he was puzzled as to the run of the tides at Gris-Nez, for he was ever a conscientious trainer. It was during last August that Miss Harrison, the Argentine swimmer, made two unsuccessful starts, but her last attempt was made from a different position—from the sandy beach at the Cape. This was the result of Burgess's personal experience.

How Burgess Learned Ways of Tide.

We often chatted over the ways and means for ascertaining this difficult course. Time after time Burgess would go for a long swim of different periods of the tide—and some people thought that his actions were sheer madness. But it was not so.

"I must find that starting place," he said to me last year.

After his many swims he always made a careful note on a chart as to the direction of the tide at various hours and how the swimmer was carried either eastward or westward.

I well remember the occasion when Mme. Sion put up her record swim of over twelve hours last year. She was accompanied by a Calais tug and, when she started from the rocks, Bill Burgess could not be found. As we had had no intimation of the exact time of the start, it was naturally thought that Bill was still in bed. He was not.

Instead, Bill had turned out in his swimming costume and had entered the sea from the beach a short time before. Nobody realised that Burgess was in the water, and quite by accident, about two hours later, Miss Harrison, who was on the tug accompanying Mme. Sion, noticed something bobbing about on the water about a mile astern. She drew the attention of others to this, and then it was seen that the man was swimming toward the tug, and a small boat, rowing back, picked up Burgess.

On his return to shore the next day Burgess told me that he thought he had solved the riddle of the tides. He worked on his theory and it has proved to be correct.

Discloses the Ederle Course.

As a result, practically all of the swims since that date have started 4 hours 20 minutes from high water, and—I will now divulge the secret of the course—theoretically the course is as follows: 20 minutes off shore due north, then 2 hours to the northwest, then steer north-northwest, quarter north, for about 7 hours.

Then it is time for the trainer to look around and work out his position according to the staying power or speed of the swimmer—possibly it is a case of altering your course again and steering northwest. But you must always know what your swimmer can do. You must always know his speed and whether there is a little energy in reserve to carry the swimmer over a possible difficult position for, say, quarter to half an hour, and thus gain a suitable inset of the tide.

By taking this course the swimmer at the end of twenty minutes should be straight off Gris Nez, the distance being dependent upon the speed of the swimmer, then two hours northwest would take the swimmer three or four miles west of Gris Nez, while seven hours of the flood tide should result in a position about three miles eastward of South Goodwin Lightship.

The faster the swimmer the closer one would be to South Goodwin Lightship, as was the case in the three recent successful attempts.

That is the "Ederle course," and I have worked it out repeatedly with Burgess in an endeavor to find a flaw, but I must say that it is as yet the most perfect course.

Advice to Future Channel Aspirants.

There may be, however, slight variations to be made as to the hour of the start, should there be a strong wind blowing, as when Miss Cannon made her abortive attempt.

And speaking of Miss Cannon, I wish again to emphasize that her party were very ill advised to put her into the water when there was such a high sea running. The swimmer is human, and the very sight of the sea on that occasion must have had considerable effect on her nervous system.

The start, one might say, was in sheer desperation, emphasized by the fact that Miss Cannon's party had become bored with the life at Gris-Nez, and it must be borne in mind that that start was directly contrary to the opinions and instructions of Burgess, who acted in an advisory capacity during the latter part of Miss Cannon's training.

My advice to all aspirants is: Find your best trainer for the Channel and see that he is a man thoroughly conversant with the tides of the Straits of Dover. The top-liners are Bill Burgess and Jabez Wolffe.

Newly Found Tide Kept Secret.

I should like, in conclusion, to make a further allusion to an attempt to swim the Channel from England to France. There is a splendid opportunity for a fresh record to be set up—and it can be done.

It is a remarkable fact that only this year has there been discovered what is believed to be an ideal tide. Swimmers have sought it for years and it is marked on the charts, but the swimming pilots have not found it.

But this tide has been discovered and it is smooth. I regret that I cannot divulge more than the fact that there is a tide, taken at a certain time, which gets the swimmer off just beyond Goodwin Sands in time to catch the fast run of water which goes straight across the Channel to a position east of Calais. I could say more, but it would be unfair to a second party.

It is hoped that the recent achievements will once and for all set at rest all doubts at rest as to Miss Ederle's magnificent performance. She was lucky in that she discovered an ideal course. She was a fast and powerful swimmer and she received no outside assistance.

I am ready to answer any clear and lucid statement to the contrary and I have experiences of over a quarter of a century's Channel swimming under all conditions—and they could not be worse during the first three weeks of August.

French of Calais Honor Vierkoetter.

CALAIS, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—War antagonisms were forgotten today when the German swimmer, Ernst Vierkoetter, was received by the municipal authorities and got the unreserved plaudits of the whole city for his record-breaking Channel crossing of yesterday.

The climax of the reception came when Mayor Leon Vincent presented Vierkoetter with a medal commemorating the feat, and the Frenchmen of Calais drank the German's health in champagne.

SEIZED AS SWINDLER IN FOREIGN MONEY

HUNTED MANY MONTHS

Other Investors Are Said to Have Lost $100,000—Arrests Followed Investigation by State.

Louis Franko, 27 years old, who said he was a real estate investor, and gave the address 395 Riverside Drive, was locked in Police Headquarters last evening by Detective Dugan of the West Forty-seventh Street Station in connection with the theft of $38,000 from James Reap, formerly the Sheriff of Scranton, Pa. Reap was alleged to have given Franko money and collateral for the purchase of Italian lire in foreign exchange May 1, 1925, in Franko's office at 45 West Forty-fifth Street.

Reap appeared in January as complainant against Reginald Franko, a brother of the man arrested yesterday, who lived at the Carlton Terrace Hotel, Broadway and 100th Street, and Harry Bloom of 744 Beck Street, the Bronx. Bloom later was discharged by Magistrate August Dreyer, but Reginald Franko was held in $20,000 bail for the action of the Grand Jury on a larceny charge.

Says He Invested $38,000.

Reap's charge followed an investigation of the J. Livingston Block Company at the Forty-fifth Street address by Deputy Attorney General Keyes Winter, head of Attorney General Albert Ottinger's Bureau of Commercial Frauds at 66 Broadway. The former Sheriff said that he was induced to invest $28,000 in money and $10,000 in stock of the Plymouth Lead Company when told that huge sums could be made through investment in foreign exchange.

He previously had received a communication from the J. Livingston Block Company at his home in Scranton, he said, outlining a scheme by which advantage could be taken of the fall in European exchange. Two men called on him at his office in Scranton following the receipt of the communication, he added, and induced him to visit the West Forty-fifth Street offices.

Reginald Franko and another man, he added, called on him at his Scranton office after he had parted with the money and stock, he said, and tried to get him to "invest" more money, but he declined. When he had received no word from the men in two months, Reap said, he decided to investigate. He came here and called at the office in which he had handed over the money, but discovered that the J. Livingston Block Company had vanished.

It was understood that the search for Louis Franko had been on from the time Reap told of his experience to Mr. Winter. He was found in an office in upper Broadway yesterday by State Trooper Lord, who is attached to the Attorney General's office. Lord took him to the Bureau of Commercial Frauds, where he was questioned for some time before Detective Dugan was called and placed him under arrest on the former sheriff's charge.

Other persons were reported to have entrusted to persons connected with the West Forty-fifth Street office sums aggregating more than $100,000.

Franko told the detective that he knew nothing about the charge lodged by Reap.

SLAIN HUSBAND DENOUNCED

Court to Investigate Before Sentencing Woman Who Shot Mate.

Mrs. Rose Ferreri, 27 years old, of 121 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn, who shot and killed her husband on Aug. 6, pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter in the first degree yesterday and was remanded to Raymond Street jail until Friday for sentence by County Judge Algernon L. Nova in Brooklyn.

Judge Nova said to the woman, who was in tears: "Your act is to be condemned, but perhaps the provocation was there to make you desperate. From what I have learned, the one you killed could not be called a man and was even lower than a parasite."

He assured her he would make a thorough investigation of the slaying.

Mrs. Ferreri killed her husband in front of a pawnshop at 705 Grand Street, Brooklyn, where she said he had just pawned her wedding ring. She disappeared but was found a week later. She said her husband had forced her to walk the streets and treated her inhumanly.

400 LIBRARY CARDS DENIED.

Trustees' Ruling in Queens Branch Bars New Borrowers.

More than 400 Long Island City children, who applied for library cards, have been barred from borrowing books from the Nelson branch of the Queens Borough Public Library since June, when a ruling of the Board of Trustees suspended registration of new borrowers.

The Trustees' action is said to have resulted from the refusal of the Board of Estimate to grant sufficient money for the employment of additional clerks in the library. Several civic organizations are expected to try to cause the Trustees to alter their ruling this Fall.

SERVE BELAIR COURT WITH SYMINGTON WRIT

Maryland Judge Says New York Injunction Will Be Given All Proper Courtesy.

Special to The New York Times.

BELAIR, Md., Aug. 31.—Judge Walter W. Preston, before resumption of testimony here today in the suit for absolute divorce brought by Thomas H. Symington, New York and Baltimore millionaire, against Mrs. Ida May Symington, issued a statement calling attention to papers served upon him by Mrs. Symington's New York attorney in connection with an injunction issued by New York courts against continuation of the divorce suit.

Before opening of the court room, a private detective attempted to serve Mr. Symington with the injunction proceedings of the New York court. Mr. Symington refused to talk with the detective, who threw the papers at his feet. Mr. Symington walked away. The detective later picked up the papers.

Judge Preston said:

"This court and, I am sure, the other courts of Maryland, stand ever ready to give deference and comity to all regularly established tribunals for the administration of justice and, with reference to this case now on trial, the most careful consideration will be given the questions of the effect of the complainant having invoked the aid of the New York court, and to it will be accorded with scrupulous care all proper courtesy and respect."

Three witnesses testified today. They were Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, head of the New York State Board of Health; Dr. Edward S. Pope, Superintendent of the Midtown Hospital, and Edward Hackett, an elevator operator in a New York apartment house where Mrs. Symington lived in 1924.

As a reason why he tried to have his first divorce suit tried in New York, Symington said he was told no publicity would attend it there.

"I wanted to save my wife and daughter as much as possible," he related under examination by Judge Preston.

He said he found later it was impossible to get a fair trial in New York, that his witnesses were browbeaten and two were jailed.

Dr. Wynne testified to treating Symington in April, 1924, saying he was in a highly nervous condition and on one occasion fainted.

SENT AWAY ON OLD CHARGE.

Gunman Was Gambler's Guard, His Lawyer Tells Court.

A sentence of from two years and three months to four years and six months was imposed yesterday in General Sessions on James McCurdy, a gunman, when he pleaded guilty before Judge Koenig to carrying a loaded pistol at Tenth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street on May 23, 1925. McCurdy was rearrested a month ago, after having forfeited $5,000 bail on the charge made by Detective John F. Fitzsimmons. He previously had been sent to the House of Refuge, the workhouse and the penitentiary for various crimes.

In asking the Court for clemency, McCurdy's lawyer, Frederick Sullivan, said:

"The defendant was employed by a prominent gambling house proprietor in this city as a guard to accompany him to the bank each day with the profits of the game and to protect patrons, who won large sums in the place, on the way to their homes."

RITCHIE GETS OLD PAINTING

Maryland Governor Adds Portrait of Lady Arundel to Collection.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 31.—Governor Albert Ritchie has just bought for the collection of Colonial historical pictures in the Senate Chamber of the State House in Annapolis, in which Washington resigned his commission in the army, a three-quarter length life size portrait of Lady Anne Arundel, wife of Cecilius Calvert, second Lord Baltimore.

Lady Anne Arundel was the daughter of Earl of Arundel. Anne Arundel Town was named in her honor, but in 1695 the name was changed to Annapolis, in honor of Princess Anne, daughter of James II and later Queen.

Governor Ritchie purchased the portrait from Charles Newman, a London art dealer. The canvas is done in oil and is more than 200 years old. It was executed by Michale Dahl, a Swiss artist, who enjoyed the patronage of the court.

The painting is the third notable portrait bought by the Governor within a year for the collection. The first was a likeness of Queen Henrietta Maria, by Mytens, royal court painter, preceding Van Dyke. The second was the portrait of King Charles I by one of Van Dyke's pupils.

RECALLS CYCLOPS MYSTERY

Message Found in Bottle Tells of Lost Collier Sinking.

MARSHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—Memories of the naval collier Cyclops, which disappeared without a trace in 1918, have been revived here by the discovery in a heap of seaweed of a message in a sealed bottle. A strange feature is that the message was scratched on a scroll of birchbark. The bottle's metal cap was oxidized from exposure to the elements.

U. S. S. Cyclops is sinking. 161 men on board. 10 degrees 6 minutes — 10 degrees 20 minutes — C. P. Arm — U. S. N.

Where the dashes occur the message was undecipherable.

In a roster of the missing crew published a month after the collier vanished were two names resembling slightly the scrawled signature. One was "Arminger, George Jones, seaman, Baltimore, Md. The other was "Armstrong, Rober, boatswain's mate, Galena, Ore."

KRYL IS SUED BY NEPHEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Bohumir Kryl, noted bandmaster, was sued for $100,000 today by his nephew, Joseph M. Kryl, head of the Kryl Bridge and Crane Works. Attorneys said that the suit was an outgrowth of an old difference over money matters.

Mr. Kryl's name recently has been much before the public in connection with the announcement of the engagement of his second daughter, Josephine, who expressed her intention to marry a Greek nobleman, despite the prospect of losing $100,000 set aside for her by her father on the condition that she not marry until she was 30. Mr. Kryl's other daughter, Marie, married before she was 30.

Since Josephine's announcement Mr Kryl said that the strings to the $100,000 funds were not that his daughters forego marriage but that they continue their musical educations.

ating normally after the earthquake yesterday morning.

The company reported that many buildings had been destroyed by the tremors and at least one of the telegraph offices had been wrecked. The telegraph and cable operators on the island were too busy to give more detailed information, it was said.

Cables received from Fayal by the Western Union reported ten dead and many injured. The whole population was living out-of-town, fearing a repetition of the earthquake. Some damage, it was said, had been suffered by all the cable companies on the island, but the Western Union was working both ways.

It was also reported that the local doctors were able to take care of the situation, but that the Red Cross had been notified and may be asked to help. The cable companies were all rushing supplies.

The Western Union's new building being constructed by Stone & Webster on the island was unimpaired by the shock.

The company operates only one cable from New York to the Azores. This cable connects with a cable of the Compagnia Italiana Dei Cavi Telegrafici Sottomarini leading to Spain and Italy.

The Postal Commercial's two cables were slightly disturbed at the time of the quake, but were reported to be operating normally a few minutes later.

No tremors were recorded by the seismograph at Fordham University.

Earthquake Rocks Mexican City.

The shock was recorded at the Tacuaya seismological station.

NOTED ISLE IN OUR HISTORY.

American Privateer Beat British at Horta and Read Alighted There.

Fayal, which is the westernmost island of the central group of the Azores, is about 10 miles long and has an area of 64 square miles. It is mountainous and wooded. The centre of the island is occupied by Pico Garda, which rises to a height of 3,351 feet, and where the crater of an extinct volcano encloses a considerable lake. There are also several small volcanic mountains in the northwest of the island.

Although the water supply is deficient, Fayal is very fertile, producing grain, oranges, potatoes and onions. The pasture land is excellent. The population of the island is about 22,385, mostly of Portuguese blood.

The volcanic origin of Fayal and of the whole archipelago is obvious, and has been abundantly confirmed by numerous earthquakes and eruptions which have taken place since the discovery of the Azores. Fayal itself, however, has suffered only from one eruption, which took place in 1672.

In 1444-1445 there was a great eruption at St. Michael's and in 1522 the town of Villa Franca, at that time the capital of that island, was buried with all its 6,000 inhabitants during a violent convulsion.

In 1572 an eruption occurred in Pico; in 1580 St. George was the scene of numerous outbursts, and in 1614 a little town in Terceira was destroyed.

St. Michael's was visited with eruptions in 1650, 1652, 1656, 1755 and 1852, some of them of great violence. On various occasions subterranean eruptions have taken place in the Azores, which have sometimes been accompanied by the appearance of temporary islands.

The most remarkable of these was thrown up in June, 1811, about half a league from the western extremity of St. Michael's. It was named Sabrina by a British sailor who saw the phenomenon.

The chief port of Fayal is Horta, which has one of the safest and best harbors in the Azores. It is a place of call for ships bound for the West Indies. The town, which has a population of about 7,000, is the headquarters of the whale fishing done in those parts and is an important telegraph centre. The German submarine cable from Borkum to New York has a station there.

This port has been the scene of two outstanding exploits in American naval history, for it was there that during the War of 1812 Captain Samuel Chester Reid of the privateer brig General Armstrong beat off a boat attack from three British ships, and it was into this harbor that Lieut. Commander Albert Cushing Read brough he NC-4, the first heavier-than-air machine to cross the ocean.

Commander Read stated after the flight that he did not intend to stop at Horta, but had planned to go on to Ponta Delgada, a short distance beyond. Fog and storm, however, forced them down.

Bands from Horta serenaded the fliers, bouquets of flowers were sent out to the ship and messages were received there by radio and cable. The fliers then went on to Ponta Delgada, whence they started their flight to Lisbon.

The engagement between the American privateer and the British more than a century before this resulted in a loss to the British of not less than 120 killed and 130 wounded, while the Americans suffered a loss of two killed and seven wounded.

The Americans were hopelessly outnumbered and were forced to scuttle their brig and abandon her and the British commander completed her destruction by setting fire to her.

American Workers in Azores Safe.

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Cable advices received tonight by Stone & Webster, Inc., of Boston reported that H. C. Laville, Superintendent of Construction for the company in the Azores, and ten fellow-Americans engaged in construction work for the Western Union Telegraph Company there were safe following the severe earthquake which shook the islands today.

D. A. BURKE BECOMES OFFICIAL OF U. S. LINES

Succeeds T. H. Rossbottom Today as General Manager—Other Fleet Corporation Changes.

Announcement was made yesterday at the office of the United States Lines, 45 Broadway, that David A. Burke will today take over the duties of general manager of the organization in place of Thomas H. Rossbottom, who left yesterday to rejoin the Panama Railroad and Steamship Company.

Mr. Burke, who was appointed to the post by Brig. Gen. A. C. Dalton, President of the Fleet Corporation, said yesterday he would shortly announce several appointments required to be filled as a result of resignations effective today. He said he did not plan any drastic changes either in personnel or in the operation of vessels. He said he would attempt to fill the vacancies with employes selected from the organization. Mr. Burke was appointed assistant general manager of the United States Lines in November, 1924, and has served eight years altogether with the United States Shipping Board.

It was also announced that William Porrott would assume the duties of marine superintendent of the United States Line today, which will give him the control of the operations of vessels. Mr. Porrott served his apprenticeship in Cramp's Shipyard, Philadelphia, and was in the Naval Overseas Transport Service during the war and later became chief engineer at Hog Island. His headquarters will be in Hoboken.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 31.—The New Zealand House today adopted tariff amendments designed to give preference to British automobiles. Basic ad valorem rates for all motor vehicles are established by which British automobiles get the preferential rate of 10 per cent. and others are taxed 35 per cent.

When vehicles are imported with passenger-carrying bodies, an additional body duty is payable. The British preferential rate on bodies is 10 per cent up to a dutiable value of $1,000 and 5 per cent. on any higher value, compared with a general tariff of 15 and 7½ per cent., respectively.

These preferences will, of course, operate against American exporters, who do a big business in New Zealand.

FIND NEW RUBBER TREE.

South Africans Get Product From Latex of Euphorbia.

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP).—A Cape Town dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph says a method has been discovered by which rubber can be produced from the latex (milky fluid) of the African euphorbia tree. The rubber is said to be of a quality comparable with that produced in the Para district of Brazil.

A South African company is preparing to exploit the yield of 60,000,000 trees in the East London district. Chemical tests are said to have shown a yield of three pounds per tree. Vulcanizing appears satisfactory with the product of the tree.

The correspondent says that the trees are plentiful, labor in the district cheap and the country free from fever.

AUTOISTS IN WILD RIDE HURT FIVE IN LENOX AV.

Negro Is Shot by Policeman and Four in Car Are Injured as Fleeing Machine Upsets It.

The wild drive of two men and three women, negroes, in an automobile on Lenox Avenue at 12 o'clock last night resulted in four women being bowled over at 138th Street, a negro being shot in the leg by one of two policemen who sent a fusillade of bullets after those in the fleeing car, and the injury of two men and two women in another automobile when the fugitives overturned it at Seventh Avenue and 137th Street.

John W. Barnhart, business manager of The Daily News, of 24 Masterson Avenue, Bronxville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Harvey of Logan, Iowa, occupants of the car rammed by the fugitives, received cuts on the head and body and were attended at Harlem Hospital. Burton Heath, 24 years old, of 215 West 129th Street, struck by one of the bullets sent after the fleeing motorists by Patrolmen Kehr and Bottier of the West 135th Street station from a pursuing car, also was attended at the hospital for a slight wound. Bernice Bennett and her sister, Iona, of 54 West 119th Street, who with a fourth unidentified negro woman were struck by the fugitive car, were attended for bruises and cuts by an ambulance surgeon.

The patrolmen arrested Donald Roback, 22 years old, a negro, of 2 West 129th Street, and charged him with being an occupant of the car, after the other car had been toppled over by the crash at Seventh Avenue. He denied he was the driver of the car. The other man and the three women escaped before the policemen arrived. The policemen charged that the five came down Lenox Avenue at fifty miles an hour and plunged through a crowd of several thousand negroes who had gathered at West 138th Street to watch firemen fighting a small blaze in a tenement at 68 West 138th Street. All but the four women managed to get out of the path of the car, however, and then the two policemen began the chase.

Ask British Chamber to Change Name.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 31.—A Turkish official visited the British Chamber of Commerce this morning and handed the Secretary a written letter in which the Chamber was courteously requested to take steps to change its name within fifteen days. The reasons advanced were that Turkish law does not admit the existence of foreign Chambers of Commerce. The Secretary gave a receipt for the letter, and a few minutes later another official arrived to ask for the return of the letter.

The Secretary said this was impossible unless the receipt for the first letter was produced.

MACMILLAN VOYAGE IN SUB-ARCTIC ENDED

Bowdoin and Sachem Will Be in Home Port in Maine in Ten Days, Says Radio.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 31 (AP).—Commander Donald B. MacMillan, returning from a three months' expedition to the sub-Arctic to collect specimens for the Field Museum at Chicago, expects to be back in Christmas Cove, near Wiscasset, Me., in ten days, according to a radiogram received today by D. W. Hoegg of The Evening Express. He planned to sail today to Sydney, N. S., from Battle Harbor, Labrador, with the schooners Bowdoin and Sachem.

The message, filed yesterday with WNP, the radio station on the Bowdoin, while at Assizes Harbor, Labrador, picked up at Wilmington, N. C., and forwarded to Mr. Hoegg, was as follows:

"Bowdoin and Sachem anchored near Battle Harbor in thick fog. Sail for Sydney tomorrow. Expect to reach Christmas Cove Sept. 10. Bringing back interesting collection birds, fish and rocks for Field Museum, Chicago. All well. Regards to all our friends.

"MacMILLAN."

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 31 (AP).—How the Sachem of the MacMillan expedition nearly sailed to destruction on rocks in an Arctic fog, how the Danes living 160 miles above the Arctic Circle welcomed the first American women they had ever seen and how the Eskimos look in their native habitat was described today by Mrs. Rowe B. Metcalf of this city, homeward bound in a radiogram to The Providence Journal.

Only a rift in a heavy fog bank saved the party in Davis Strait, she said, when the vessel had drifted perilously close to the reef of an unseen island.

"In each settlement," she said, "the Danish Governors and all the Danes were very hospitable to us and did all they could to make our visit most enjoyable. Except for the Danish women, we were the only white women they had seen, as many of them could not remember Mrs. Peary."

Walrus hunting enlivened several hours of the trip, she said, and in Cyrus Field Bay a 1,500-pound walrus was harpooned.

Mrs. Metcalf and her friends, Miss Maude Fisher of New York and Marion Smith of Wiscasset, are the first white women ever to accompany a MacMillan Arctic expedition.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP).—The homeward bound MacMillan expedition has been successful in its collection of many specimens of life of the areas visited, it was said at the Field Museum today. The expedition, financed by Frederick H. Rawson, Chairman of the board of the Union Trust Company of Chicago, left Wiscasset, Me., last June.

The furthest north visited was Risko Island, off Greenland. Kenneth Rawson, 15-year-old son of the backer of the expedition, and Joseph Field, 15, the son of Stanley Field, President of the Field Museum, accompanied Commander MacMillan.

LOS ANGELES TO FLY AGAIN.

Dirigible to Return to Hampton Roads This Morning.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 31.—The naval airship Los Angeles will sail at daybreak tomorrow for Hampton Roads, Va., to tie up to the mastship Patoka and resume compass calibrations which were interrupted last night when a leak developed in the water-cooling system of Engine 3. The leak was discovered as the big ship was about to make fast to the Patoka, and as an electrical storm was approaching Lieut. Commander Charles E. Rosendahl decided to take no chances and returned to Lakehurst.

The Los Angeles arrived at the naval air station here at 4 o'clock this morning and was moored to the mast until 6:30 when the crew took her into the hangar. The engine was removed and it was discovered that some of the bronze bearings had burned out. These were replaced. By nightfall repairs had been made and the ship was in readiness for the return flight to Hampton Roads.

costumes and habits of peoples, all of great interest in future periods. The first motion picture shown was that of a serpentine dancer, produced in Koster & Beal's Music Hall in New York, April 27, 1896. This could be put in the museum as part of the historical collection.

Mr. Hays said 20,000,000 persons a day attend the 20,233 moving picture houses in the United States and paid approximately $1,000,000,000 a year at the box offices. There are 235,000 persons employed in these theatres, exclusive of the great number engaged in production of the films. According to Mr. Hays, $150,000,000 a year is spent in production. Twenty-five thousand miles of films are handled each day by the motion-picture industry in the United States.

The export of American films has become a great part of the business. In 1917, 32,000,000 lineal feet were exported. This increased to 140,000,000 feet in 1921, while last year it had risen to 235,535,000 feet.

ASKS REED INQUIRY ON LENROOT CHARGE

DENIES IT COST $30,000

Contribution Was Due to Love of Late Senator and Wish to Defeat Foe, He Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Edward Keating, editor and manager of Labor, today asked Senator James A. Reed of Missouri to convene the Senate campaign fund investigation committee immediately to investigate the charge of Senator Lenroot that a special edition of that publication costing $30,000 had been sent into Wisconsin.

Senator Lenroot, whose renomination is being vigorously opposed by Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr., a member of the campaign fund investigating committee, demanded in his Marshfield speech last night that Mr. La Follette go before the committee and tell the source of money alleged to have been spent in distributing half a million copies of Labor in Wisconsin.

Published by Railroad Unions.

Labor is a weekly newspaper published in Washington as the official organ of various associated railroad labor organizations. Its editor, Mr. Keating, was formerly a member of Congress. His telegram to Senator Reed follows:

"In a speech in Marshfield, Wis., Monday night, Senator Lenroot demanded that Senator Robert M. La Follette Jr. ask for a special meeting of your committee to ascertain who had paid for a special edition of the newspaper Labor which had been sent into Wisconsin. Senator Lenroot charged that the special edition cost $30,000 and that Senator La Follette was in some way involved in the transaction.

"While every charge made by Senator Lenroot is foolishly false, I trust you will promptly convene your committee so the voters of Wisconsin may be in possession of the facts concerning this special edition of Labor before they go to the polls next Tuesday.

"Every one connected with Labor from office boy to managing editor, is at the disposal of your committee, and of course all our books and other records are open to the inspection of your committee or of any one you may designate. The newspaper Labor is owned by the organized railroad workers of America. It has never accepted a line of paid advertising and all its expenses have been met from the money received from subscriptions.

Says Workers Paid for Edition.

"A special edition was sent into Wisconsin at the suggestion of the chief executives of the railroad labor organizations. The total cost was less than $5,000 and every penny was contributed by the organized railroad workers.

"They loved the late Senator La Follette, believed in the principles he championed, and felt that they were rendering a patriotic service in contributing to the defeat of Senator Lenroot, who had repeatedly betrayed the interests of the people of Wisconsin and of the nation.

"Senator La Follette Jr. had nothing to do with the special edition except that at our request he wrote to a number of Progressives in Wisconsin, stating that we were prepared to supply them with copies of the special edition if they would undertake to be responsible for their proper distribution.

"As I have stated, those of us who are associated with the publication of Labor are prepared to testify under oath to the foregoing as soon as your committee will afford us the opportunity.

"Senator Lenroot is fighting desperately to avoid the defeat which he so richly deserves, and this charge concerning the special edition of Labor is only one of many canards which he is giving currency in an effort to deceive and mislead the Progressive voters of Wisconsin."

BUFFALO DRY AGENT IS OUT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The resignation of Eugene C. Roberts, New York prohibition administrator with headquarters at Buffalo, was announced today by General Lincoln C. Andrews. The vacancy will be filled temporarily by J. S. McGovern, counsel at Buffalo. Just when a permanent appointment will be made was not disclosed.

General Andrews failed to comment on the charge made by Administrator Roberts some weeks ago that no serious effort was being made to enforce the prohibition laws.

Mr. Roberts was appointed to the Buffalo office about the time the Andrews plan for reorganization was made effective last October. The subject of the resignation was discussed over the telephone last night by General Andrews and Mr. Roberts and resulted in the formal announcement made this afternoon.

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO REED.

Home-Town Democrats in Missouri Nominate Senator for President.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Democratic committee of the Congressional district, which includes Kansas City, today adopted a resolution pledging support to United States Senator James A. Reed as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1928. Kansas City is his home town.

The Senator's service as Chairman of the Senate committee investigating election expenditures was recognized through this reference in the resolution:

"He has a horror of corruption in whatever guise it may appear, whether in the giving of bribes or in the buying of elections."

NEW JERSEY AT EXPOSITION.

State Sends Official Delegation, Which Is Welcomed by Kendrick.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31 (AP).—New Jersey Day was celebrated today at the Sesquicentennial Exposition by thousands of citizens from that State, headed by Governor A. Harry Moore.

The Governor was escorted to the middle of the Delaware River Bridge by a detachment of New Jersey State police. Philadelphia police met the party at the State line and escorted it to City Hall, where the New Jersey men were received by Mayor Kendrick.

Passing the New Jersey Building, which is at the extreme southern end of the grounds, the party proceeded to the Navy Yard, where the Governor was tendered a reception by officers of the U. S. S. Trenton.

FIVE ARE HURT IN DAY AT PEEKSKILL CAMP

Three Guardsmen Receive Powder Burns, Another Nearly Drowns —Captain Thrown by Horse.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 31.—A number of minor casualties combined today to give a warlike atmosphere to the activities of the Fourteenth Regiment in camp here.

While acting as enemy troops in working out a battle problem, three guardsmen got in the line of fire and were burned by the cardboard wadding of blank cartridges used by the troops. They were Private Stanley Miller, Corporal Robert Morson, both of Company A, and Sergeant L. T. Francis of Company F. They were treated by Major Lewis Adams, regimental surgeon.

Captain Walter H. Mullins of Company H was heavily thrown on Bear Mountain Bridge Road when his horse, after bolting at breakneck speed down a sharp incline, slipped and fell. Captain Mullins was thrown and the horse rolled on top of him. He was bruised about the knees and sprained his ankle.

Private John Cossack of Company A narrowly escaped drowning while he was bathing with a number of companions. He got beyond his depth and was rescued by lifeguards. After being revived he remained for a time at the regiment infirmary before being permitted to go to his quarters.

ORDER ITALIAN DEFLATION.

Cabinet Adopts Plans Intended to Bring Lira to Normal.

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Italian Cabinet today adopted plans outlined by Count Volpi, Minister of Finance, designed to effect the Fascist determination to bring back the lira to its pre-war value by a policy of rigorous deflation. The Cabinet also decided to abolish certain business taxes and some direct taxes adopted during the war. The policy is to simplify taxation and to eliminate all imposts which do not serve the economic advantage of the country.

Ninety million dollars, what remains of the $100,000,000 of American gold loaned in November, 1925, by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. will be transferred tomorrow to the Banca d'Italia, the national bank of issue, to balance the 2,500,000,000 lire in bank notes placed in circulation in excess of the legal gold reserve. The lira, which has a par value of 19.3 cents, sold today for 2.25 cents.

The budget, Count Volpi explained to the Cabinet, provides fifty million lire annually to reduce the bank note circulation until the debt to the issuing bank is wiped out. Notes of ten and five lire will be withdrawn and silver coins of like value issued.

nomination in today's Democratic primary.

The tabulations were: Smith, 55,194; Brown, 49,225; former Senator N. B. Dial, 26,029.

If no candidate receives a majority, a run-off primary for the two highest will be held two weeks hence.

Both former Senator Dial and Mr. Brown, who is Speaker of the State House of Representatives, attacked Senator Smith's vote in favor of American participation in the World Court.

Mr. Brown assailed the Court as a "Republican proposal," with no resemblance to that indorsed by Woodrow Wilson or the 1924 Democratic National Convention. Mr. Dial, seeking renomination two years ago, was defeated then by Coleman L. Blease.

In the Governorship race John G. Richards held a lead in a field of nine. Returns from 844 of the 1,371 boxes gave him 22,100, with Ira C. Blackwood second with 18,545.

KLAN WINS HERRIN ELECTION.

Polling for City Judge Is Quiet Under Police and Military Guard.

HERRIN, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—A Ku Klux Klan-supported ticket triumphed here today in a quiet election for the selection of a Judge of the City Court.

Two Illinois National Guard officers, acting as observers for Adjutant General Black, cooperated with Chief of Police George Griffith, who detailed twenty special policemen, with automatic rifles and sawed-off shotguns, in or near all the polling places.

The Masonic Temple, where six men were killed on election day last April 13, was not used as a polling place today, the voting booths being moved to the City Library.

R. T. Cook, former Judge of the City Court, was returned to the office over Charles C. Murray and Judge E. N. Bowen, the incumbent, both of whom were said to have support of the anti-Klan element.

STANFIELD TO RUN FOR SENATE AGAIN

Oregon Senator, Defeated in Primary, Decides to Accept the Nomination Made by Citizens.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 31 (AP).—Senator Robert N. Stanfield, who was defeated in the May primary for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, declared in a statement today that he would become a candidate at the November election to succeed himself, "provided such nomination is tendered to me prior to Sept. 7, the last date for filing acceptance."

A meeting of 100 citizens friendly to Mr. Stanfield is planned to nominate formally Under the State law a nomination can be made in this manner.

Mr. Stanfield will oppose Frederick Steiwer, who received the Republican nomination in the primary, and Bert E. Haney, former member of the United States Shipping Board, the Democratic nominee. Mr. Steiwer was successful in the primary in a field of eight candidates, receiving 40,063 votes Mr. Stanfield being second.

Mr. Stanfield emphasized his reluctance to give up important Senate committee Chairmanships, which he said he regarded as belonging not to himself but to the people of Oregon. He reiterated charges that his candidacy had been injured in the primary campaign by a "yellow ticket," which is to be investigated by Grand Juries in Multnomah and Marion Counties. This ticket, purporting to endorse Stanfield without his knowledge or consent, was circulated among voters opposed to the Ku Klux Klan, Mr. Stanfield declared.

BRITISH MUSEUM ASKS PUTNAM'S AID

FELICITATIONS GO NORTH

Interest in the Greenland Expedition, led by George Palmer Putnam in the Morrissey, has begun to assume international proportions as a result of sustained radio communication with the party.

Through the American Museum of Natural History, an application has come from the British Museum in London for material as yet unobtained by English explorers. The British Museum is specifically interested in improving its collection of Cetacea. Its message to the Putnam Expedition says:

"We have prepared a most valuable series of the flipper skeleton of many species, but there are one or two Arctic species we have not yet been able to obtain. The Greenland whale comes first and foremost, but I do not suppose you will be able to help us with this.

"You might, however, be able to give us a helping hand with smaller things, particularly the narwhal and the white whale. We specially want the complete flippers from which the skin has not been removed. We have also long wished to have the head of a narwhal, showing the way in which the tusk is related to the upper lip. If you should be able to help us with regard to any of these things, we should be very grateful and we might be able to send you a suitable return in exchange."

Among the many messages of congratulation that are being sent north to the Morrissey's party via THE NEW YORK TIMES radio, are a number from distinguished citizens, as follows:

Will Hays—Congratulations. Magnificent. Your actions square with the country's best traditions and measure up to the performances of our greatest pioneers. Kindest personal regards and best wishes.

Emil Fuchs—Best wishes and heartiest congratulations to you and your brave men on your brilliant leadership. You seem to achieve success in whatever you undertake.

The Explorers Club—It is an honor to express our profound appreciation of the work you and your men are doing in the Far North.

Kermit Roosevelt—Please convey to George Palmer Putnam my sincere congratulations on what he and his expedition have achieved, and the manner in which they have done their work in the face of such formidable obstacles and dangers. Give my warm regards to Bob Bartlett, Rasmussen and Art Young.

Colonel E. Lester Jones—Out of touch with events for some time. Just learned of your remarkable experience, narrow escapes and determined and courageous progress and success in capturing wonderful collection aquatic specimens. You and your staff reflect the highest traditions of red blooded Americans. All are proud of you. Affectionate greetings and safe return.

Colonel Mahew Wainwright—Neighbors and friends here in Rye, George Putnam, are following with unabated interest radio news of your cruise in icy seas. We are thrilled by great sporting efforts you are weaving with solid contribution to science and useful knowledge and by the dauntless spirit that sent you back to the icy fields after that near wreck; the same spirit which sustained Peary and Byrd. But don't tarry up there too long among the bergs and polar bears and walrus. Don't take chances on missing the rousing welcome that awaits you all at home. Or leave it too late to miss that swim at the American Yacht Club.

The successful exchange of messages between Mr. Putnam and his wife, staged by THE NEW YORK TIMES radio last week has elicited considerable feminine attention. Among the messages which have come in from women is one from Elsie Janis, who wires from California: "I am, as are all of George Putnam's friends, very proud to be his devoted friend and am delighted with his work in this month."

The Woman's Rumcie Club of St. Joseph, Mo., telegraphs: "Felicitate George Palmer Putnam upon his successful effort to lighten the anxiety of a far-distant wife."

VIENNA HOUSE UPHOLDS RAMEK AMID UPROAR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—A special session of Parliament, called this afternoon to consider a Socialist bill to start impeachment proceedings in the Supreme Court against Chancellor Ramek's Government, was defeated by a standing vote on strict party lines.

The tumultuous scenes which characterized the debate reached a climax when the Christian Social Party rose to vote down the impeachment. The public, crowding the galleries, then joined the Socialist Deputies in booing and hissing the Government Party, the manifestation continuing without interference of the guards until the Government and its followers left the House.

The impeachment bill was based on a charge that the Government had acted unconstitutionally in advancing $9,000,000 in July to the central branch of the German-Austrian savings banks, which was threatened with a depositors' run.

The Socialists argued that the Government should have consulted Parliament before thus giving one-tenth of the public revenue to aid a bank which is closely connected with the governmental party.

Chancellor Ramek defended himself on the ground that the action was urgently necessary, owing to alarmist reports of the Socialist Abend, and he declared that he had consulted Parliament as soon as possible.

While none of the money had been recovered, the Government maintains it was a loan and hopes to regain it through a law passed taxing all savings banks for this object.

The Socialist ex-Chancellor Karl Renner, and the Christian Social ex-Chancellor, Mgr. Seipel, were leading figures on both sides of the debate, the latter receiving his usually strong ovation from his party, which increases the impression that Mgr. Seipel is likely to return to power.

AUGUST WEDDING RECORD.

Queens Bureau Issues 700 Licenses in Month—1,000 in June.

August this year was the biggest ever, in so far as the issuance of marriage licenses in Queens Borough was concerned, according to Deputy City Clerk William Zimmerman, in charge of the Queens Marriage License Bureau in Long Island City.

Seven hundred licenses were issued this August, a record for that month, but still 300 behind June of this year, when 1,000 licenses were issued.

GERMANY PAYS HALF REPARATIONS IN KIND

Deliveries in Second Dawes Plan Year Reach $156,318,000 Out of Total of $290,360,000.

THE MAIN EXPORT IS COAL

Goods Vary From Lion Traps and Trout Spawn to Rosaries and Bottle-Washers.

BERLIN, Aug. 31 (AP).—Germany met nearly 54 per cent. of her reparations payments in the second year of the operation of the Dawes plan, ending today, by means of deliveries of materials. This will be shown in the report of S. Parker Gilbert, Agent General for Reparation Payments, to be published about Nov. 15.

The total payments amounted to 1,220,000,000 gold marks (about $290,360,000), and the deliveries in kind 656,800,000 gold marks (about $156,318,000).

The goods delivered to the Allies varied from coal to lion traps, dyestuffs to kitchen ranges, circuit breakers for motorcycles to rosaries, candy-packing machines to Bavarian hops, bottle washers to trout spawn and cigar molds to cotton gins.

More than one-third of these deliveries were of coal, coke and lignite, as seen from the following classification, in round millions of gold marks, by the Agent General's office:

Coal, coke, lignite	374.5
Transport of coal	54
Dyestuffs, drug products	11
Chemical fertilizers	50.5
Coal by-products	5.5
Agricultural products	17
Timber	33.5
Sugar	13
Miscellaneous	177

Among other things Belgium ordered 80,000 marks' worth of beer bottles; Greece, 150,000 marks' worth of caterpillar tractors; 21,000 marks' of cosmetics and manufacturing machinery.

According to the figures Germany during the second year turned over to the Agent General on account of her reparation payments almost 1,167,000,000 gold marks. These payments are classified as follows:

Interest on railway reparation bonds, 550,000,000 marks; budget contribution, 250,000,000 marks; transport tax, 241,900,000 marks; interest on industrial debentures, 125,000,000 marks.

In addition the Reich by Sept. 21 will pay these amounts as part of the second annuity: interest on railway reparation bonds, 45,000,000 gold marks; transport tax, 8,195,000 marks, bringing the total of payments during this second year under the Dawes plan to 1,220,000,000 gold marks.

Of the sums thus at the disposal of the Agent General for Reparation 1,063,000,000 gold marks were expended for creditor nations, of which France got approximately 567,000,000 marks, Great Britain almost 227,000,000 marks, Belgium about 116,000,000 marks, Italy 78,000,000 marks, Serb-Croat-Slovene State 38,000,000 marks and the United States 15,000,000 marks. Minor creditors such as Rumania, Japan, Portugal, Greece and Poland received altogether 21,000,000 gold marks.

Interallied commissions and arbitral bodies consumed 18,500,000 gold marks. The charge for services in arranging the German external loan of 1924 amounted to 97,000,000 gold marks.

While almost 54 per cent. of the second year's reparations were paid for by deliveries in kind, the remaining 46 per cent. were covered by the following classifications:

Occupation costs, almost 88,000,000 gold marks; reparation recovery acts, 245,000,000 marks; cash transfers, 71,000,000, and miscellaneous, 4,000,000 gold marks.

The miscellaneous classifications include one interesting item—2,100,000 gold marks for the restoration of the Louvain Library.

Germany's economic development under the Dawes plan more and more engages the attention of the expert in and student of economics. Recently Tubingen University in Wurtemburg asked the German Foreign Commission to send an expert collector on the Dawes plan. This example has been followed by other universities. Many requests constantly come in from libraries for copies of the periodical reports.

German financial and industrial circles also are studying the working of the Dawes plan and are intensely interested, according to the commercial publisher of the reports, who says he annually sells thousands of copies to bankers and business men all over the world.

GERMAN LAUDS DAWES PLAN.

But Foresees Difficulties in Transferring Larger Amounts in Kind.

BERLIN, Aug. 31 (AP).—Carl Fredrich von Siemens, Chairman of the German Railways Administrative Board and a leading industrialist, in a statement to the Associated Press commenting on the reparations report prepared by S. Parker Gilbert, lauds the Dawes Plan as enabling Germany to re-create a stable currency and for protecting her against impossible demands.

"It cannot be assumed," in his opinion, however, "that such a material and rapid development will take place that the premises for Germany's ability to pay, underlying the Dawes Plan, will be realized."

Herr von Siemens, elaborating his ideas, says:

"In the Dawes agreements Germany's contention was admitted that she can meet the payment not in gold, but only in kind; this, in turn, being dependent on the readiness of other nations to buy German goods.

"The Dawes Plan gave Germany the assurance that she would no longer be exposed to unlimited and unattainable demands such as were previously made. This enabled her to re-create a stable currency, the foundation of ordered economic life.

"The process of regeneration first became evident through the gradual dying off of unhealthy business undertakings. The Dawes Plan compels the other European nations visited by inflation to set their financial affairs in order through their own efforts.

"During the first two years under the Dawes Plan Germany's payments were comparatively small, Germany receiving at least double the total of her reparations payments in the shape of foreign loans.

"The extent to which Germany will be able to transfer the heavy demand in the coming years to other countries depends on the world's economic development and the readiness of other countries to purchase German goods."

NOBILE IN NEW SHIP TO RETURN TO ARCTIC

Expedition to Secret Destination in Another Dirigible Will Follow, General Says.

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP).—The plans of General Nobile are nearly completed for a new Italian dirigible expedition to be led by him for exploration of the region between Alaska and the North Pole.

Simultaneously a dirigible larger than the Norge is being built in Italy to be utilized in another expedition, of which the destination is a secret. This dirigible will be ready about the end of the year.

In an interview published by Il Tevere, General Nobile declared:

"With the permission of Premier Mussolini I will leave Oct. 21 for America and will accept the invitation of the United States Government to act in an advisory capacity in its aeronautical establishment.

"After several months in the United States I intend to proceed to Japan to fill a similar post there, returning to Italy in April."

The most important project being studied, General Nobile confided, is a flight far more difficult than that of the Norge, for which a dirigible of 54,000 cubic meters will be built. This project, mentioned by Nobile as having been conceived personally by Mussolini, will not be divulged until after the new polar flights, which the General said he had planned while at Teller, Alaska.

Heifetz Is Recovering Rapidly.

Jascha Heifetz, world famous violinist, who was recently operated on for appendicitis at the Mount Sinai Hospital, is convalescing rapidly, it was announced there yesterday. Arrangements for his European concerts are already made, and upon their completion in January he will proceed to Egypt, India, Java, the Philippines, Japan and Australia. Mr. Heifetz did not abandon any concert work to undergo the operation.

SPEYER SAYS EUROPE MUST HELP HERSELF

Banker, After Tour, Holds Peace Treaties Must Be Revised Before Recovery Is Possible.

LAUDS GERMANY'S PROGRESS

He Says France Must Stabilize Franc and Ratify Generous War Debt Terms.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN Aug. 31.—The peaceful and industrious progress of Germany under President von Hindenburg, the imperative necessity for France to stabilize her currency on the basis of the Anglo-French and the Franco-American debt settlements, and the value to Europe of the surplus exportable capital produced by the prosperity of the United States are among the outstanding features of the European situation as it is envisaged today by James Speyer, the New York banker.

On his arrival here following a tour which has taken him to all the principal European countries, Mr. Speyer gave THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent the following survey of his impressions:

"As a casual, even though regular, annual visitor, an American like myself feels naturally reluctant to express his views on European affairs, especially when one finds that the Europeans themselves differ much among each other.

"About a year ago, when I was in Berlin, it was just the day before the German Presidential election. Since then President von Hindenburg has 'made good,' if one may say so.

"While he has disappointed some of his extreme partisan adherents, he has lived up to his given word to maintain the Republican Constitution without fear or favor; and his quiet work and dignity have impressed all countries and have contributed very largely toward the rehabilitation of Germany.

Sees Peaceful Progress.

"The German people are progressing peacefully. Their well known qualities are asserting themselves. They are working and saving; and they love order and simple pleasures. Their clean streets and well-kept parks and playgrounds are not surpassed anywhere and are a pleasure to behold.

"Naturally, they are not yet quite accustomed to governing themselves. We in America have learned that self-government can be conducted efficiently only with two major opposing parties. In Germany, as in some other European Republics, there appear to be too many political parties for orderly legislation and economic progress.

"There are still a great number of unemployed in Germany, as in England. Many are receiving Government aid, and it is likely this will continue as long as important industrial countries like France, Italy and Belgium are able to manufacture cheaply by paying their workmen in depreciated currencies.

"It is very much to be hoped that the French people, in their own as well as in the general interest, soon will be able to stabilize their currency and return to a gold standard. But the prerequisite for these conditions, which are desirable, must be the acceptance by the French Government of the very liberal debt settlements offered to them by Great Britain and the United States.

"Unless public opinion in our country has changed a great deal since Congress adjourned, it seems futile for France to expect any better terms than those now offered.

"One sees in the European press, occasionally, statements that we should make even more liberal terms and similar expressions, inspired, it would seem, by—shall one say jealousy or envy of our present prosperity?

"On the contrary the peoples of the European Continent should be glad that we happen to be prosperous just now, with a surplus of capital to invest and export. How could we otherwise have lent them, since the close of the war, the thousands of millions of dollars which have assisted them so very materially in their rehabilitation?

Opposes Cancellation of Debts.

"Well-meaning men and women at home who sometimes talk of total cancellation of the foreign Government debts owned to our people are, I think, mistaken if they believe that such a step would make for the future of peace or even help to any considerable extent in the rehabilitation of Europe.

"The actual re-establishment of normal conditions in Europe (quite apart from fixing German reparations on a businesslike basis, toward which the goal of the Dawes plan has been a first step) can only come when the Continental people themselves, in a spirit of tolerance and good-will toward each other, correct the blunders and mistakes of the so-called peace treaties; they cut up Europe and carved out new republics, not always national units, for political reasons, without considering the disastrous economic consequences which the new tariff walls and other obstructions would bring to their long-suffering peoples.

"Whether the League of Nations, if it attempted to solve this most important problem, could accomplish more than it has so far done in effecting disarmament seems doubtful; but it would seem well worth the effort of the earnest and able men interested in that organization.

"It is very much to be hoped that these serious questions will soon be approached without prejudice or hatred by those vitally concerned in the Locarno spirit, and not by statesmen or politicians with narrow nationalist viewpoints.

"There is little in this respect that America can do to help Europe until Europe begins to help herself. It is a great privilege to be an American citizen and to live in the United States, so happily free from entangling alliances and other complications."

SEEKS ROME AID FOR PONZI

Mrs. Ponzi Is Said to Be Sailing Today to See Mussolini.

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Boston Advertiser says tonight that Mrs. Rose Ponzi will sail from New York tomorrow for Italy to seek an interview with Premier Mussolini to enlist his aid for her husband, Charles Ponzi, who is held in a Texas jail while Massachusetts seeks his return.

Ponzi, under sentence as a common thief in this State because of his postal coupon exchange bubble, was arrested by Texas authorities in New Orleans while a member of the crew of an Italian ship on which he hoped to leave the country when his plans in Florida were checkmated.

He fought extradition and his case has been at a standstill for nearly a month.

SAYS LEOPOLD AND LOEB CAN BE PAROLED IN 1935

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Nathan F. Leopold and Richard Loeb will be eligible for parole just eleven years and three months after they entered prison, Hinton C. Clabaugh, newly appointed Supervisor of Pardons and Paroles, announced today.

The college youths, who were sentenced to serve ninety-nine years for kidnapping Bobby Franks and to serve life terms for murdering him, entered Joliet Prison on Sept. 11, 1924. Therefore, according to Mr. Clabaugh, it is possible that they will be on the street again in December, 1935.

"They would still be young men then, scarcely over 30 years old," he said, "and December, 1935, is only a bit more than nine years away."

The case of Leopold and Loeb came up in the course of a general investigation Mr. Clabaugh had ordered into the records of prisoners.

And the reason why it appeared that the "intellectuals" who killed the son of Jacob Franks would be eligible to early release was that their sentences, according to the information now available, run concurrently under the law.

The records do not show that Judge Caverly in handing down his sentences upon the youths specified that they should run either concurrently or consecutively, Mr. Clabaugh said.

"And that's the point," he added. "Under the law such sentences are concurrent unless the opposite is specified.

"The law holds, further, that in case one sentence is longer than the other the longer one takes precedence. In other words, the prisoner serves the longer of the two sentences given him," continued Mr. Clabaugh. "Therefore it must be decided which is longer in the case of Leopold and Loeb—ninety-nine years or life. What can be longer than life?"

Figuring on the life sentence basis, the Supervisor of Paroles said that a State statute would make the boys eligible for parole at the end of twenty years.

"But it doesn't end there," he continued. "The good-time and merit system would cut the period down to a minimum of eleven years and three months. That's the problem we are facing.

"If the ninety-nine year sentence were considered the longer they would be eligible at the end of thirty-three years.

"I don't mean to say that Leopold and Loeb will necessarily be out at the end of eleven years, or twenty or even thirty-three. But I do say it is hard to see how their legal privileges can be denied them any more than to other convicts."

Mr. Clabaugh said he had addressed a letter to State's Attorney Crowe, prosecutor in the case, laying the Leopold-Loeb sentence before his office for consideration.

HUGE BALL TO TELL TIME.

Device on Paramount Building Will Flash Signals.

A glass ball to mark the hours for a large clock on the new Paramount Building in Times Square will be placed forty feet above the tower of the structure, it was announced yesterday. The flashing globe, nineteen feet in diameter and illuminated from within with high power lamps, will be visible for miles, it was said.

The globe will be designed as a map of the world and will be composed of ninety squares of glass sheathed with copper. The smokestack of the building will pass directly through the centre of the ball and a ladder will extend through to the top, where a walkway two and a half feet wide will pass around the top of the stack. Steel runways will pass completely around the interior, from which workmen may tend the mechanism.

The lamps inside the ball will be connected with a flasher-switch so geared to the great clock that it will flash red on the quarter hours and white on the even. The light, which is a steady white at the hour of twelve, will turn to red and flash four times, then immediately turning to white again it will flash twelve times. At a quarter after the hour it will flash red once, two on the half and three on the quarter, always turning to a steady white in the meantime.

Compare Yourself with This Motorboat

This motorboat leads the others because it has the right kind of an engine and the right kind of care. This boat is worth about $12,000. What do you consider your life to be worth? What do your associates consider it to be worth in the maintenance of your business enterprises?

Because you have always had business power and play power on tap, can you always count upon it in the future? How many times have you noted the downfall through ill health of some great moving human organism in business, professional or political life?

A wise business leader should seek to prolong the period during which he can enjoy these prizes and the great game of successful business administration.

The periodic health examination is regarded by leading physicians as the most important health measure that can be adopted, but there is a wide range of variation in the degree of thoroughness with which such an examination can be conducted. There are ultimate tests and checks upon the functions of the vital organs which go far beyond the range of the ordinary physical examination. Too seldom are these refined methods of analysis applied in advance of actual disease.

No business man should hesitate to seek this physical survey made with the ultimate resources of science. Such an investigation would include efficiency tests of the kidneys (the usual elaborate microscopical and chemical analysis is not such a test); electrocardiographic examination of the heart; chemical tests of the blood for waste products, and other similar refined methods for checking up the human mechanism.

One of the best things about this extensive and ultimate physical survey is the discovery of good health. While an unlimited lease of life can not be guaranteed, nevertheless these critical surveys do enable us to say within reasonable limits whether or not a man is threatened with disaster within the next few years. The knowledge that there is freedom to work and enjoy the results of achievement has a high value as well as the knowledge of threatened danger which can be avoided.

The Life Extension Institute has a highly developed service of this kind for those desiring it. It is called the Vital Protective Service. A still more extensive service—the Unlimited—is provided which includes the application of any special test or specialized method of examination at the command of the Institute. Much of it applies as a routine but much according to the individual needs of the member.

No medical treatment is included in these services. Members reported in need of treatment are referred to their family physician for any necessary treatment and are warned away from quacks and fake cures.

Either of the services described above should appeal to important business men because for a relatively small fixed charge a very comprehensive and searching examination can be had under one roof. There is no uncertainty as to the ultimate cost and, as no treatment is given, there is no apprehension that the Institute will impose any expensive follow-up. An impartial report is rendered and the subscriber then knows his needs and can make his own decision as to seeking treatment from proper sources of his own choice.

The coupon below is for your convenience. Your inquiry will receive courteous consideration and will in no way obligate you. You are also cordially invited to visit or telephone the Institute for information.

MELLON VISITS FRENCH PREMIER

HAPPENS TO MEET HUGHES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury at Washington, today made courtesy calls on Premier Poincaré and M. Briand, Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Secretary is on the last lap of his vacation tour in Europe.

Although the French newspaper men were anxious to glean even one word that might indicate a possibility of easier debt settlement conditions for their country, the Secretary of the Treasury in guarded replies indicated that he had not come to France to discuss debts.

"The matter is now in the hands of the French Government and it would not be courteous to discuss it," Mr. Mellon said when he drove up to the French Finance Ministry today. "I am merely paying my respects to the Ministry."

When he departed after eighteen minutes spent with Premier Poincaré Mr. Mellon said, in response to a direct question as to whether the matter of debts had been discussed at the interview, "I can't very well talk about that."

Secretary Mellon's visit to M. Briand was even shorter than his call on M. Poincaré, lasting only nine minutes. When he left the palatial Quai d'Orsay he was accompanied by Sheldon Whitehouse, counsellor of the United States Embassy in Paris, and by Theodore Rousseau, director of the Guaranty Trust Company here. Mr. Mellon spent a quarter of an hour in viewing the Gobelin tapestries which decorate the salons of the Foreign Office. He showed a keen, artistic interest in these products of State-owned ateliers.

Mellon and Hughes Comparisons.

A few minutes before the Secretary of the Treasury reached M. Poincaré's residence, Charles E. Hughes, the former American Secretary of State, arrived to pay his respects to the French Premier. He was accompanied by Mr. Whitehouse. Even more reticent than Mr. Mellon, Mr. Hughes said he would like to make a statement, but in the course of his present vacation trip he had not expressed his views on any topic and had nothing to say on this occasion. Mr. Hughes and Mr. Mellon met in M. Poincaré's antechamber, Mr. Whitehouse remaining until Mr. Mellon had concluded his stay. Both Mr. Hughes and Mr. Mellon expressed delight at M. Poincaré's cordial reception and pronounced him most affable.

Secretary Mellon, who is staying at Mr. Rousseau's apartments in a historic building on the Isle St. Louis, not far from the Cathedral of Notre Dame, expressed pleasure in his trip, which has aroused many boyhood memories—this being the first in forty years. He said Mr. Hughes and he had been comparing notes regarding their present youthfulness. Mr. Hughes was very proud of having taken a ten-mile walk in the countryside around Paris recently. Mr. Mellon thought a ten-mile walk he took in the mountains near Evian a much more strenuous test. The greatest pleasure of his trip was a visit to his daughter and her husband in Rome, which was the main purpose of the journey. But he was also thoroughly appreciative of the natural and historic beauties of the parts of France, Italy and Switzerland through which he had been.

Mellon Recognized by Few.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, lunched with Mr. Mellon yesterday and today. Much of the time of the Secretary of the Treasury has been taken up in shopping in the Rue de la Paix or in motoring in the Bois de Boulogne. Only a few Parisians recognized America's leading financier and at all times were pleasant, although he has been the target of occasional press criticism as President of the Debt Funding Commission. Secretary Mellon will continue his visit in Paris tomorrow. He said he was not scheduled to see Mr. Poincaré again; as he is leaving on Thursday for England. The French Premier interrupted his vacation at Sampigny, his home near Saint Mihiel, in order to meet Mr. Mellon, arriving in Paris this noon, and M. Briand delayed his start for Geneva to attend the League of Nations session in order to greet him.

SEES CANCELLATION AN ISSUE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—That European debt cancellation has become an issue in the coming November elections is the opinion of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi on the conclusion of his European tour. The Senator sailed for home yesterday on the Leviathan with his mind clearly made up on this point.

"There is," he said, "no sentiment in America for cancellation of the foreign debt, and those Americans who exploit such a view are raising false hopes and delaying economic readjustment. But the recent unfortunate events in France, the ungraciousness of some French statesmen in minimizing the part played by the United States in the World War and the views on cancellation voiced by three or four Americans have forced the issue into the foreground at the coming elections.

"Cancellation," Mr. Harrison went on, "would be a gross betrayal by the Government of the American taxpayer, who was told when he loaned the money that it would be repaid. But the question has been forced, and we shall now press in America the issue of debt cancellation. Every candidate of every political party for the House of Representatives or the Senate will be compelled to declare his position. The people will pass upon it and the false hopes of debt cancellation can then be interpreted in the returns of a united, patriotic American electorate."

Seven Firemen Overcome by Fumes.

Fire Captain Richard Borden of Engine Company 72 and six of his men were overcome by chemical fumes from artificial flowers at a fire early yesterday morning at 534-538 West Broadway. They were on the top floor of the six-story building breaking through partitions to get at the seat of the fire when they were overcome. Comrades took them to the street, where they were revived. Night club patrons in evening dress from Greenwich Village clubs watched the firemen at work.

CLEMENCEAU DENIES HE PLANS NEW LETTER

Now Sees No Need of Adding to What He Wrote About Debts.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Interviewed once more in his Vendée home concerning his future attitude in connection with the controversy over his letter to President Coolidge on the debt settlement, Georges Clemenceau today denied all intention to make any further similar public demonstration. With habitual vigor and in characteristic terms the "Tiger" flatly refuted the story circulated that he was about to follow up his first letter with a second missive.

"I don't feel the slightest need of adding one word to my first letter," he is now quoted as saying. "Undoubtedly I did not tell everything I had to say. Only one instant's reflection is needed to understand that the subject of the debts cannot be exhausted in fifty lines. I might bring to bear many other arguments. I made a choice of those which I considered most likely to move President Coolidge—or rather move the American people. I may add that I then hoped the President would not answer me.

"I hope the movement in both countries my intervention stirred up may contribute toward a settlement satisfying the conscience of both peoples. It does not behoove me as a plain French citizen to attempt anything more. How could I undertake a detailed discussion of the debts when I probably am not completely, perhaps even accurately, informed concerning what has been agreed upon between Washington and Paris? If I were to talk or act I would set about it differently. I would probably seek an elective mandate—I would do what was necessary.

"But I repeat, that is not my intention. I said what I believed was useful. In the case, unlikely, of an eventuality or new situation arising determining me to write another letter, I would act the same as the first time; that is to say, I would sit down and write it—not begin by announcing it six months ahead of time."

HEARS THAT DE RIVERA OFFERED RESIGNATION

Correspondent Says King Refused It and Told Dictator to Settle Dispute With Army.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—That General Primo de Rivera offered his resignation to King Alfonso as a result of the dissatisfaction among the Spanish army over the Dictator's military reforms and that the King refused it, is a statement made by The Daily Mail's San Sebastian correspondent.

A large section of the Spanish army, he says, is frankly discontented with Primo de Rivera. The dissatisfaction came to a head last week when the artillery officers called on the Premier to resign because of his decree abolishing promotion by seniority. This action of the artillery officers brought the Premier into direct conflict with the King.

The cavalry officers sided with the artillery, and the situation became so acute that the Premier offered his resignation to the King. The King declined to accept it and ordered him to remain at the head of the Government until the dispute regarding promotion of officers was settled.

The King told the military junta that the dispute would be settled in the best interests of the country, and that everything would be done to maintain discipline.

This means that the latent misunderstanding between the King and Premier has been smoothed out for the present. It is expected, however, that the Marquis of Tetuan, Minister of War, will resign and be replaced by General Sarro, who commanded the Spaniards' Alhucemas landing on the Moroccan coast.

COOLIDGE IS FIRM FOR DEBT-PAYMENT

He Believes in Settlements Made to Meet Debtors' Ability to Pay.

STANDS BY WORLD COURT

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge reiterated and redefined today his attitude on the settlement of war debts and American adherence to the World Court. In doing so he took advantage of the opportunity offered by ex-Secretary of War Baker's plea for cancellation of the debts, and by the statements of Senators Trammel and Gooding that they now favored withdrawal of the United States acceptance of World Court membership.

The President has not seen Mr. Baker's article, but he thinks it sometimes is much easier for a person in private life to take such a position than it is for a public official charged with the responsibility of making large expenditures and safeguarding the interests of the taxpayers.

President Coolidge has a great deal of respect for Mr. Baker's judgment and a high regard for his patriotism but he feels that the subject of cancellation or settlement of the war debts has been discussed by him so many times as to make constant comment unnecessary. He believes in settlements according to the ability of each debtor nation to pay, and he does not think the policy will be changed. All the great powers, with one exception, have made final settlements, and he has every expectation that France will settle according to the negotiations made by its Ambassador.

Sees No Reason for Change.

So far as he is informed, Mr. Coolidge knows of no reason to make a change in his policy respecting the payment of the debts on the basis of each country's paying capacity. He holds that this money must be paid by the borrowing countries or by our own taxpayers.

Mr. Coolidge reiterated that he did not question Mr. Baker's sincerity, but that the public must know that the responsibility of a public official differs greatly from that of a private citizen. His duty is to the taxpayer, and the public official cannot allow sentiment or personal desire to influence his judgment.

As for American adherence to the World Court, President Coolidge does not believe the Senate will rescind its action as the result of the announcement of two Senators that they will make such a proposal. He regards that question as settled and feels confident that the members of the Court will accept the reservations made to the protocol and admit the United States as a member. He does not believe the Senate will modify the reservations to meet the objections urged by members of the Court.

As to the action of Senators Trammel and Gooding, the President thinks it would be wise to wait until after election to see what the attitude of the Senate is. He intimated that some candidates for office might be influenced to change their views for political effect in the November elections.

Wants Ships Under American Flag.

President Coolidge authorized today the statement that he had not been urged by Matthew M. Brush to favor the sale of Government-owned vessels to go under a foreign flag. He does not favor such a policy and at present is not advised of any necessity to modify the policy in order to dispose of the merchant vessels to private owners.

The Government is desirous of building up a merchant marine with the Government-owned ships as a nucleus, and to do this the policy of requiring the old vessels to remain under the American flag was adopted. The President has not found that this sentiment has changed.

Mr. Coolidge feels that it may be found desirable, after a study of the subject, that the American taxpayers should bear some of the cost of keeping the ships under the American flag if they cannot compete at a profit with ships under another registry.

Mr. Coolidge will visit the veterans' hospital and convalescence hospital near Tupper Lake some time this week, probably Saturday.

He received today a delegation of Franklin County officials, headed by Judge E. C. Lawrence and including District Attorney H. W. Main, Superintendent of the Poor J. O. King, Court Clerk K. G. O'Neill, Deputy A. F. Morrison and Treasurer William Moore and their families.

"MY OWN IDEA," BAKER SAYS.

Ex-Secretary Denies Speaking for Others on Debt Cancellation.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31 (AP).—Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, declared today that he was speaking for himself and not for any political group when he championed the cancellation of the interallied war debts by the United States.

"It was my own idea," Mr. Baker said. "There is nothing new in the idea. I have advocated cancellation right along. If there is any group backing the plan, I don't know of it."

MRS. GOODHUE AT CAMP.

Mother of Mrs. Coolidge on Visit to Her Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Coolidge drove in an automobile today to Burlington, Vt., her home town, where she called on several friends and met her mother, Mrs. Elmyra Goodhue, who returned with her to White Pine Camp tonight. Mrs. Goodhue will remain with the President and Mrs. Coolidge during the rest of their vacation here, expected to end on Sept. 17.

Senator and Mrs. Gillett arrived here tonight to be guests of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid on Lower St. Regis Lake. They will be guests at White Pine Camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston left today, after a stay of a month.

The thermometer falls very low here now at night. Fearing that the frost would catch the remaining blooms in the garden at the camp, sheets were placed over them tonight and several were cut and placed in ice boxes for future use on the table.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 31.—A Soviet officer who has just fled from Russia states extensive plans are being made for the fortification of Leningrad as part of a huge system of fortifications in Northwestern Russia. The plan includes modernization of the present fortresses and construction of large naval and air ports. There will be hangars for 500 airplanes.

Silkworth's Term Ends Labor Day.

EAST VIEW, N. Y., Aug. 31.—William H. Silkworth, former broker who was once head of the New York Stock Exhange, recently convicted in New York, is to be released from the East View Penitentiary here on Labor Day, next Monday, at 8 A. M., when his term expires. Silkworth is a Federal prisoner, and therefore cannot benefit by the rule which applies to other prisoners, who, if their term expire on a Sunday or holiday, are released the day before. In Silkworth's case, that would be next Saturday.

BUSINESS MEN ISSUE DEBT POLICY DEFENSE

The question, "Is America a Shylock?" is discussed at length by Ralph Beaver Strassburger in a pamphlet which will be issued today by the Committee of American Business Men of 170 Broadway. In it the author analyzes and defends the American Government's position with regard to foreign debts, and asserts that during the Civil War it was the commercialism of England which led her to be unfriendly to the North.

"In 140 years of the existence of the Republic," the pamphlet says, "there have been only six wars and it is the boast of the American that in every one of these wars, with the possible exception of the Mexican War, there was a moral or political principle at stake. The very spirit of the country is opposed to war for conquest or war for personal advantage. The great majority of the citizens of the United States entered the World War in what they believed was the same spirit.

"To be told now that they entered the war with commercial importance as their god and the ledger as their bible, comes to them as a shock, particularly when this statement is uttered by a member of the House of Parliament in England, the country which, more than any other, praised America for her high-minded unselfishness when she first took up arms."

SOVIET READY TO TALK RUSSIAN DEBT WITH US

But First, Spokesman Says, It Must Know Its Commission Will Be Received.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 31.—"We are prepared to make the first move towards settlement of the former Russian debts to the United States, but are unwilling to do so without assurance that they will agree to receive our debt funding commission," was the statement made by a high official "spokesman" of the Soviet foreign office to the foreign press representatives today. He continued:

"The American Government has refused to deal with us until we undertake to meet the Russian obligations to America. We are anxious to do so in order to put the business relations between the two countries on a firm footing. We authorized certain Americans to make that known to the American Government. Why doesn't the American Government say it is willing to receive our Commission?

"We don't make political recognition or a new American loan a preliminary condition for opening debt discussion. We have stated as plainly as possible that we are ready to pay to the measure of our capacity. What prevents the Americans from giving us a hearing."

In reply to questions the spokesman said there was no reason why recognition by Russia of the Kerensky loan should involve recognition of other obligations, adding, "any debt can be recognized without involving all of them." He said also that claims of private American citizens come within the province of the Debt Funding Commission, as well as debts to the United States Government.

POSITIONS DRAWN ON PRIMARY BALLOT

HEARS VOTE MACHINE MAN

Manufacturer Says He Is Making 1,000 and Custodian Is Named to Receive Them.

The Board of Elections conducted drawings yesterday for positions on the primary ballots. As the contests this year are comparatively few and unimportant, there was no great interest shown and only representatives of the candidates affected attended the drawings. The results were as follows:

Democratic.

For Assemblyman, Fifteenth District, Brooklyn—Edward P. Doyle, George D. Fogarty, John J. Ward.

Republican.

John R. Voorhis, Chairman of the board, announced that in cases where insurgents named only a man as a candidate for member of the State Committee to oppose a man and a woman named as candidates by the party organizations the law provided that the name of this contestant should appear last on the ballot. There are no contests for Socialist nominations.

Before the drawings took place Samuel C. Hamilton, Vice President of the Automatic Registering Machine Company, informed the board that his company was proceeding with the manufacture of the 1,000 machines ordered by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State, and would be prepared to deliver them if the litigation now pending to prevent the city from paying for the machines was decided in her favor. The board designated Deputy Chief Clerk W. W. Conklin as custodian to receive the machines, if they are delivered.

CROPSEY QUITS RACE, YIELDING TO ATTACKS

plank to aid him in making the sort of a fight he regarded as best calculated to defeat Governor Smith for re-election, has tended to render more acute for the moment the wide differences on the wet and dry question which have come back to plague the Republicans in every State election since the ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment. That in the weeks before the convention oil will be freely poured on troubled party waters is certain. Though the Republican leaders appear to realize the difficult position of their party with the State Convention drawing near, none has the temerity to predict that these differences will be over by the time the convention meets. There looms as an alternative a bitter fight in the convention both over the platform and a candidate for Governor, although at present there would not appear to be any very keen competition for the Gubernatorial nomination among party men of calibre who for the most part are inclined to view the nomination as an empty honor if Governor Smith runs for re-election on the Democratic ticket.

George K. Morris, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, returned briefly to his headquarters in East Forty-first Street yesterday. He was visibly dejected at the prompt knocking in the head of the Cropsey boom administered by Senator Wadsworth in his statement yesterday, in which he denounced as presumptuous, with the referendum pending, Justice Cropsey's proposal for a dry enforcement plank in the platform. Chairman Morris, finding the up-State leaders almost without exception in line for Justice Cropsey, had nursed the boom along as a possible means of bringing about accord between the wets and the drys when the blunt declaration of Justice Cropsey in favor of State enforcement and the prompt acceptance by Wadsworth of the challenge brought his efforts to naught.

Morris Won't Comment.

"I have no comment to make on any subject," was all Chairman Morris would say to newspaper men who informed him of the statement made by Justice Cropsey's intimate friend. Shortly afterward Mr. Morris made it known that he would go to Canada for a few days' rest and then left the headquarters for the day.

His only caller during his brief stay was Representative Ogden L. Mills, just back from a visit to President Coolidge at White Pine Camp. Mr. Mills was closeted with Chairman Morris only a few minutes. Mr. Mills favors a frankly wet candidate for Governor, but, although he fills that requirement himself, he is not willing that his name be placed before the convention. He has not taken at all kindly to the boom for Justice Cropsey.

"My own conclusions from newspaper reports that have come under my observation," Mr. Mills said, "are that Justice Cropsey does not want the nomination and expressed himself in favor of State enforcement because he knew well that such an attitude on this question would make him impossible as a candidate."

Mr. Mills said he had no other candidate in mind who would fit the situation.

"And if I had," he added, "I think the worst thing that could be done would be to name him and expose him to attacks from unfriendly quarters so far in advance of the convention."

Mills's View on Problem.

Mr. Mills is said to feel that the only pronunciamento in the platform on prohibition should be a pledge that if the referendum is voted down the Republican candidate for Governor, if elected, would take steps to have the Legislature enact a State enforcement law. This is said to be his view of what interpretation should be placed in the platform on Senator Wadsworth's slogan, "Abide by the referendum." Mr. Mills believes—as do most political observers—that the referendum question will be answered in the affirmative by a tremendous majority of the voters and that having voted thus on the referendum they are not likely to vote for a candidate committed to dry enforcement by the State. Thousands of wet Republican votes in this and other large cities where the Republicans are anxious to keep the Democratic vote down again would be lost to the party if its candidate for Governor were pledged to State enforcement, according to those who share the views of Mr. Mills.

The rallying centre for the up-State drys are the several Republican candidates for Congress and for the State Senate and Assembly, dependent for their election on dry constituencies who in large measure may support Franklin W. Cristman, Senator Wadsworth's dry opponent in the Senate fight. Representative Fish is one of a number of Republican Congressmen from dry districts. In his attack on Senator Wadsworth, leader of his party in the State, Mr. Fish was outspoken.

Representative Fish's Statement.

The statement follows:

"I was amazed to read in today's paper that Senator Wadsworth had issued a statement yesterday in opposition to incorporating a State enforcement plank in the Republican platform and that the party must abide by the nullification referendum. It is evident that Senator Wadsworth has not read the wording of the referendum or he would not advise the Republican Party in this State to stand for nullification and sheer defiance to the Constitution of the United States.

"The nullification referendum is a fraud on both the wets and drys, and although probably legal, what it seeks to do is a palpable violation of the Constitution both in spirit and in fact. No Republican Member of Congress mindful of his oath of office will vote in Congress to delegate the powers under the Eighteenth Amendment to the various States to set up forty-eight different standards of alcoholic beverages. The purpose of the prohibition amendment was to make the law uniform and national.

"Any attempt to bind the Republican candidate for Governor to abide by the referendum is nonsense, as he has no vote in Congress. The issue, as far as the referendum is concerned, is not modification but nullification and open violation of the Constitution of the United States. No matter whether the referendum is voted up or down, an enforcement law is equally necessary at least until the Congress modifies the Volstead act.

"The Republican Party will be making sufficient sacrifice of its traditional stand for enforcement by renominating Senator Wadsworth without letting him dictate the platform and the candidates.

"I am not advocating any particular candidate for Governor, as the Republican State Convention will do that, and after all it does not make much difference who is nominated if the Republican Party tried to hide behind the nullification referendum and dodges the State enforcement issue in its platform."

Expected Attacks on Cropsey.

Justice Cropsey's many friends in Brooklyn were not surprised at the attacks made on the jurist in organization circles. They feel that entirely aside from his stand on prohibition, the independence that he has manifested all through his public career may have had a great deal to do with the unwillingness of certain party bosses to accept him as a candidate for Governor. They have realized right along that in the event of his election they could look for few favors at the Capitol.

As the situation stands now, the withdrawal of Justice Cropseyy leaves them with only two names remaining on an originally long list of available candidates.

One of the two candidates left—Republican National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles—has already made it clear to his many friends among the leaders of his party that to run for Governor would involve sacrifices on his part which they should not ask him to make. He may be spared the inconvenience of leading a forlorn hope against Governor Smith, under the circumstances, although there is strong sentiment for his nomination in many sections up-State. Republicans in this city would probably give him strong support should he become the party candidate for Governor.

The other potential candidate—Attorney General Albert Ottinger—has made it clear that he will accept unconditionally any nomination with which the convention sees fit to honor him. The general impression in Republican circles is that he will be renominated for Attorney General in view of his record in that office. There was some talk yesterday of a "dark horse," but this was vague.

Advises Up-State Men to Agree.

Richard W. Lawrence, former Republican leader in the Bronx, said yesterday that he had told up-State Republicans who had consulted him to agree among themselves on a candidate from their own part of the State.

"Why not follow the example of our friends, the Democrats?" Mr. Lawrence asked. "They are coming to this city, where they have their strongest party following, for their candidates for Governor and United States Senator, both. Let us go to the part of the State where Republicans in and out of season are Republicans and where they must roll up a big vote in order to maintain party control of the Legislature, and look there for some man who has rendered distinguished service to his party in public office. In making this statement I have no particular man in view."

The Democratic builders of their party's tentative platform, it was reported yesterday, are exercising great caution in framing the Democratic plank on prohibition, having in view that nothing should be done to injure the Presidential prospects of Governor Smith in other States where dry sentiment pervades the party. It was indicated yesterday that under the circumstances the Democrats may incorporate merely a plea to the voters to vote affirmatively on the prohibition referendum question and let it go at that.

CAPTURE OF HANKOW IS CLAIMED BY CANTON

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 31.—A report current here that Hankow, where Wu Pei-fu has his headquarters, has been captured by Cantonese troops, is entirely unconfirmed.

The claim is put forward by the Canton Information Bureau, probably for propaganda purposes and to arrest feeling in Canton against Chang Kai-shek, Commander-in-Chief of the Cantonese Army and virtual head of the Canton Government.

The Yochow correspondent of the Central China Post, a Hankow newspaper, describing the capture of that town, says the Cantonese troops, on entering, made a good impression by their soldierly bearing, good behavior and discipline and they had paid for all they bought. A number of Wu Pei-fu's troops, lagging behind to loot the town, were made prisoners. A flying column, advancing to the northeast from Yochow, cut off three trainloads of fugtives, thousands of rifles and sixty-three machine guns being taken.

The initial defeat of the Northerners is attributed to bad feeling between the Hanan troops and the Hunanese, whose sympathies were all with the Cantonese. This sort of trouble Wu Pei-fu may be trusted to eradicate. He is reported to have beheaded several students convicted of attempting to blow up bridges and cause disaffection among the troops, under instructions from Canton.

Store will be closed all day Saturday, Sept. 4th, and all day Monday, Sept. 6th (Labor Day).

WALKER WILL GREET VISITING EDITORS

GROUP SAILS ON FRIDAY

New Zealand Publisher Says Only Prime Minister Would Receive Space Allotted to Valentino.

Most of the 100 editors and publishers who will sail at midnight on Friday to attend the conference of the Press Congress of the World, which will be held in Switzerland Sept. 14-18, arrived in the city yesterday and registered at headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt. At 1 o'clock this afternoon Mayor Walker will greet the visiting journalists at City Hall as part of the day's program or visiting and sightseeing. At Trinity and St. Paul's churchyards short ceremonies will be held, during which wreaths will be placed on the graves of William Bradford, the first publisher, and John Holt, the first editor. E. H. Simmons, President of the New York Stock Exchange, will greet the visitors at the Exchange.

Luncheon at the John Wanamaker store, where Rodman Wanamaker and Grover A. Whalen will speak; dinner in the evening at the Waldorf-Astoria as guests of Karl A. Bickel, President of the United Press Association, followed by attendance at the Winter Garden and a visit to The New York Herald Tribune building will complete the day. Tomorrow the visitors will inspect the plant of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Dr. Williams Arrives.

Dr. Walter Williams, President of the Congress and Dean of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, was among the arrivals. He announced the program and expressed confidence in the ability of the conferees, who will represent twenty-six countries, to act constructively on many of their problems. The sessions of the first two days will be held at the University of Geneva and the next three at Lausanne. At Geneva reports will be read by committees and discussions held on the freedom of the press and the matter of news communications. At Lausanne journalistic ethics and standards of practice, interchange of journalists, promotion of the welfare of journalists and journalistic education and organization will be discussed.

Dr. Williams cited the imprisonment of Mexican editors as an example of the problems of a free press. The congress, he said, had accomplished the release of Silvestre Terrazas and was working for the release of Vicente Villasana, both of whom had been imprisoned, the latter for publishing a letter of protest written by a Mexican residing in New York. Suppression of newspapers in Ecuador, Chile, Guatemala and Italy also will be considered.

The use of naval radio in transmitting news communications in the Pacific is one accomplishment of the congress and plans of a similar nature will be discussed in reports. The congress has also caused newspapers in the United States to assign reporters and editorial writers to papers in other countries and bring to America writers from those nations. Development of his plan will be considered. Reports will be read of achievements by organizations of journalists which seek to improve working conditions. Some nations have unions capable of protecting newspaper employes as well as American labor unions, Dr. Williams said.

Dr. Williams, whose school was the first of its kind to be established, has been a working newspaper man since his youth. He thinks highly of New York newspapers, but believes that "the worst in the world as well as the best in the world are published in New York."

New Zealand Editor Here.

Among the arrivals yesterday was Phineas Selig of Christchurch, New Zealand, who spent fifty-two years in newspaper work. He founded The New Zealand Referee, a sporting journal, and for thirteen years was President of the Newspapers Proprietors of New Zealand. It is his first visit to New York. He asked for an explanation of the publicity given the death of Rudolph Valentino, and when Valentino's position in his field was explained Mr. Selig said that a Prime Minister would have to die to obtain in New Zealand the space allotted to Valentino here. The New Zealand papers would give two paragraphs or slightly more to the motion picture star's passing, he said.

He could not understand why American newspapers print news on the first page. New Zealand newspapers use this page for advertising at special rates.

Mr. Selig has been honored many times by his newspaper associates in New Zealand, and despite his retirement he hopes to enter into the conferences abroad.

Mrs. Charlotte Woodring, editor of the Peru, Ind., Journal, also arrived. She was obviously nervous when interviewed, despite her newspaper experience. She said she was accustomed to newspapers of more gossipy type than she has found in New York. Peru has a population of 15,000.

Thomas McMahon, President of the United Textile Workers of America, to which union the striking employes belong, also sought to check the disturbances today when he visited the village and urged all to comply with the police orders.

Neither side today gave evidence of a change of attitude toward the cause of the strike—the employment of three non-union loom-fixers by the Manville mill. Organizer Horace A. Riviere yesterday warned that the strike might last "two years." The union was strengthened today by the declaration of a representative of the Rhode Island State Federation of Labor that the union would have the support of that body.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Aug. 31 (AP).—Aram Auclair, a nephew of Mayor Adelard Soucy of this city, was brought to the Woonsocket Hospital tonight with his jaw shattered as a result of a volley fired by State troopers and Deputy Sheriffs at the Manville mill. Auclair, who was a spectator of the rioting, received a charge from a riot gun in his chin and neck. Hospital authorities said his wounds would not be fatal.

To Organize Passaic Strikers.

The charter of the United Textile Workers granted to the Passaic strikers will be delivered tomorrow night at a mass meeting of the strikers in Passaic by the Lauck Committee, it was announced yesterday by Henry T. Hunt for the committee. Gustav Deak, a former employe of the Botany Mills, and a committee of nine strikers will formally accept the charter, which was signed on Monday.

Deak's committee will confer this afternoon with President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers at the latter's office in the Bible House, where details of the organization of the 9,000 mill workers into local unions will be discussed.

Mr. McMahon will also meet a delegation of members of New Jersey labor unions today to arrange a parade and speechmaking program celebrating the granting of the charter. The charter was issued to the strikers as members of Local 1603 of the United Textile Workers of America. The parade will probably take place on Sept. 11. The speakers will include President McMahon and possibly President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

There is some speculation as to the status of Albert Weisbord, leader of the United Front Committee, in the new union. If workers in the mills are the only ones eligible for membership Weisbord probably will not find a place in the union.

Weisbord announced last night at a strikers' mass meeting in Belmont Park, Garfield, that he would retire from the strike on Thursday night when the charter is presented. He predicted that the United Textile Workers would carry the strike to a successful conclusion.

As to his future plans, Weisbord said he had not decided what he would do but that after a vacation he would return to Passaic and make that city his legal residence.

The American Civil Liberties Union announced yesterday its willingness to cooperate with the United Textile Workers wherever the issues of civil liberty are involved. This statement was made yesterday in a letter sent by Forrest Bailey, a director of the union, to Mr. McMahon. Mr. Bailey recalled the interest of his organization in protecting the textile strikers in their rights to picket, to have free speech and free assemblage, and to be protected against unlawful arrests and police violence.

Brofman, the Prosecutor Says, Is Unfolding Story That Will Be of Invaluable Aid.

Hyman Amberg, who was arrested last Friday on the Empire State Express at Albany, was formally accused in the Homicide Court yesterday as a participant in the shooting and killing of Aaron B. Rodack, the "fighting jeweler," following a frustrated hold-up in Rodack's store at 3,630 Broadway on July 22. Amberg was remanded to the Tombs without bail by Magistrate Harry A. Gordon pending his examination on Sept. 7.

Benjamin Mints, who was arrested nine days ago in connection with the Rodack killing and eight other hold-ups in the city, was alleged to have involved Amberg in the murder of the jeweler in a confession. Mints also is in the Tombs awaiting the action of the Grand Jury.

Mints likewise involved in many hold-ups George Cohen, sentenced last week by Judge Koenig in General Sessions to a forty-year term in Sing Sing, and Sol Brofman, who confessed he aided Cohen and two others in the theft of $75,000 in unset diamonds from Abraham Faigin in the hold-up of Faigin's jewelry salesroom in Maiden Lane on July 19 last.

Brofman was to have been sentenced for his part in this hold-up yesterday, but at the request of Assistant District Attorney Garrison Judge Koenig postponed sentence indefinitely.

"Brofman is giving information to the police that will prove of inestimable value in the clearing up of many robberies of jewelers," the prosecutor told the Court.

Mr. Garrison added that Brofman was giving such information through former Assistant District Attorney Richard C. Murphy, who now is counsel for the Jewelers' National Crime Committee.

Mints was alleged to have confessed that he drove the automobile in which the robber band of from five to eleven members, according to the importance of the job, rode to and from hold-ups. Whether Cohen and Brofman also were involved by him in the Rodack murder could not be learned. Amberg, on learning of the confessions of Brofman and Mints, also was understood to have made certain admissions, but nothing of this nature was revealed at his arraignment before Magistrate Gordon.

He was identified last Friday as one of the five robbers who obtained $43,000 in uncut diamonds in the hold-up of Raphael Kleinman, a jewelry salesman, in a restaurant at 113 Norfolk Street, on last Feb. 16.

FINDS YOUNG KILLER INSANE

Dr. Shearman of Kings Hospital Reports on Hammer Slayer.

Manuel Silberstein, 19-year-old slayer of James H. Calisch, 63 years old, an accountant and fellow-student of philosophy, whom he beat to death with a hammer in a restaurant at 1,775 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, on Aug. 24, was declared medically and legally insane, yesterday by Dr. Mortimer Shearman, head of the psychopathic ward of Kings County Hospital.

Silberstein was sent to the hospital for observation after a hearing in the Brooklyn Homicide Court, where he explained that the traits and ideas of Calisch had gained control over him. He told the police that they had quarrelled in their philosophical studies and that he was glad he had killed the older man. Silberstein was a high school graduate who did well in his work and was a public orator at the age of 10.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph V. Gallagher, in the absence of District Attorney Dodd, declared that the youth would be indicted for murder immediately. Whether he would then be committed to Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane or put on trial and permitted to plead insanity would be determined after further investigation, he said.

Try to Beat Non-Stop Air Record.

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—Lieutenant Challes and Captain Veiser again took to the air at the Le Bourget airdrome this morning, bound for the Persian Gulf in an attempt to better the world's non-stop long distance record. The weather reports are regarded as unfavorable for the journey. The airmen started last week for a record flight, but were forced down and returned to France.

FOUR ARE RESCUED; BOY OF 11 DROWNED

Brothers, 10 and 13, Are Saved in East River and Young Woman at Ferry Slip.

Miles and Patsy Burke, 10 and 13 years old, respectively, of 348 East Forty-second Street, were rescued yesterday afternoon from the East River at the foot of Fifty-first Street. The boys were swimming when Patsy began to sink. Miles, although not a good swimmer, paddled to the aid of his brother and he, too, went under. Edward McCaffrey, 347 East Fifty-second Street, and Terrance Colwell, 228 East Forty-third Street, dived into the water and brought the boys ashore.

The cry "Man overboard" and a hasty reversal of the engines of an Erie ferryboat entering the Twenty-third Street slip yesterday afternoon saved Miss Helen Smith, 26 years old, 186 Montauk Street, Hackensack, N. J., from being crushed against the piling. Miss Smith had jumped or fallen from the front of the boat. She was pulled out of the water by Patrolman Dillworth of Traffic A and taken to Bellevue Hospital. She told the policeman she had recently lost her job as a stenographer.

Lido Beach ~~1347~~ 2000 "Gem Plots"

Going Fast

There were 2,000—there are only 1,347 left. There was one for each 5,000 people in New York. There is NOW only one for each 8,500—one chance in 8,500 for you, and your chance grows smaller daily.

An Ideal Playground

Many bought homesite "Gem Plots" at Lido Beach because it's the last of the ocean front—because it is an ideal playground for their children—for themselves. In years to come they will be living proof of the health to be found in an "ocean front playground"—years added to their lives—their robust children aglow with health. That's why they bought at Lido Beach.

Easy to Own

Their "Gem Plot" homesite wasn't expensive and the terms were most reasonable—the scarcity of ocean front property will increase the value of their home each year—some bought TWO "Gem Plots," and in a few years they expect to sell the extra one at a profit sufficient to pay for their home. No drudgery for them at Lido Beach—just rest—recreation—pleasant association — most congenial neighbors — their kind—whom they are glad to call friends.

That's the story of Lido Beach — that's why they are buying "Gem Plots"

COOLIDGE WILL SEE K. OF C. HEAD TODAY

Flaherty Will Confer With Him on Charges of Mistreatment of Americans by Mexico.

ACTION NOW IS UNLIKELY

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge tomorrow will see James A. Flaherty of Philadelphia, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus, in compliance with his offer to hear the Knights' charges of mistreatment of Americans by the Government of Mexico and their demand for action by this Government to "put an end to this ignominous contempt that has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal."

The Knights' demand for action was made in a resolution passed by the Supreme Convention in Philadelphia, early this month and later presented to Secretary of State Kellogg. The Secretary conferred here with the President on our Mexican policy a few days afterward.

It was announced after the presentation of the petition that the organization had failed to produce evidence to justify action by this Government and it was reiterated that the United States would continue its "hands off" policy in the struggle between Church and State in Mexico, on the ground that it was a domestic question of the southern Republic.

Calles Held to Be Bolshevik.

Tomorrow's engagement was asked by Mr. Flaherty in a telegram in which he did not state the exact purpose of the conference. The Knights' request was granted, although it had been indicated that the Administration's policy in respect to the Church and State conflict would in no way be modified as the result of a renewal of the importunities of the Knights of Columbus.

The Knights' resolution asserted that "this system in Mexico has been created under American auspices" and "sustained by American executive authority, which has accepted Calles and Obregon, who are the enthusiastic supporters of the Bolshevist concept of government."

The resolution asserted that "representatives of Calles have insulted and degraded and expelled American citizens" and called upon the President and the State Department to "put an end to this ignominous contempt which has been shown by Calles for Americans' appeal and to resolutely demand protection for American citizens."

Statements issued by ranking officers of the Knights of Columbus since the convention have denied that the order wanted the United States to intervene by force.

Withdrawal of recognition of the Calles Government has been urged by prominent Catholic speakers since the conflict began.

Coolidge Studies Issue Closely.

While it was reasserted tonight in official circles that the President would not act upon the protest of the Knights, it became known that he is not unwilling to get all the information that they may have from private sources in Mexico in connection with his consideration of a stiffer Mexican policy.

The policy as to the Church dispute, which he regards as a purely internal question, will not figure in the President's present plans to revamp the Mexican policy if facts justify a more assertive attitude on the part of this Government.

Mr. Coolidge will see Ambassador Sheffield next week as part of his program to give serious thought to all things Mexican. He will determine after this conference and after further conferences with Secretary of State Kellogg whether more is likely to be accomplished by forcing a solution of the oil and land disputes respecting American ownership through a stronger Mexican policy or through the present patient policy.

The American Mexican policy may be modified within a reasonable time after the Church troubles subside, when this Government can act without its action being misinterpreted as due to an aroused public sentiment over the confiscation of Church property in Mexico, it is said here.

As his vacation approaches an end President Coolidge is devoting himself to the Mexican question to the exclusion of domestic and other foreign matters.

There are indications that before Congress convenes the Administration will take a more forceful position on the land and oil laws.

CHURCH SEES CALLES AS WORLD-WIDE PERIL

Catholicity Will Be in Danger Elsewhere if His Ideas Prevail, Bishop Diaz Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—The petition asking for the repeal or amendment of the religious articles of the Constitution and the penal laws, which is being prepared by Catholic lawyers and the Mexican Episcopate for presentation to the Mexican Congress early in September, is still uncompleted.

The Bishops will study the new project tomorrow at a special meeting in the palace of Archbishop Mora y del Rio.

All the Archbishops and Bishops have been invited to attend and to make suggestions for a future program in case Congress refuses to act on the Catholic protests against the religious laws which caused the present struggle between Church and State in Mexico.

Catholics realize that Congress may lay the petition on the table, and that there it may rest until a new Administration comes into power two years from now.

If Congress fails to do anything toward the relief which the Church seeks, the Episcopate, its members declared, will stand firm and not interfere with the economic boycott, although it takes months or years for the Church to get its demands.

Bishop Pasual Diaz, spokesman for the Episcopate, declared to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today that the clergy was prepared to carry on the struggle for months or even years and would eventually win.

"This is not the fight of the Mexican Church alone," Bishop Diaz said. "It is a fight which affects the entire Catholic world, for if these strange ideas of the present Mexican Government prevail the Catholic Church will be in danger in other countries where these ideas are rapidly spreading.

"Catholics will use legal means to present their petition for a reformation of the laws to the Mexican Congress. If they fail the Catholics will continue with the boycott and all other legal measures afforded that they can find.

"The Catholic Church has faced persecution before, but she has always triumphed. The efforts of one man or of a few men cannot cause the Catholic Church to waver. Our followers have faith in God and, with His help, the Catholic religion will again shine in Mexico in all its glory.

"Our faith is eternal. Man comes and goes, but the Catholic Church will live until the last vestige of civilization disappears."

The Government will make an inventory of all the property in the buildings connected with the cathedral here. The Government's decision to make the inventory is based on the clause in the Constitution vesting ownership of church property in the State. The inventory will start the first of next week. At present the buildings are sealed, having been closed by Government authorities on Aug. 1.

Dispatches from the United States saying that Ambassador Sheffield will confer with President Coolidge in September are arousing much interest here among both Americans and Mexicans who are speculating on the nature of the Ambassador's report.

His return to Mexico City is eagerly awaited by his American friends who make light of reports in circulation here that he will not come back to Mexico.

They say he will return, even if only for a few weeks, as it is known that he is anxious to remain at his post until certain suggestions that he has presented to the State Department are carried out.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31 (AP).—Two hundred and three members of the Chamber of Deputies have taken the oath for the opening of the thirty-second Legislature of Mexico. The sessions will begin tomorrow.

The prospect, from the Catholic viewpoint, continued gloomy for any relief by the legislative body in the nature of repeal or amendment of the religious clauses of the Constitution or of the regulations giving effect to the clauses.

NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 31 (AP).—A dispatch to The Herald says that Manuel Nunez, a former Colonel in the revolutionary army of Adolfo de la Huerta and a General under General Enrique Estrada, recently implicated in a plot against the Government of Lower California, has been executed at Malaqui Hacienda, near Chamela, State of Jalisco, Mexico.

Nunez was held responsible for an attack on a train near Guadalajara last January and with having taken the lives of several of the passengers and the train crew.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—The Committee of the World Conference of Churches, at present in session here at Berne, received yesterday from the German delegation attending the universal conference at Stockholm, a request that the committee examine into and fix responsibility for the great war, "which responsibility the entire German nation rejects."

The committee sent a rather sharp reply refusing "to enter into a debate of a purely political nature," and adding that the question was outside the religious sphere.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 31.—The Finance Commission of the Egyptian Chamber has recommended that the Government not pay interest on the 1855 tribute to Turkey on the ground that the Khedive had not signed the undertaking. He did figure in two subsequent loans, contracted through the Ottoman Government on security of the Egyptian tribute of £72,000, for which services bonds were placed in the national bank.

SEES VAST WEALTH IN MINDANAO COAL

By RUSSELL B. PORTER.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ABOARD S. S. MINDORO, Aug. 31.—Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, special investigator for President Coolidge in the Philippines, after inspecting the coal mine at Malangar, on Dumanquilas Bay, on the southern shore of Mindanao Island, yesterday, and pronouncing its operation by the Philippine Government a failure, with nearly all the other State-owned industries of the archipelago, remarked that the failure of the Government to make the colliery pay was not to be held up against the coal deposit involved.

"I have never seen," said Colonel Thompson, who in his youth was himself a coal miner, "coal so advantageously located or so susceptible of cheap mining and easy handling. Its economic value to the Philippines is beyond estimation. From the standpoint of Philippine development the coal deposits are the most important natural reserve, giving the Philippines an enormous advantage over the other islands of Asia. Every country must have an adequate supply of coal, iron and copper to be self-sustaining. The Philippines have the first of these."

A Fine Landlocked Harbor.

Colonel Thompson pointed out that Dumanquilas Bay is "one of the best landlocked harbors I have ever seen." It is completely protected, has room for hundreds of ships and is suitable for a naval base. The Spaniards planned such a harbor long before American occupation.

In the event of the passage of the Bacon bill separating Mindanao, Sulu and Palawan from the rest of the Philippines and the eventual granting of independence to the northern islands, the Americans could use Dumanquilas Bay as a naval base to defend the separated islands. The commercial importance of the bay applies to rubber as well as to coal, inasmuch as close to 200,000 acres of land in Zamboanga Province is suitable for rubber planting, according to the Department of Commerce.

Colonel Thompson found 10,000,000 tons of semi-anthracite already defined in this area, besides an apparently large field of bituminous coal. He said an analysis of the semi-anthracite showed it to be within 4 per cent. of the standard for anthracite requirements. The bituminous is of an inferior grade, but could be made commercially valuable if properly prepared. With modern machinery, mining methods and business administration, according to Colonel Thompson, it could undersell the cheaper Japanese coal upon which the Philippines depend.

Colonel Thompson met an American lumber contractor at Malangas, who came here after the American occupation, married a Moro woman, adopted Mohammedanism, filing and blackening his teeth but wearing American clothes. He says the Moros have as many wives as they can afford, paying for them from ten to several thousand dollars each, the money being divided among the wife and her relatives, to buy krises, bolos, barongs, spears, pieces of cloth and other goods.

Younger Women Attractive.

Some of the younger Moro girls are slender and attractive. The older women are hideous, with blackened and pointed teeth and scarlet lips from chewing betel nut. At Jolo, where the Moros are more prosperous and a little further advanced than in Mindanao, several pretty nieces of the Sultan of Sulu, with white teeth, wearing modern clothes and speaking English, served tea at a party the Sultan gave to Colonel Thompson, including Princess Patti Larhata Kiram, adopted daughter of the Sultan, who was educated at the University of Illinois. At this party a young, barefooted Datu wore a thousand dollars in gold pieces, twenties down the front of his magenta jacket, tens along the shoulders and fives in solid rows down the sleeves and down the legs of his tight-fitting orange trousers.

Colonel Thompson visited several fishing barrios on the Zamboanga coast. He found no schools, no doctors, no English spoken. Nipa and bamboo shacks built on piles over the water, sheltered these people, who are virtually savages, but friendly. Everywhere he found indications of a feudal form of slavery, Datus and priests inheriting whole families of retainers, who pick cocoanuts and do other work in return for food, shelter and clothing and regard the chiefs as their lords and masters as well as their judges.

AWAITS PLEBISCITE BILL.

Special to The New York Times.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 31.—President Coolidge today declined to indicate his attitude toward the bill for a plebiscite on independence, which, having been passed over the veto of Governor General Wood by the Philippine Legislature, now comes to the President for approval or veto.

President Coolidge is on record as opposed to independence at this time and therefore is expected to uphold the Governor General. He has six months in which to consider the bill. He allowed it to be known today that he would take up the question when it came to him and give it careful consideration.

HINDENBURG CLIMBS ALPS.

Hard Exercise Marks German President's Holiday in Bavaria.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—President von Hindenburg is spending his vacation climbing the Bavarian Alps and hunting the elusive chamois. At a height of 1,600 meters he succeeded in bagging three fine specimens, firing at long range.

Though the Presidential headquarters during his vacation are at Dietramszell, von Hindenburg prefers to roam about at will, setting his own schedules, which means that the party rises at 4 o'clock in the morning and keeps up a steady pace through the day.

The President, whose only knowledge of the Charleston was gained through the private showing of a film at the Presidential palace, says the American dance did not compare either in grace, harmony or intricacy to the "Schuhplattler tanzen," which is the Tyrolese clog dance. Foresters, lumbermen and hunting drivers of the President's party performed this for the President, accompanied by zithers, to his delight.

Von Hindenburg also finds recreation in trying out the new cable cars to the top of some of the highest peaks, where passengers are swung literally thousands of feet above the earth. There has been no letting up in the day's program, which provides for physical exertions beyond the powers of the average man half the President's age.

FILM OPERATORS' STRIKE AVERTED

UNION FIRM FOR A RISE

Leaders Demand 10 Per Cent. Increase and Owners Offer 5 Per Cent. in Houses of 600 Seats.

A strike of motion picture operators employed by the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce was averted last night following the entrance into the situation of Homer J. Brown, a mediator of the United States Department of Labor.

Leaders of Moving Picture Operators' Local 306 and of the theatre owners met at the Hotel Astor and late last night the preliminary provisions of the new agreement were framed. These included a 5 per cent. wage increase to operators in theatres having 600 seats or less.

At a late hour the union leaders were still demanding a 10 per cent. increase for theatres seating between 600 and 1,000 people and the owners had offered a 7½ per cent. increase.

Until yesterday afternoon it appeared that a strike was inevitable. Then Mr. Brown met both sides and a meeting was arranged at the Hotel Astor. The union was represented by President Samuel Kaplan, Vice President Charles F. Eichhorn and F. R. Day, Recording Secretary. The owners were represented by Charles O'Reilly, President of the Chamber, and Harry Suchman, Chairman of the Negotiating Committee. Both sides had counsel.

Employers Ready to Fill Jobs.

The employers announced yesterday that they were ready to fill the places of the 250 operators employed in their 150 houses if no agreement was reached. They declined to grant the union's demand of 20 per cent. increase for the men and a two-shift system, which would compel them to open their houses for twelve hours a day. They said there was no need for lengthening the day in the neighborhood theatres they represented, and asserted that the operators already had the forty-hour week. The men receive between $62 and $96 a week, it is said.

It was charged by Mr. Suchman that the union had increased its numbers to such an extent that many were unemployed and in order to give these men employment the union resorted to a demand for two shifts. Two shifts of men in one day of eight hours was an impossible condition, he declared.

"The union has 1,400 members but there are in the city 4,500 licensed motion picture machine operators," said Mr. Suchman. "Of the 1,400 union men only about 500 are regularly employed. There are 350 men employed under non-union conditions. The remainder of the operators, union and non-union, are either unemployed or engaged in other occupations. A strike would not handicap us, as we would be able to draw on sufficient non-union men to fill the places of the strikers."

Police Watch Theatres.

Precautionary measures by the police were ordered yesterday by Chief Inspector William J. Lahey when the strike appeared imminent. The patrolmen in the various precincts were instructed to pay special attention to motion picture theatres after midnight.

The most important of the 150 theatres involved in the situation are the thirty house operated by Small & Strassberg, eight houses operated by the Consolidated Company, six houses operated by Grober & Noble, and fourteen owned by Katz & Rosensweig.

The Broadway motion picture houses were unaffected, as contracts with the union for these houses were signed last week.

HALL INQUIRY TURNS TO HENRY STEVENS

Mr. Stevens said that Captain Walsh and Sergeant Burke had questioned him about his ownership of firearms. He told them the various rifles and shotguns he owned, he said, and in response to their interrogation on revolvers, answered: "I never owned a pistol in my life."

Inspector Underwood said that Mr. Hamborzsky had made his affidavit last Wednesday. In it, according to the police, he detailed conversations with Dr. Hall in which the slain Episcopal cleric asserted that Henry Stevens had threatened him unless he renounced his intrigue with his choir leader.

Some time in 1921, according to the affidavit of Hamborzsky, he had a talk with Dr. Hall in a railroad station. The location of the station was not disclosed yesterday, but four years ago when the Hungarian minister first told his story, the station named was the Pennsylvania Station in New Brunswick.

Hamborzsky said that Dr. Hall chatted in lively style about Mrs. Mills. He said that the rector had indicated that he was very much afraid of Stevens, because the latter, according to Hamborzsky, had said that if Hall "did not stay away from that woman something would happen to him." Hamborzsky said Dr. Hall admitted that he was in love with Mrs. Mills and that all of the Hall relatives "hated him" for it. He further quoted the slain rector as attributing to Henry Stevens the following:

"'If you do not give up Mrs. Mills I'll show you what I will do with you.'"

The Hungarian minister said that Dr. Hall had referred to Mr. Stevens as "Henry Stevens" in the conversation and that he, Hamborzsky, had asked who he was. "My brother-in-law," he quoted Dr. Hall as saying. Another snatch of the Hall-Hamborzsky conversation, as the maker of the affidavit recalled it, was:

"'I am in fear of my life. I don't know what may happen to me when I am with Mrs. Mills. I am thinking of giving up my charge, divorcing Mrs. Hall and marrying Mrs. Mills.'"

Talked on Divorce Laws.

The affidavit further said that Dr. Hall had talked at some length on the divorce laws of New Jersey and those of other States and certain countries in Europe. Inspector Underwood was asked about a report that Stevens's alibi was being checked over.

"That is so," he said. "There is some story about his car having been run many miles on the night of the murder. According to his story, however, he was fishing in front of his home that night. All things must be checked over in a case of this kind. For instance, we are trying to find the man who owned the garage where Stevens kept his car four years ago. That garage has changed hands five times in the last four years. Also we are looking for a witness who is said to have declared, four years ago, that the fishing party was held on Sept. 13 and not Sept. 14."

The Inspector admitted that the visit of Lieutenant Walter Cieciuch to Cleveland on a letter clue had been vain. Lieutenant Cieciuch was instructed to stop off at Ossining last night to check on a letter received from there. This communication asserted that the murder weapon was bought in Ossining. Inspector Underwood was frankly skeptical. Another detective is in Brooklyn working on another anonymous letter writer's "clue."

Senator Simpson and Inspector Underwood said that other arrests would be made in the case unless present leads proved blind ones, but neither expected any arrests soon. Inspector Underwood will remain in Jersey City this morning in conference with Senator Simpson and with John J. Beggans, Commissioner of Public Safety. Owing to the absence on vacation of Deputy Commissioner Joseph A. Faurot of New York, fingerprint testing of the clothing of the dead couple will be deferred.

Four Prints on Card.

Inspector Underwood said that several fingerprints in addition to those of "Willie" Stevens had been found on the calling card which was propped against Dr. Hall's shoe when the bodies were found. At least four persons, one of them a New Brunswick newspaper reporter, are known to have picked up the card before the bodies were moved, to read its inscription. Investigators assume that the other marks were left on the card in this fashion. They are checking the prints, however.

The Inspector said that he knew of no plan to ask Mrs. Hall for her fingerprints. A story had been published that the authorities sought her fingermarks and those of Henry Stevens. Senator Simpson also said the report was news to him.

Miss Mazie Clemens, a reporter for The World, made an affidavit yesterday for the State. She swore that she saw Henry Carpender take papers and a drawer, apparently part of a desk, from the Hall home the day after the bodies were found. She saw Carpender put the papers and the drawer into a car that was waiting at the door. The driver of Miss Clemens's taxi told her that the woman sitting in the waiting machine was Mrs. Anna Bearman, a cousin of Mrs. Hall. Miss Clemens said that her driver told her, as the other machine moved away, that the car took a course toward the Henry Carpender home.

The reporter said that she had not known the identity of Henry Carpender then, but saw him later and recognized him. Another item in Miss Clemens's affidavit was a conversation she said she had with William Fitzpatrick, Middlesex County fingerprint expert, who was killed in an automobile wreck two years ago. She quoted Fitzpatrick as saying he had found fingerprints on the rector's calling card. He had not photographed them because the late Azariah Beekman, former Somerset County Prosecutor, had told him not to do so, said Miss Clemens's affidavit.

David's Absence Unexplained.

The "disappearance" of Ford A. David, Middlesex County detective, was unexplained yesterday. David had been under fire for his part in the tracing of a gold brooch clue. The brooch was found near the murder scene by Edward Tierce, innkeeper, who turned it over to David. The county detective subsequently gave a brooch to Frank J. Daly of Highland Park. The State contends that the Tierce brooch and the one given to Daly, who claimed it, were not the same.

David went on a vacation unexpectedly on Monday night. Inspector Underwood said that David's wife had reported that the detective had left no address. His superiors in the Middlesex County Prosecutor's office had no idea where David had gone on his holidays.

Frank J. Daly will be questioned either today or tomorrow. His examination will be undertaken by Senator Simpson personally.

R. H. Nielson, of counsel for Carpender and Stevens, visited the jail at Somerville last night. He remained an hour and a half with Carpender. He said his visit was merely a "social call."

ASBURY PARK EXPECTS 1,000 BABIES TO PARADE

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—An influx of visitors to this city began tonight on the eve of the thirty-fifth annual baby parade. Until a late hour the carnival officers on the Boardwalk were registering entrants for the parade tomorrow afternoon. More than 1,000 children will take part.

A throng of at least 100,000 will witness the parade along Ocean Avenue. Today the construction of a large amphitheatre to accommodate 10,000 spectators was completed. Thousands more will witness the procession from seats along the ocean-front boulevard.

The parade will move in seven divisions, preceded by Miss Dorothy M. Hetzel of Newark, N. J., "Queen Titania XXX." With the Queen will be her court of two Princesses and eight maids of honor. Governor Moore and his staff will review the procession. Lois Wilson, cinema star, will be the city's guest of honor.

The parade is to start at 2:30 P. M., the entrants assembling at the Beach Front Casino one hour before that time. More than 120 prizes are to be awarded. Decoration of the city in the colors of the house of Titania, purple and gold, was completed today.

MANLEY BANKS' LOSS PUT AT $30,500,000

15 NEW INDICTMENTS FOUND

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 31.—W. D. Manley, President, and four other officials of the defunct Bankers' Trust Company were indicted today by the Fulton County Grand Jury in connection with the failure of more than 100 banks in Georgia and Florida for which the trust company acted as fiscal agent. Warrants will be served tomorrow and bonds of $160,000 will be demanded of the defendants. It was stated today by Assistant Solicitor General Hudson that approximately $20,000,000 was lost in deposits, capital and surplus when the Georgia banks were compelled to close, while the loss of the Florida banks was about $10,500,000.

Fifteen indictments, ten charging larceny after trust, three a misdemeanor, and two a felony, were returned by the jury. Mr. Manley was indicted jointly with Paul J. Baker, treasurer; John D. Russell, assistant secretary; J. A. Sasser, vice president, and L. R. Adams, secretary, in eight true bills charging larceny after trust in connection with funds received from banks in Florida, which, it is alleged, were converted to the use of the defendants.

The Federal Grand Jury will convene tomorrow to continue its inquiry, with a large number of witnesses summoned.

Mrs. Manley Tells of Deals.

Mr. Manley's connections with New York stock brokerage firms formed one of the most interesting features of the testimony given by his wife before the Commissioner in Bankruptcy. Mrs. Manley testified that she did not approve the use of her money in the Stock Exchange, but yielded to the advice of her husband, and that, contrary to the experience of many bankers in Wall Street, all his investments had turned out successfully.

The first investments seemed to have been made with Livingstone & Co. of New Yorw, Mr. Manley opening a du Pont account with $5,000, which proved very profitable.

Mrs. Manley stated that later, although she did not allow her name to be used, she bought some du Pont stock twice outright, not on margin, and that "we bought many other good stocks together." She said she received some of the cash from time to time and deposited it in one of the banks controlled by her husband when the crash came.

That the Manley account with the Livingstone firm was valuable was indicated by Mrs. Manley's testimony that her husband had a Rolls-Royce automobile, which he said the Livingstone Company gave to him, but Mrs. Manley said that car "didn't run well."

Mrs. Manley testified that she had a personal account with Swartout & Appensellar, and that both she and her husband put their profits in bank.

"I received a check this Summer for more than $7,000 from Appensellar," she said.

The witness said she wrote to the New York brokerage house to close the account, which was her's, and that she received the check, but she could not recall whether she got it before or after the Bankers' Trust Company crash. "This Summer" was all she could remember.

The lawyers then tried to show that the account was in Manley's name and the money was sent in Mrs. Manley's name on his request, but Mrs. Manley insisted the money was her own.

A letter from the New York company was introduced, dated Aug. 26, it was said, which set out that Mr. Manley had ordered the account closed. It also was stated that Mr. Manley had drawn out $10,000 in January and $7,500 in April and had put $1,000 in the account by check.

BETTIS HAS BAD TURN; HIS PARENTS NOTIFIED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Lieutenant Cyrus K. Bettis, army aviator injured in a crash in Pennsylvania last week, has developed spinal meningitis and his condition is critical.

Bettis's parents, in Port Huron, Mich., have been notified of the complications in his condition and it is expected they will come to Washington.

The aviator is at Walter Reed Hospital, where he was brought by airplane from Bellefonte, Pa. At that time it was announced by hospital physicians that his condition was satisfactory and his recovery anticipated despite a broken leg, fractures of both jaws and facial and body injuries.

Bettis was injured when his airplane en route from Philadelphia to Selfridge Field, Mich., crashed in a fog in the Alleghany Mountains of Pennsylvania. It was forty-three hours before he was found, and in the meanwhile he had crawled and hopped six miles to a highway, where he was discovered and taken to a Bellefonte hospital.

Boy III From Bananas Found In Dump.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Aug. 31.—Fifteen unripe bananas found in the city dump here proved too much for Michael Patonick, 11 years old, of 534 Kennedy Street, and now he is in the City Hospital in a critical condition. Michael was one of a group of twenty boys who came upon the treasure this afternoon. He was a participant in an informal banana-eating contest, which started at once, until he fell over unconscious. The other boys ran away, and a passing motorist who saw the unconscious boy telephoned to the police, who took him to the hospital in an ambulance.

EPIZOOTIC OF ROUP FOUND AMONG FOWL

An epizootic of diphtheretic roup, similar to diphtheria in human beings, has broken out in the shipments of live poultry from some Western States to this city and has compelled Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris to take drastic action.

In addition to the appointment of veterinarians to examine the fowl, many thousands of chickens with the disease have been ordered killed. In the cars already examined, the plague, it was found, had killed several thousand chickens.

The investigation is in the hands of Chief Veterinary William C. Miller, with six vetermarians and two lay inspectors. The examination revealed that the fowl were suffering from diphtheretic roup, the symptoms being swollen eyes and throats.

Veterinarians Lester Krohn and Williams C. Miller, who examined four cars of poultry from Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, found that the epizootic had affected a large proportion of the fowl. A car accommodates 3,000 chickens. In the first car examined the officials found 600 dead chickens and 200 suffering from the disease. Those showing symptoms of the disease were ordered killed. In the second car were 75 dead chickens and 200 sick. The third car contained 100 dead and 100 sick chickens and the fourth car had 313 dead and 248 sick.

In view of the fact that more than $7,000,000 worth of poultry weighing 23,000,000 pounds will arrive here for consumption over the Jewish holidays, Commissioner Harris is taking steps to eliminate all diseased poultry before it reaches the public.

The Commissioner has appointed the six veterinarian inspectors to the following districts: One each at Bushwick Terminal, Mott Haven, West Sixtieth Street and Ozone Park, and two at the New Jersey terminals.

Order Calls Loans to Farmers to Force Them to Sell Grain— Postage to America Up.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 31.—The price of the stabilization and rebuilding of a country decadent for years is being felt by the Polish Government in the strong contrast today between the increased strength of the industrial and financial sections and the overwhelming slump in the agricultural elements, which constitute the principal strength of the country.

The drift of events which is making trouble for the Government is to be found in the fact that, while the banks and factories are prospering, forced measures are being taken against the producers of foodstuffs, this being manifested today in an order recalling loans to farmers in order to force them to sell their stocks of grain.

The resulting disturbances were echoed among the little farmers, who were forced to dispose of this year's yield as soon as it was threshed at minimum prices, while in the cities the price of bread has been raised three times in the past week.

Also, because of the lack of State income in the wide agricultural areas, the postage on letters to friends in America will be increased 10 per cent. tomorrow.

Simultaneously the Government has issued an order increasing the pay of non-commissioned officers, following the recent heavy increase in the pay of officers, while members of the Government are being notably underpaid.

Marshal Josef Pilsudski, for instance, receives at present some 1,500 zloty (nearly $200) a month more than Premier Bartel. This brought on another storm, which is one of the difficulties the budget makers have to solve in the reconstruction process.

The agriculturists, watching with a jealous eye, have continued the bull movement on the Stock Exchange, which today again carried up securities 25 per cent. on an average and brought the Bank of Poland stocks to 107, the highest mark ever reached.

Stockholders of the Polish Bank at a meeting today voted all the amendments to the bank's Constitution, consisting of eighty-five articles, most of which are reputed to be due to the recommendations of Professor Kemmerer, chief of the Advisory Commission.

First, increase in capital stock from 100,000,000 zloty to 150,000,000 zloty in case of emergency.

Second, 5 per cent. of silver, in addition to gold, to be permitted to back paper currency notes, and freedom to increase the currency.

The Government's recent action against increasing the cost of staple commodities is not yet complete and the battle is likely to continue indefinitely.

The textile districts unemployment today was announced to have decreased by 4,200 in the past week. The total now is 250,190, while two months ago it was over 300,000.

A grievance of the Government workers against the Industrialists is that half holidays on Saturday have been abolished by decree from Sept. 25, while the unions still enjoy this privilege. The Government meanwhile is increasing hours and contemplating a subsidy.

An ambitious plan for a huge mercantile fleet in European waters is being fostered by a company now in the process of organization.

Talk With Hawaii by Radio.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—An amateur radio operator on an island off t Massachusetts coast, using a thirteen-watt transmitter run on dry batteries, chatted for twenty-three minutes with Hawaii on the morning of Aug. 6. The feat was made known today by the operator, Richard P. Upham, who has a station on Baker's Island, five miles out from Salem. He waited until he received a card from E. F. Wood, opera or at station HU-AJL, at Lihue Kauai, Hawaii, confirming the two-way communication.

A SAFE, DEPENDABLE LAXATIVE

REVIVAL RIVALRY DRAWS TWO GROUPS

OTHER FACTION NEAR BY

Young Persons Visit Both Meetings —Court Reserves Decision on Injunction Row.

Mrs. Mattie Crawford, "Sunshine Evangelist," of Los Angeles, preached in Flushing last night, but not in the tent from which she was excluded by an injunction issued by Justice Burt J. Humphrey in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. She had attended a hearing on the order and expected a decision dissolving the injunction against her.

The evangelist and the faction supporting her assembled near the gospel tent ready to resume services. A little way apart the faction led by W. H. Coad, Flushing real estate man, and Mrs. Coad also collected.

When 8 o'clock came and there was no word from the Court, Mrs. Crawford led her band, numbering about 200, a block away to a vacant house, the old Stuart Brown mansion, mounted the porch and began a revival meeting. At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Coad and their followers, about 100 in number, went into the tent and began services there, with the Rev. Mr. Sutton of Newark occupying the pulpit.

"I Need Thee Every Hour," the Crawford faction sang. Then Mrs. Crawford began her sermon.

"I know no better place to be saved than here under God's sky," she said. "We don't need a tent or roof over us. Come up and be saved."

No one went forward, but many young people, who had come out of curiosity, wandered about the edges of the crowd, visiting first one gospel meeting, then its rival.

"Now we've seen this show. Let's go see the other one," some of them said.

Mrs. Crawford made no reference to the trouble with the Coad group. Her meeting ended while the one in the tent was still in progress, and her daughter, Mrs. Alma Granning, urged every one not to go near the tent, in order to avoid trouble.

Meanwhile, the Rev. Mr. Sutton also was avoiding all reference to the difficulties and urging his hearers to be converted, because a converted person forgot all his enemies and was at peace with the world.

It was not certain last night whether Mrs. Crawford would continue her outdoor revival, as the one yesterday evening was launched on the spur of the moment.

The clash over the right of Mrs. Crawford to continue her revival meetings in a tent in Flushing was aired in the Brooklyn Supreme Court yesterday. Charges of improper utterances on the part of the evangelist and counter charges of "spirit message" interference marked the proceedings.

Mrs. Crawford was stopped while preaching on Saturday night by a policeman and narowly escaped jail commitment for continuing to preach despite an injunction restraining her from making further use of the tent.

Justice Burt J. Humphrey reserved decision on Mrs. Crawford's applications to vacate the injunction and to restrain Mrs. H. W. Coad from interfering with her, and also took under consideration the application of Mrs. Coad to have the evangelist adjudged in contempt of court for violating the original injunction.

"I think this dispute has already destroyed the religious value which might otherwise have accrued from this campaign," the Justice commented at the conclusion of the argument.

M. E. Keyes, attorney for the Revival Committee, said that the evangelist's preaching was so sensational that the committee had to tell her it could not sponsor her work. Although she had read the restraining order, he said, she deliberately disregarded its terms.

John Holley Clark Jr., attorney for Mrs. Crawford, admitted that his client acted in an illegal manner when she disregarded the restraining order, but said she had been ill-advised by another lawyer and was ready to be punished if the Court thought she should be. The injunction, however, had been obtained by the committee, he said, by concealing from the Court the fact that Mrs. Crawford was under a definite contract to conduct the revival services.

Mrs. Crawford's attorney laid the blame for the dissension on what he termed Mrs. Coad's habit of interfering with the evangelist on "advice from the spirits."

M'CARL CUTS OFF PAY OF INJURED GUARDSMAN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—An employe of the Federal Government who goes into a State encampment with the National Guard and is injured while on such service is not entitled to an extension of his "military leave" on that account, according to a ruling just made by J. R. McCarl, Controller General of the United States. He also held that Federal employes are granted "military leaves" of ten days only for encampments held by authority of the act of 1916, under which the Federal Government shares expenses with the States. If the encampment is held under independent State auspices, "military leave"—that is, leave with pay—is not authorized.

The ruling was made in the case of Raymond R. Fox, an employe of the Fort Worth Postoffice. Fox was granted leave to attend an encampment in Texas, during which he sustained an injury and was sent to a base hospital at Fort Sam Houston.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 31 (AP).—Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, who is a candidate for his former seat in the Senate, is against abrogation of the two-thirds rule in party nominating conventions, he declared, while on a business trip here.

"The opponents of the two-thirds rule say that its use prevents worthy candidates from obtaining nomination. I believe just as strongly that the rule prevents unworthy candidates from being selected. Many of those who oppose the rule could not obtain the necessary two-thirds majority to be nominated," Mr. Pomerene said.

E. C. Rowland, Former Draftsman, Shoots Himself in Home.

METUCHEN, N. J., Aug. 31.—Edward Clinton Rowland, a draftsman, who was one of the pioneer employes of the Edison works at Menlo Park, committed suicide early this morning at his home, 118 Highland Avenue, by shooting himself through the head with a shotgun. Mr. Rowland, who was 68 years old, had been in ill health for several years. Five years ago, following a nervous breakdown he was compelled to close his office in New York and find outdoor work.

He obtained a position as superintendent of the Metuchen Golf and Country Club, but a few months ago his health was so bad that he was obliged to give this up also. Yesterday morning he arose early as usual, Mrs. Rowland was busy downstairs with the housework when she heard the report of the gun. She found her husband dead on the floor of his room. Mr. Rowland is survived by his widow and two sons, Edward Clinton Rowland Jr. of Newark and Wilson T. Rowland of Metuchen. He had lived in Metuchen all his life, and in his younger days had a reputation as an athlete.

DOHENY AND FALL ATTACK INDICTMENT

ARGUMENT SET FOR OCT. 4

Secretary of Interior Had No Authority to Lease, So Acts Were Void, They Contend.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Notwithstanding the pendency of a motion to dismiss the special appeal in the naval oil lease cases, Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall submitted briefs by counsel to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals today in support of their contention that the indictments returned against them for alleged conspiracy to defraud the United States are invalid and should be quashed.

This was in accordance with the decision of that court that the appellants were entitled to a review of the decision of Justice Stafford overruling the demurrers to the indictments submitted in the District Supreme Court.

Argument Set for Oct. 4.

Frank J. Hogan, counsel for E. L. Doheny, and George P. Hoover and Levi Cooke, counsel for Mr. Fall, submitted separate briefs preliminary to the argument, set by the Court of Appeals for Oct. 4.

The demurrers were based principally on the contention that Mr. Fall had no authority under the law to lease these naval oil reserves and that anything he did in connection therewith was void.

Messrs. Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, special counsel for the Government in these cases, asked the Appellate Court, on the strength of the Walsh bill which prohibits appeals from interlocutory orders of the lower court, to dismiss the special appeals which were allowed by the Appellate Court shortly after Justice Stafford overruled the demurrers to the conspiracy indictments.

After quoting the Constitution and numerous judicial decisions construing it, to the effect that an indictment must clearly set forth the precise character of the crime with which the accused is charged in order that he may be in a position to prepare his defense, Mr. Hogan asserted in his brief that the indictment in question does not charge the commission of any crime whatsoever, and that when it was rendered it was based on the erroneous assumption of the validity of President Harding's now famous Executive order, whereby the Executive sought to transfer to the Secretary of the Interior the administration of the naval oil reserves, relieving the Secretary of the Navy, to whom the Congress had confided their administration.

Invalidity of Order Determined.

Since the rendering of the indictment, he pointed out, the invalidity of the Executive order had been judicially determined and had therefore been conceded by the Government. Therefore he contended the indictment amounted merely to a charge that Mr. Fall agreed to do what he could not do and which Mr. Doheny well knew he could not do.

Quoting special counsel for the Government, Mr. Hogan asserted they had formally stated that "any one dealing with" the Secretary of the Interior "would have noticed his utter lack of power and the contract taken from him and containing his signature would have been no more than a worthless piece of paper," and that this view had been upheld by the United States District Courts at Los Angeles and Cheyenne and by the United States Circuit Court at San Francisco.

He quoted from the brief of special Government counsel to the effect that if the Secretary of the Interior were to attempt to exercise in connection with the Naval Reserves the functions which Congress had specifically delegated to the Secretary of the Navy, "the first named Cabinet officer acts wholly without authority of law; in fact, his action is in contemplation of law no action at all."

"Specifically and exclusively," Mr. Hogan declared, "this indictment charges an agreement to defraud the United States by having Fall, as Secretary of the Interior, award, at the solicitation and request of Doheny, to named corporations, contracts and leases relating exclusively to the naval petroleum reserve of the United States, which contracts and leases Fall could not award."

Ask Quashing of Indictments.

For the reasons set forth, counsel for Messrs. Doheny and Fall asked the Court to set aside the ruling of the lower Court and to quash the indictments.

Associated with Mr. Hogan as counsel for Mr. Doheny are Frederic R. Kellogg of New York and Joseph J. Cotter, Harold Walker and William H. Donovan of this city.

COLOMBIAN MINERS URGE AIR ROUTES

British Experts See Planes as Best Means of Solving Transportation Problem.

The difficulties of transportation in Northern Colombia were told by J. A. Campbell and H. H. Jenks, British mining experts in the employ of the Colombian Mining and Exploration Company, which operates gold mines near Menizales, Colombia. They arrived yesterday morning on the Pacific States Navigation liner Essequibo.

"In many places the only way of travel is by means of the rivers," said Mr. Campbell, "and even that is exceedingly difficult. It took us fourteen days to cover approximately 250 miles along the Rio Magdalena on the way up.

"Naturally the shipments of gold which we make are subject to the same delays that we are, and that means loss of interest. A delay of six weeks, which is not infrequent, can be rather expensive. As I see it, the most practical solution of the problem would lie in the development of airplane travel. One German company is already operating small planes and doing very well. To extend the system it would only be necessary to construct more landing fields. The Government is planning to spend $7,000,000 on road construction. It could probably build the landing fields for less than that."

Another passenger on the Essequibo was George Rischlawy, formerly an Austrian Count, who has been in the Province of Pinar del Rio, Cuba, making a film for the Cuban Government.

"The Cuban Government wants to convince outsiders what a wealth of beauty the country has," he said. "They know of no better way than to show actual pictures of it. For that reason I was commissioned to take 25,000 feet of scenes of tropical beauty. I spent twenty-eight days riding up and down the island and was amazed at the gloriousness of what I saw."

Other passengers on the Essequibo included Sir Arthur Goldfinch, British nitrate magnate, and Mrs. Hydee de Uribini and Mrs. Nora Alvarado, daughters of the President of Costa Rica.

MOORE TO SHARE HONORS.

He Asks Retiring Army Sergeant to Ride With Him at Review.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 31.—Governor Moore will have the last of his reception days for this season Thursday at the "Little White House" in Seagirt. Essex, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Ocean, Sussex and Warren County delegations will be entertained.

It will be the occasion, too, of an unusual military event, as Sergeant Robert M. Burns of Brooklyn will ride with the Governor and share in the review of the troops. The honor was extended by the Governor upon learning that Sergeant Burns would be mustered out of service that day after thirty years of army life.

Sergeant Burns, who has been assigned to the New Jersey National Guard since December, 1919, will ride to the left of Governor Moore and will receive all of the honors usually accorded to the Executive at such a function. The Governor, on behalf of General Quincy A. Gillmore and the officers of the headquarters staff, will present a gold cigarette case to Burns. The case will be inscribed with the insignia of the four branches of the army in which Burns has served.

Plainfield School Head Retires.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 31.—Dr. Henry M. Maxson, who for thirty-four years was Superintendent of the Plainfield Public Schools and whose resignation was accepted last Spring at his own request, will retire tomorrow. He will be succeeded by Frederick W. Cook, who was his assistant.

HUNT FOR CRIMINALS AIDED BY BULLETIN

McLaughlin Orders Sam Browne Belts for Motorcycle Men—Three Squads Merged.

A new method of familiarizing members of the force with the characteristics of criminals being sought, was put into effect by Commissioner McLaughlin yesterday, when 20,000 copies of the new Police Bulletin were distributed to every detective and uniformed man in the department. Heretofore only detectives have been supplied with copies of police alarms for murderers, gunmen and burglars, and such information was conveyed to the uniformed men through copies posted in the muster rooms at the stations.

Under the new plan each patrolman is expected to carry with him a copy of the bulletin which will be issued every month so that when he sees a suspect he can consult the bulletin to satisfy himself if the person is the one sought. In addition to a photograph of each criminal, the bulletin contains Bertillon measurements and data on the habits of the criminals sought as well as a brief history of the offenses charged.

The bulletin was issued as the result of a conference of the Commissioner with Chief Inspector Lahey, and Inspector Coughlin, head of the Detective Division. In it is a statement by the Chief Inspector to the effect that patrolmen arresting fugitives will be rewarded for their work by departmental recognition. This, in effect, means that, in unusually good captures, the patrolmen stand a chance of being promoted to detectives.

The bulletin also informs the uniformed men that in the event they arrest any of the fugitives mentioned they are to remain in charge of the prisoner up to the time the case against him is taken up by the District Attorneys' offices. It has been the practice for patrolmen to turn over such prisoners to detectives, with the possibility that their participation in the arrest would not come to light.

In the bulletin fourteen criminals are described. The most conspicuous is John J. (Bum) Rogers, alias Hughes, who, on Dec. 14 last, escaped from a New York Central train at the 125th Street Station after he had attacked a keeper from Dannemora State Prison who was taking him to the prison from Nassau County to serve a twenty-five year term for a hold-up. The police believe he is hiding in the metropolitan district.

The Commissioner also announced that he had adopted the Sam Browne belt, worn in the army since the World War, for use by the 250 motorcycle men of the force. This, he said, would permit the motorcycle men to carry their pistols on holsters attached to the belt. An order for the belts was issued yesterday. Each holster will be attached to the belt by a patented device, which, it was said, would make it impossible for anybody but the wearer to remove the pistol. Captain Howe of the motorcycle Squad suggested the adoption of the belt after the shooting and killing of Motorcycle Patrolman Frank J. Murphy in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn several weeks ago. Murphy was slain by gunmen in an automobile.

About a month ago the Commissioner ordered several motorcycles to be equipped with bullet-proof shields, as a protection in pursuing criminals. These machines, it was said, would be ready within the next few weeks and would be used by patrolmen assigned to guard the jewelry district along Fifth Avenue.

Another move by the Commissioner yesterday was the merging of three detective squads. These were the Fence Squad, of which Lieutenant Richard Oliver was commander; the Safe and Loft Squad, under Sergeant Richard Fenelly, and the Truck Squad, under Sergeant Samuel Dribben. Acting Captain Daniel Curtayne will be chief of the consolidated squad, with the old commanders under him.

OUR NAVY DECLARES BLUEFIELDS NEUTRAL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Nicaraguan situation was discussed at the State Department today in a conference between Charles C. Eberhardt, American Minister to Nicaragua, who is here on leave of absence, and Acting Secretary of State Grew.

"The Galveston arrived at Bluefields on the twenty-sixth and proceeded to land a naval force.

"The town has been declared a neutral zone, owing to the decree which the Governor issued on Aug. 25 informing non-combatants that they would have to defend their own lives and property in case of battle. This decree was issued in view of the critical situation.

"El Bluff is threatened with bombardment tomorrow morning. Puerto Cabezas was seized by the Liberals on the 28th after a bombardment. Reports state that several soldiers were injured during the fight. The manager of the lumber company at Bragman's Bluff has requested intervention of the navy. Liberals have also taken possession of the Pearl Lagoon.

BRUNSWICK'S GREAT PRIZE OFFER

$5,000 in prizes for a name and slogan describing the lovely music of this new Brunswick reproducing musical instrument.

We waited two years before announcing this instrument ...there is no other like it...it reflects the latest developments in sound reproduction and acoustics...and contains in addition even more important discoveries of our own

THE past few years have seen stupendous advances in the art of music reproduction. To radio belongs the credit for a large share of these.

We have applied the new discoveries to a new reproducing musical instrument. For two years we have worked to perfect this instrument.

Today it is finished. We offer it to you, knowing it is perfect. How can it be otherwise—every important acoustical development has been accepted, or rejected, in its making!

Reveals beauty of new recording

The new Brunswick instrument reproduces the music of the new electrical records. As inventors of the "Light-Ray" electrical recording process (music by photography) we are pre-eminently interested in developing instruments which give these records perfect reproduction.

The instrument that amazed the critics

Already we have achieved one sensational success in reproduction. In co-operation with the Radio Corporation of America, General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, we perfected the Brunswick Panatrope, the world's first purely electrical reproducing musical instrument.

This is the instrument which held a New York concert hall audience enthralled with its music. The first time a machine ever successfully replaced human performers. The great metropolitan newspapers accorded the first Panatrope demonstrations front-page space. Critics and laymen alike proclaimed it the greatest musical achievement of the age.

Now a second achievement

The new Brunswick instrument is a second achievement of equal importance with the Panatrope. For it brings the magic of "music by photography" within the reach of everyone. We urge you to hear this instrument. It is futile for us to attempt to describe its music. We can only say that nothing in musical reproduction, except the Panatrope, surpasses the naturalness of tone which distinguishes this newest Brunswick achievement. The only way to realize this is to hear it.

Hear it, then name it

We want a name and advertising slogan for this new instrument. A name and a slogan that suggest the naturalness, the photographic quality, of music of the newest Brunswick invention. Hearing this instrument may suggest these to you. We will gladly pay $5,000 for the best suggestions sent us. Read our offer. Any Brunswick dealer will play the new Brunswick for you, without obligation. Hear it, then write down your suggestions, put them in the special box he has for the purpose, or mail them direct to us.

Free booklet, gives all details

To help you, we have prepared a booklet which describes the new Brunswick musical instrument and which states in detail the facts about the Brunswick Prize Offer. It is not necessary to have this booklet in order to compete, for all vital information is presented here, but this booklet may help you immensely. Ask your Brunswick dealer for a copy. Or write us direct.

What Shall We Call It?

WE WANT a name and slogan (slogan not to exceed 10 words) that describe the naturalness—the photographic truthfulness—of the beautiful music of this new Brunswick musical instrument. For such a name and slogan we will gladly pay the following:

First Prize $3000

RULES

1. Contest opens August 14. Closes at midnight, December 15, 1926. Anyone may compete except Brunswick employees.
2. The above prizes are offered for name and slogan together, not separate. A name will not be considered apart from the slogan that accompanies it, and vice versa. Any number of names with slogans may be entered. The same slogan may be offered with various names, and vice versa. There is no restriction regarding the kind of name, whether coined, from a foreign language, etc. The slogan must not exceed 10 words in length.
3. Write or type on one side of paper only, putting name on one line with accompanying slogan underneath it. Be sure to write your own name and address on each sheet of paper.
4. Entries should be sent to Box P-148, Prize Dept., The Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., 623 South Wabash Ave., Chicago. OR YOU MAY DEPOSIT THEM IN SPECIAL BOXES PROVIDED FOR THE PURPOSE IN BRUNSWICK STORES. Any Brunswick dealer will play the new Brunswick instrument for you without obligation.
5. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, a prize identical in all respects with that tied for will be awarded to each tying contestant.

INDICT FOUR IN PLOT TO SMUGGLE ALIENS

60 HAVE BEEN DEPORTED

Palestine Trading Co., Agents Say, Paid $550 for Each Alien Landed, Then Used Them as Salesmen.

An investigation instituted by the Bureau of Immigration of the Department of Labor more than two years ago resulted in the indictment yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn of two pairs of brothers, Joudi and Ali Esmail, and Dahdone and Moshosher Hamdan, proprietors of the Palestine Trading Company of 85 Washington Street, on the charge of smuggling aliens into the United States. The men are Syrians. They will be arraigned for pleading in the United States District Court before Judge Grover M. Moscowitz today.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter C. Shiel and acting Federal Attorney Harry Chiert are in charge of the prosecution. Mr. Schiel said the attention of the immigration authorities was drawn in the Summer of 1924 to the unusual number of men, apparently Syrians, who were going about the country offering Oriental laces and embroidery for sale. Many were suffering from trachoma and other ailments that would bar them from admission, he said.

Michael F. Brophy, Inspector of Immigration, was put in charge of the investigation. He had under him Inspector H. A. Bishara, who speaks the languages of the Near East. More than sixty Syrians were picked up and after it was found that they entered the country illegally they were deported. None of the deportees would tell how they arrived here.

Two Willing to Talk.

Finally, in July, 1925, a Syrian was taken into custody at Greenwich and Rector Streets. He told a few of the facts connected with his arrival here to Inspector Bishara. Later another Syrian was picked up in Detroit and another in Boston, both of whom were willing to talk.

Inspector Bishara got from them the information which resulted in the arrest of the four defendants early in July of this year. Considerable time was spent in verifying the stories of the three witnesses and in waiting to arrest other men suspected of being connected with the smuggling plot.

The four defendants were arraigned before a United States Commissioner and held in $10,000 bail each. They furnished $40,000 in Liberty bonds as security. The bail later was reduced to $7,500 each. When it was found that the three aliens were landed in Brooklyn, the case was transferred to the jurisdiction of the Eastern District of New York and presented to the Grand Jury in that district by Mr. Schiel.

According to Mr. Schiel the Government agents found that the four men under arrest had agents on lines that touched at Mediterranean ports. These men were known as "Yemenites" because they came from the city of Yemam, in Arabia. They obtained the names of persons who wished to leave Palestine and migrate to America. In many cases they met on board ship aliens who were being deported after unsuccessfully trying to get into this country in the regular channels.

Work of "Yemenites."

The "Yemenites," according to the Government agents, told the alien that they could get him to America if he would pay his passage to Marseilles. Once there they would smuggle him aboard the vessel on which they were working as coal passers. In some instances they would have him signed up as a member of the crew. When the ship arrived in this port the alien would be smuggled off and taken to the office of the Palestine Trading Company. At that place, according to the Government witnesses, the "Yemenites" would get $550 for each man produced. Then according to the witnesses, the men were sworn under the penalty of death not to reveal how they got here and were given a load of merchandise and assigned to a section of the country to dispose of it. The men were compelled, according to the witnesses, to make restitution of the money advanced to the "Yemenites" by the prisoners. Some paid in one sum; others, less wealthy, paid it in instalments. The men were compelled to remain in the service of the Palestine Trading Company until they had paid the original outlay plus the profit which the company fixed. This, the Government agents said, varied.

The witnesses told the Government agents that they did not know the total number of aliens brought over by the "Yemenites" and delivered to the trading company, but at one time they saw twenty-five aliens in one group in a coffee house in Marseilles. This number was later brought to this country. Mr. Schiel said the identity of the "Yemenites" is known to the Government agents, but as yet it has been impossible to arrest them.

Two of the vessels named as having carried aliens who were smuggled into the United States by the "Yemenites" are the steamships Braga and Patria. Mr. Schiel asserted he had no evidence that the officers of the ship knew anything of the presence of the aliens or of the plot to smuggle them.

The defendants told Mr. Schiel their arrest was due to a conspiracy on the part of a certain person to get the aliens acting as witnesses for the Government to tell their stories and to ruin the business of the Palestine Trading Company.

Gov. Ferguson Released 2,333.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 31 (AP).—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has issued 2,333 clemency proclamations to prisoners since she was elected Governor twenty months ago, according to records in the office of the Secretary of State. The records show that twenty-four have been issued in the last five days and 600 since Governor Ferguson announced her candidacy for re-election on April 6. She was defeated for the Democratic nomination, tantamount to election, by Attorney General Dan Moody in the run-off primary held last Saturday.

'JERSEY BEER BRIBE' CHARGES DROPPED

CHIEF WITNESS IS MISSING

Eight indictments returned in 1923 and 1924, charging Harry Foley and others with bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, were dismissed in the United States District Court yesterday at the instance of Assistant United States Attorney Robert B. Watts. Foley was secretary to Edward I. Edwards when the latter was Governor of New Jersey.

Other individuals and firms named in one or more of the indictments were Edward Butler, George Seeber, Harry Kuller, Carl Bauman, William Nathan, Harry Greenfield, Emanuel Eifenbein, Leo Zacharoff, the Peter Beidt Brewing Company, the Rising Sun Brewing Company, the Merchants' Forwarding Company and the Alcohol Warehouse Corporation.

The dismissal papers filed by Mr. Watts set forth that the evidence upon which the indictments were based had been obtained by Saul Grill, who as a prohibition agent attracted wide attention. He was said to have turned over to the Government more than $100,000 paid to him as bribe money. Grill, the papers say, has disappeared, and the Government does not believe it could obtain a conviction without his testimony.

The papers say further that at a previous trial on a charge of a similar nature the Government had been unable to convict Foley on Grill's testimony because the question of entrapment of the defendant by the prohibition agent had been involved. Grill had a wide reputation for that character of work.

The cases were alleged to have been part of a conspiracy to get New Jersey beer into New York and were known as "the big New Jersey beer bribery plot."

In the indictment naming Foley, Butler, Seeber and the two brewing companies it was specifically charged that the defendants paid Grill $2,000 as a bribe on Oct. 3, 1923; that three days later they paid him another $2,000 and that during the period from June 1, 1923, to Dec. 3, 1923, they entered into a conspiracy to pay Grill $27,000 "for the purpose of causing him to omit the reporting of certain violations of the national prohibition act which had at that time come to his attention."

STAYTON PREDICTS BIG WET VOTE HERE

Captain W. H. Stayton, President of the National Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, arrived here yesterday to organize the work of his association for the campaign that is to precede the State dry referendum this Fall. He is at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"My opinion," said Captain Stayton, "is that New York will go against prohibition by more than 1,000,000. We are going to organize for a big fight in this State, arrange about speaking, get out literature and hook up the radio. One peculiar fact about local conditions is that the really big leaders a both parties are wet. It is only the second rate leaders who are dry.

"No fewer than eight States will pass on the same question upon which New York voters will register their attitude this Fall. The question is, substantially, 'Are you satisfied with existing conditions, or do you want a change?' Four of the eight States are big ones and their attitude may help decide a Presidential election. They are what is known as pivotal—New York, Missouri, Illinois and Wisconsin, which has now become doubtful because of the LaFollette situation. In Wisconsin, as well as in New York, the people have never had a chance to vote on prohibition.

"There has never been a real effort to enforce prohibition in the country generally. To me Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews (in charge of prohibition enforcement) is about in the position of little Belgium in the first days of the war—earnest, sincere, energetic, but a dwarf standing in the way of a giant and trying to stop him.

"He was put into office with no appropriation to back him up, with a dishonest force to work with. His hands were tied and then the enemy was armed loose upon him. Either there should have been no Volstead act, or Congress should provide an appropriation adequate to carry it out. Otherwise we have national suicide as far as law is concerned.

"It is unmistakably true that the great bulk of liquor now drunk in this country is fake stuff. Simply industrial alcohol flavored with some sort of extract. From what I have heard, the bulk of real liquor entering this country comes over the side of ships. Yet since the new customs squad started searching ships it has caught only two vessels and both are Government-owned and Government-controlled. That is a curious commentary on respect for law among those who work for the Government."

He will also serve as dean of the graduate school.

TO OUTLINE WAGE DEMANDS.

Trolley and Bus Operators Will Hear Leaders' Proposal Tomorrow.

A mass meeting of public service trolley and bus operators to hear a proposal for the settlement of the wage agreement will be held tomorrow in Newark.

The plan to be submitted is the result of a study by the General Executive Board of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes. It will be outlined to the men by William B. Fitzgerald, First Vice President of the Amalgamated, who has been in conference with officials of the Newark local and members of the State Conference Board, representing the locals in public service territory.

Up to the present there has been no conference with public service officials, it being the desire of the union leaders to ascertain the wishes of the bus and trolley operators.

To Those Who Commute On the Long Island Railroad

No. 2

PROGRESSIVE railroads are never finished. Improvements are being made right along. This year as in the past the Long Island Railroad has under way an extensive program of betterments to improve its service to the people of Long Island—new stations, additional and improved cars and locomotives, heavier rail, etc.

In addition to this outlay, however, the company is required by public authorities to spend many millions of dollars for other projects. As a matter of information to Long Island Railroad patrons two of the principal items of this kind are explained below.

1. Electrification of Railroad Lines Within New York City Limits

All freight and passenger service located within the city limits must, according to state law, be operated by other than steam power by January 1, 1931. This means that steam locomotives cannot be used to haul passenger and freight trains or for switching cars.

In order to carry out this requirement of the law the Long Island Railroad must spend about $13,000,000 on a program which has already been approved by the Public Service Commission. Not only main tracks but also yards, sidings, float bridge approaches and shops must be equipped for electrical operation.

Electric locomotives must also be provided to haul through passenger trains to Jamaica instead of Long Island City for interchange with steam locomotives. Later on arrangements must be made to keep steam locomotives out of Jamaica. Large capital expenditures must be made, too, for power house and sub-station equipment.

2. Grade Crossing Elimination

This is one of the largest mandatory requirements imposed upon the Long Island Railroad. It involves a stupendous cost to the state and local communities as well as to the company.

In the last twenty-five years the Long Island Railroad has done more than any other railroad in the state toward eliminating grade crossings. Out of 955 public and semi-public grade crossings on the Long Island Railroad 316 were eliminated in that period.

The 639 crossings still left constitute an increasingly imperative problem due to the growing use of pleasure automobiles, busses and trucks and it will take many years to solve it.

The state now has funds to carry on this work on a large scale and the regulatory authorities are prosecuting it daily. Consequently, the Long Island Railroad must raise its share of the cost which amounts to 50% of the total. Meanwhile, of course, the railroad must spend large sums annually for the protection of these crossings and for warning devices.

Three Essentials Necessary to Relieve Congestion at Terminals and on Trains During Rush Hours

About 1,200 passenger trains are moved over the Long Island Railroad every day. They carry between 275,000 and 400,000 passengers daily and on the average 9 out of 10 get to their destination on time. At eight o'clock in the morning approximately 100 trains are moving simultaneously.

To relieve congestion at terminals and on trains during rush hours three things are recommended:

1. Adoption of the plan to establish a new terminal at Diagonal Street, in Long Island City. This project can be completed within twelve months from the time the city authorities give their sanction to proceed with the work.

2. Co-operation with the so-called stagger plan now being proposed by the Department of Health, City of New York.

3. Prompt extension of the city's proposed subway line to Jamaica.

About 60% of the Long Island Railroad passengers are commuters and receive therefore the benefit of low rate commutation fares. The management of the Long Island Railroad desires to give these and all other patrons the best possible service. It is to the interest of patrons that they co-operate with the Railroad in enabling it to obtain the means to serve their needs adequately and efficiently.

WHEN you step aboard a Baltimore & Ohio motor coach — uptown or downtown — you have "made your train".

When you travel on the Baltimore & Ohio your railroad ticket now takes you right from the heart of New York's activities to trainside at Jersey City — without extra charge and without the usual confusion and annoyance.

A fleet of commodious motor coaches operates between the motor coach stations in the heart of New York and train terminal in Jersey City, covering regularly scheduled routes, uptown and downtown, with stops to take on and discharge passengers at convenient points. All you need to do is to step aboard the coach and it takes you and your hand baggage direct to the train without charge for the service.

Completely equipped coach stations are located in the Pershing Square Building, on 42nd Street, just east of Park Avenue and opposite the Grand Central Terminal. Also in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, on the 33rd Street side, corner of Astor Court.

DEFIANT VILLAGERS GET A MONTH'S STAY

BUSINESS MEN PLEASED

Property Will Be Cleared by March 1 for Approach to the New Vehicular Tunnel.

Controller Charles W. Berry granted yesterday an additional thirty-day period of grace to residents of lower Greenwich Village to move from buildings which will be razed to extend Sixth Avenue from Carmine to Laight Street to furnish an approach to the Canal Street entrance of the Holland Vehicular Tunnel to New Jersey.

The extension granted by the Controller was informal and tenants of the buildings will have no legal right to remain there but will be permitted to continue rent free. The Controller explained that while the city had taken title to the buildings and eviction notices had been served, the law required a fifteen-day period for bids to raze the structures. If no bids are received, as frequently happens in such cases, the work will be done by the Bureau of Encroachments of the Borough President's office. General Berry added that another reason for delay was his desire to receive an opinion from the Corporation Counsel regarding the status of buildings containing machinery, where the machinery has not yet been removed under the eviction order.

No Hardship Intended by City.

"The city has no intention of working a hardship on these people," General Berry said, "but we must make a place for two big public improvements, the vehicular tunnel approach and the new west side subway, which will pass through this section. It is our intention to tear down the unoccupied buildings first. The property must be cleared and the vehicular tunnel approach ready by March 1 next.

"We served the eviction papers as a legal formality. Legally, the residents of these buildings have no right to occupy the buildings after today and they are remaining on their own responsibility."

General Berry said that he was acting by direction of the Sinking Fund Commission, of which he is Secretary and of which the other members are Mayor Walker, Joseph V. McKee, President of the Board of Aldermen; City Chamberlain Edward J. Flynn and Frank A. Cunningham, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen. The Controller added that no legal stay of the eviction order would be granted by the city.

Max Moscovitz, a clothier, of 227 Bleecker Street, headed a delegation of eighteen shopkeepers and residents to request the Controller to permit them to remain in the buildings a while longer. They at first asked the Controller to permit them to remain until Christmas, but were told that this was out of the question. Controller Berry finally convinced them that an informal extension for thirty days would be reasonable.

Mr. Moscovitz said afterward that the Controller's decision was satisfactory, particularly as he had intimated that in some cases, where immediate demolition of the buildings would not be necessary, the thirty-day period might be lengthened. Mr. Moscovitz said he and the other members of the delegation realized that the improvement was necessary and expressed belief that there would be no further difficulty.

Asks for Appeal to Courts.

The contention that eviction of the tenants and shopkeepers was illegal was raised by Harry Allen Ely, chairman of the Washington Heights Tenants' Association, who obtained the services of George N. Jesse, a lawyer, former Assemblyman and Republican candidate for State Senator in the Twentieth District, to appeal to the courts. Mr. Ely raised the point that while the owners of the buildings had been paid by the city for their property, the city had paid nothing to the tenants or shopkeepers, who, he claimed, had a vested right in their tenancies. He contended that their eviction by the city would be the taking of private property without compensation and therefore in violation of the law.

"I am in full accord with your contention that these tenants, although not the owners of real property, have a vested right in their homes and in their business," Mr. Jesse wrote in accepting Mr. Ely's request to take an appeal to the courts, "and are entitled to have a fair and honorable compensation, together with ample notice before they are required to vacate, either by eviction or otherwise.

"It is inconceivable that the City of New York, charged with the responsibility of caring for its people generally, and especially for those of the poorer class, should contemplate setting this great number of people out in the streets within a little more than thirty days of the Winter months, the majority of them without sufficient means or facilities for securing other living quarters.

"I quite agree with you that if the city is determined upon these evictions, in all humanity as well as of right, they should provide these unfortunates with homes equally as good as those from which they are about to be evicted. But you and I and every other man and woman in the city knows that there are not 10,000 homes available for these people at any price and not one-tenth of this number at a price these people are able to pay."

DISMISSES CHARGES AGAINST CREDIT MEN

Magistrate Hears Witnesses Are Lacking in the Riverside Association Case.

Informed that witnesses necessary to the prosecution were not available, Magistrate Norman J. Marsh in West Side Court yesterday dismissed a charge of forgery against Morris Novak, 46 years old, of 2,532 University Avenue, the Bronx, former President of the Riverside Business Men's Credit Association.

A charge of exceeding the authority conferred on him under the State banking laws by loaning the association's money in amounts larger than those allowable was dismissed against John W. Rothenberg, former member of the association's Credit Committee.

The specific charge against Novak was that he forged the name of "Aaron Silver," an allegedly mythical person, to a promissory note on which he borrowed [illegible] from the association.

When Novak was arraigned before Magistrate Edward Weil on Aug. 5, following his arrest the previous night, Assistant District Attorney Charles White informed the Court that his arrest was only the first step in an investigation under way in the District Attorney's office into shortages in the funds of the Riverside Association, which, it was believed, would total nearly $900,000.

At that time, according to Charles Glaser of the law firm of Hecht & Glaser, representing the Credit Association, examination of only one of the association's books had disclosed a shortage of $100,000. Glaser said then that he would turn over the result of his investigation to the District Attorney, with a view to seeking conspiracy indictments against seventeen former officials of the association.

TO SELL IMPERIAL STOCKS.

Japanese Royal Family Will Withdraw From Business Enterprises.

TOKIO, Aug. 31 (AP).—The imperial family of Japan, one of the richest in the world, has announced that it will dispose of securities it holds in various private enterprises in the country. One reason for their sale is that the imperial family wishes to avoid interfering in any way in altercations of capital and labor, it being impossible to call a strike against any companies in which the imperial household is interested.

The stocks and bonds, worth many millions of yen, were acquired by the late Emperor Meiji to aid "infant industries" to become large corporations, the imperial family will sell its interests in them to private individuals and purchase Government bonds with the proceeds.

BERLIN REMARRIAGE QUADRUPLY DENIED

"UNTRUE," SAYS COMPOSER

His Formal Statement Deplores "Unnecessary Publicity" and Contradicts Report.

Positive denials that Irving Berlin and his bride, who was Ellin Mackay, intended to be remarried in a Roman Catholic Church to appease her father, Clarence Mackay, were issued yesterday from three sources in addition to Mr. Berlin.

The Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, Assistant Secretary to Cardinal Hayes, said no dispensation for the marriage had been issued. Reports that such a ceremony would take place in the rectory of St. Patrick's Cathedral today were entirely false, he said. Father Superior Gaudet, of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Jean de Baptiste, Lexington Avenue and Seventy-sixth Street, where it was rumored that the ceremony would be performed, said that there was no truth in the report.

Mgr. Michael J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, when asked last evening if he was to perform a ceremony for the couple, replied: "I don't know anything about it," and added that no priest on the cathedral staff had any appointment to perform it.

Mr. Berlin, to settle the matter beyond question, late yesterday afternoon issued a signed statement from his office at 1,607 Broadway through Robert Crawford, general sales manager for the Berlin Music Publishing Company. It read:

"The report that Mrs. Berlin and I are to go through another ceremony is untrue. I shall deny no more of these false statements."

The composer expressed his impatience with the "unnecessary publicity," which he said had followed him since his return to the United States, and asked to be left alone. He spent a busy day at his office, interviewing many callers who had waited eight months to see him. He is also working on several songs.

ILL, CHANGES SHIPS AT SEA.

Stoker Operated On After Transfer and Is Recovering at Hoboken.

A transfer on the high seas of Oliver Douglas, 18 years old, of Mobile, Ala., from the Munson Line freighter Bibboo, on which he was a stoker, to the American Legion, belonging to the same company, probably saved his life, according to the doctor of the latter vessel. He was suffering from appendicitis. He is now at the Marine Hospital in Hoboken and is expected to recover.

Two days out from Rio de Janeiro on the way north the American Legion received a radio from the Bibboo, which was also bound to New York from the same city. The message said that Douglas was seriously ill and asked for assistance as the ship carried no doctor. Although the vessels were 300 miles apart the captain of the American Legion sent word that he was coming at full speed, and asked the Bibboo to heave to.

The next morning the two ships met. A choppy sea was running, but the sick man was lowered in one of the Bibboo's lifeboats. This was rowed into the lee of the American Legion. The sick man, comfortably strapped to a stretcher, was then hoisted in a sling.

St. Louis Retailers give their verdict

P+D+C Study Will Show You

"P" stands for people or population; "D" for dollars, wealth, purchasing power; and "C" for newspaper circulation coverage. When you make a study of these three factors in regard to The Billionarea, the Greater St. Louis Market, you find:

1. The Billionarea is the true, natural market of Greater St. Louis, not a mythical zone arbitrarily drawn on the map to include thinly scattered circulation in distant small towns and rural communities.

3. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has by far the greatest circulation coverage in The Billionarea, reaching 40,000 more families—160,000 more persons—than the second St. Louis daily newspaper.

4. This extra circulation [equaling the total population of a city like Dallas or Dayton] costs you nothing since the advertising rate of the Post-Dispatch is no greater than that of the second daily newspaper.

5. The Post-Dispatch alone reaches three out of four families in the entire Billionarea — practically every family of purchasing consequence.

THE BILLIONAREA

is more than a market name. It is a market condition. In addition to its unusual prosperity and growth, Greater St. Louis offers advertisers an annual purchasing power of over a BILLION dollars—one of the highest average purchasing powers per family of any city in America.

Has this happened in your office?

Sales Manager---

"Why should we sit here and try to guess right on our newspaper selection in St. Louis, when the retailers there KNOW from experience which is the most productive medium?"

Advertising Manager---

"That's the solution—let's get the retailer's viewpoint, because in the final analysis our advertising is designed to develop retail sales."

Stop Guessing!

Retailers know which Newspaper sells the most for the manufacturer

When a manufacturer advertises his product to create retail sales, his choice of a newspaper is, of necessity, a long-distance one. There is, however, an infallible guide to the most productive medium. That is: What newspaper do the retailers themselves prefer year after year?

The retail advertiser knows how to get results. He must know. His advertising must sell merchandise. He has, therefore, the closest possible check at all times upon the pulling power of the newspapers in his city.

The manufacturer who advertises in newspapers has exactly the same objective as the retailer—he aims to increase the volume of his sales. As a matter of fact, the manufacturer is in reality a retailer. Until his goods are sold, to the ultimate consumer, his sale is not completed. Therefore, the same newspaper that brings greatest results to the retail advertiser brings greatest results to the manufacturer.

The retailers of The Billionarea—Greater St. Louis—have consistently, year after year, placed twice as much advertising in the Post-Dispatch as in any other St. Louis newspaper.

For five consecutive years they have used almost as much space in the Post-Dispatch as in all three other St. Louis newspapers combined. And in the first six months of 1926 they actually placed more advertising in the Post-Dispatch alone than in all three others combined.

This record of overwhelming choice of the Post-Dispatch by St. Louis retailers is based solely on results. The manufacturer who intends to advertise in St. Louis has this record to guide him. Profitable results are just as certain for the manufacturer as they are for the retailer. P+D+C analysis reveals the fundamental reasons:

1. The Post-Dispatch circulation is largely concentrated in The Billionarea—the Greater St. Louis Market. Within that area, it reaches practically every family of purchasing consequence. Within that area, it reaches 40,000 more families [160,000 more people] than is reached by the second daily newspaper.

2. Within that area, the average purchasing power per family is three and one-half times greater than the purchasing power in the small town and rural communities outside of The Billionarea.

Even a casual P+D+C study of St. Louis will show that this concentrated circulation within The Billionarea, where the people have the most dollars to spend, offers an unmatched marketing opportunity which warrants any manufacturer in devoting a special appropriation and special effort in St. Louis through the Post-Dispatch.

The P+D+C Manual and The Book of Information About The Billionarea—The Greater St. Louis Market, will be mailed free to anyone interested in the advertising and sales opportunity of this market. Address St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

$8,279 Pay to See Clash Despite Threatening Weather—$6,770 Paid to See Five Games.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Cardinals displaced the Pirates as the leaders in the National League pennant race by winning both games of a double-header today, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1, from the world's champions here, while Cincinnati was losing to Chicago. Hornsby's men thereby gained a three-point advantage over Cincinnati with Pittsburgh one point further back.

The paid attendance today was 23,279, bringing the total for the five games on three days of the series to 86,779 paid admissions. A threat of rain held down the crowd.

Allan Sothoron held the Pirates to three hits in the final game and struck out six men. It was the first complete game he had pitched this season. The contest was unusual in that there were no extra base hits.

The Cardinals bunched hits in the seventh inning for their two runs and knocked Morrison out of the box. Singles by Hafey, O'Farrell and Thevenow, combined with a walk and a sacrifice, brought in the scores.

Pirates Score in Fourth.

Pittsburgh's lone run came in the fourth when Rhyne singled, Cuyler bunted and Barnhart walked, filling the bases, and Grantham sacrificed, scoring Rhyne.

Wee William Sherdel, the little Cardinal left-hander with the tantalizing slow ball, held the Pirates to seven hits in the first game, while Lee Meadows, formerly a Cardinal and now one of the aces of the Pirate staff, was slammed to all parts of the park. Hornsby's men collected a dozen safeties, including two home runs and a double, during the seven innings the bespectacled right-hander worked. Mahaffey relieved Meadows in the eighth.

The Cardinals scored the first run of the game in the second when Hafey forced Bell, who had singled, went to third on O'Farrell's single and completed the circuit when Rhyne fumbled Thevenow's grounder.

Cards Pile Up Three More.

The Cardinals added three more in the third inning, on singles by Douthit and Southworth and a home run by Bell. Straw hats galore were showered in the field by Cardinal fans.

The Pirates got their only run in the fourth when Cuyler hit into the left field bleachers for a homer.

In the sixth, Hafey hit into the left field bleachers for a home run, bringing the count to 5 to 1 in favor of the Hornsby men. Singles by Bottomley, Bell and Hafey gave St. Louis another run in the seventh.

12TH INNING SLIDE WINS FOR INDIANS

Summa Beats Throw to Plate, Defeating Browns, 6-5, After They Lead, 5-0, in Fifth.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Indians won today's game from the Browns, 6 to 5, in twelve innings, cutting the Yankees' margin to five and one-half games. St. Louis took an early lead of five runs on doubles by Van Gilder and Gerber and Rice's homer with a runner on base in the fourth inning.

St. Louis blew up in the sixth and Cleveland scored five runs, tying the count on an error by Gerber. Sensational catches by Rice prevented Cleveland from winning in the tenth and eleventh innings.

The winning run was scored on daring base running by Summa. He hit a double with one out in the twelfth. L. Sewell walked and Lutzke hit a grounder to Gerber, who fumbled and recovered quickly. He was about to throw to first when Summa dashed for home and beat the throw by sliding.

Pennock Lasts Only 3 Innings, Yields Six Runs and His Mates Fall by 8 to 5.

Pacemakers Play Wretchedly in the First of Series—Rommel and Pate Twirl for Mackmen.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

It will be no surprise to hundreds of persons to learn that the Athletics again paddled the Yankees at the Stadium yesterday. This sort of thing has been going on all season. The Mackmen have won eleven out of sixteen with the Yanks. The New Yorkers may be champions to a lot of folks but as far as the A's are concerned they are just a ball team.

The strangest of the strange goings-on yesterday was the way the Macks plied into Herb Pennock, the best of our pitchers. When Mr. Pennock retired at the end of the third, wearing a somewhat harried expression, the Philadelphians had compiled six runs and ten hits. This is more than Herbert generally yields in two complete games.

The Yanks spotted the Athletics six runs and lost by 8 to 5. . . very lugubrious situation has now arisen. The Indians stowed away another victory and are only five and a half games behind. In the last two games the pitching staff of the Yankees has allowed twenty runs—a ratio which, if prolonged, will land the Yanks in the world's series if they pay their way in.

Miller Huggins trotted out twenty players, including four pitchers, in a desperate effort to overcome the Philadelphia lead. There was no lack of fight or fire on the Yanks' part. They were spunky and aggressive, and the A's retorted in kind, which made it a fast game packed with action and verve.

Pate Finishes for Athletics.

Huggins used pinch hitters, pinch runners, pinch pitchers and pinch fielders, and Cornelius McGillicuddy met them all standing on both feet. Connie sent Ed. Rommel at the Yanks but at the start of the ninth he switched to Joe Pate, his aged relief lef-hander, because the Yanks were getting next to Rommel's offerings.

The Athletics tapped four of our pitchers for the grand total of sixteen hits, thirteen of which were assembled in the first four innings. After Pennock came Thomas for four rounds, Hoyt for one and Braxton for the final chukker.

The fun began when James Dykes doubled to right centre in the first inning. Lamar's single scored James, and a hit by Hale and Simmons's double brought in another digit. Fortunately, Hale died at the plate when Poole slapped one to Lazzeri.

With two out and a man on first in the next inning French beat out an alleged hit to Pennock. Several thousand witnesses were ready to make affidavits that Umpire Dinneen must have closed his eyes and guessed. Then Lamar and Hale hit into left and the Yanks were four behind.

Pennock Yields Two More.

At the rate of two runs an inning the A's were doing very well indeed. They grabbed another pair in the third. Simmons again doubled and Poole beat out a bunt to Dugan. Simmons went to third but perished at the plate when Perkins tapped to Lazzeri.

Galloway bounced one to Pennock, but Poole beat the throw home. Dykes hit to Gehrig and won 'he race to the bag. Lazzeri and Pennock rushed over and the throw clipped Lazzeri on the head, dazing him for several minutes. Perkins scored before the knockout.

Pennock had had enough and Adams batted for him in the same inning and walked. Koenig scored Adams with a double through Poole, and two outs brought Mark in.

Thomas was unveiled in the fourth and Lamar's single, Hale's sacrifice and Simmon's single brought in another run. In the ninth, for good measure, Lamar, Hale and Poole singled and relieved Friend Braxton of a tally.

The Yanks were not without their opportunities, but they didn't score again until the seventh, when Galloway's two-base wild throw on Paschal and Combs's single produced one run.

Yanks Lose Chance in Eighth.

Ruth singled, Meusel doubled and Lazzeri walked in the eighth. Bases full with none out and Carlyle batted for Dugan, only to hit into a double play, Ruth scored during the melee. Meusel followed on Collins's single.

Pickups and Putouts

Dutch Ruether is going to arise from a bed of suffering this afternoon and pitch against the Athletics, according to no less an authority than Miller Huggins. Ruether acted as a pinch-hitter yesterday.

If Dutch can beat the As, Huggins intends to put all his twirlers on a ration of ice packs and anesthetics.

The indefatigable Mr. Meusel loafed down to first base in the fourth and was out by a hair on Galloway's bad throw. A little faster pedaling by Robert wouldn't have hurt any.

For all of his three errors Galloway made the star play of the game when he scooted clear back of second for Lazzeri's grounder in the second.

DEMPSEY REVEALS KNOCKOUT PUNCH

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

The champion, after a minute and a half in what was to l ve been a one-round workout with Saxon, nicked the Connecticut lad sharply with a short, powerful left hook to the chin. The blow was delivered when Saxon came tearing in and as a consequence the Bridgeport lad went down like a shot, his head hitting the padded ring floor with a thud. He stretched there motionless, and Dempsey, looking surprised, stooped and with the aid of Gus Wilson and Captain Mabbutt lifted the lad through the ropes.

After a few minutes Saxon, smiling sheepishly, climbed back on the platform where Dempsey punches the bag to acquaint the crowd with the fact that he was not seriously injured, but long after the workout Saxon's head still was awhirl. The Bridgeport lad was recalling the fact that he had often engaged in terrific workouts with Lou Bogash, a fellow-Bridgeporter, and had stood up under Lou's punches without ill effect. "I just didn't see it coming," Saxon kept repeating.

High Light of Workout.

The knockdown of Saxon was the high light in what was otherwise a desultory workout. It is, of course, no great feat for a heavyweight to knock out a welterweight, but the knockout did reveal the destroying power of the Dempsey left hook. The blow traveled at most four or five inches. It was the first time that the champion had cleanly knocked out a sparring mate. The blow lifted Saxon off his feet and stiffened him in mid-air, so that he fell, hitting his head on the floor first.

This blow showed, too, that Dempsey has not entirely lost his hitting eye, nor has the champion lost any of the catlike effect that is his on the attack. He shot that blow through an opening the size of an egg, as Saxon had just tried a right to the jaw and missed. The latter's jaw was an inviting target and the champion acted instinctively in snapping the left forward.

Alex Hart, Philadelphia lightweight, was ready to jump into action when Saxon was carried away, and finished out the round and another with the champion. But Dempsey was affected by the knockout of his mate and it showed in his work. He was careful not to hit the smaller Hart on or near the jaw, but did let fly some vicious digs to the body and with a sweeping left hook, which was repressed, brought blood from Hart's lips.

Saxon Is Cheered.

It was at the end of a round with Hart that Saxon came smiling out on the platform amid thunderous cheers of the crowd. Dempsey, embracing the Bridgeport lad with his left arm, expressed his regret for the knockout and his relief that the boy was unhurt.

Dempsey worked the usual ten rounds before the crowd today, in addition to taking the customary jaunt on the road this morning with Trainer Jerry Luvadis. The titleholder, after seven days of working here, is heavier than when he left Saratoga Lake. His weight today was 196 pounds, an increase of a pound over the mark when he arrived here.

The principal part of Dempsey's drill today was six rounds of sparring against six mates, starting with Charlie Anderson, Chicago negro heavyweight; Tilly (Kid) Herman, Coast middleweight; Jimmy Brown, Panama negro welterweight, and Saxon and Hart.

Dempsey was hitting viciously. Particularly were the champion's blows to the body sent home with stinging effect, but the drill lacked the savage fury of yesterday's. Anderson told the world when he stepped from the ring after a round with the champion that Dempsey was hitting with terrific force.

Brown Shows Speed.

Brown gave Dempsey a good workout, for the champion had to chase the negro welterweight all over the ring as Brown skipped about lashing wildly with lefts and rights, some of which landed to the face. A right to the body, however, halted Brown after about two minutes and thereafter the champion drilled both hands to the body until Brown was weary.

Saxon was giving Dempsey a speedy workout until the destructive left hook halted the drill and then Hart filled in the breach, finishing the incomplete round and going an extra session with Dempsey when the champion requested it.

Before the sparring Dempsey shadow boxed for a round and drilled on the light bag for another round. He closed his workout with a savage attack on the heavy stuffed bag and the usual strenuous calisthenics and bending exercises which are part of the titleholder's daily drills. Dempsey ignored the pulleys today.

"He looks in great shape right now," said Mayor Bader. "His skin is clearer than it was at Saratoga Lake and his frame seems more solid. He looks bigger."

Accompanying Mayor Bader was Inspector Joe Altman of the New Jersey Boxing Commission who, too, praised the condition of the titleholder.

Martin Burke, New Orleans lightheavyweight, arrived at the camp today and will be ready to start working with Dempsey on Thursday. Burke unhesitatingly declared he picked Dempsey to beat Gene Tunney when the pair clash for the title in Philadelphia on Sept. 23.

"Dempsey looks in great condition right now and is bigger and stronger than Tunney," said Burke. "I think Dempsey will win because of the difference in hitting between them. Tunney cannot hit hard enough to hurt you and Dempsey can. That should determine the result. Another thing, Tunney makes it a practice to lead lefts and when he is leading a left for the body he pulls back his own body in starting the blow and is therefore a mark for a right cross. And Dempsey has a right which carries plenty of danger with it."

Burke boxed Tunney twice, and is therefore familiar with the challenger's style. The New Orleans lad, who weighs 171 pounds, demonstrated while working with Dempsey here five years ago that he is a suitable sparring partner for the champion. In his appraisal of Tunney as susceptible to a right-hand punch, Burke is supporting the contention of Harry Greb, former world's middleweight champion, who pointed out the same weakness in the challenger's style. Dempsey, apparently alive to this weakness on the part of Tunney, is perfecting a right to the body and to the head.

Dempsey will not workout tomorrow afternoon beyond taking a little jaunt on the road in the morning. He is scheduled to make a visit by auto to Camden, N. J., in the morning, to renew acquaintances with a kennel owner whose wolfhounds and police dogs are the admiration of the champion. In the afternoon Dempsey has arranged to pay a visit to the Children's Seashore Home, a home for orphaned crippled kiddies who are eager to see the world's heavyweight champion. Dempsey visited the home five years ago when he was training here for the Carpentier battle.

Tunney Plunges Into Books For Relaxation From Work

Special to The New York Times.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Gene Tunney spends his spare time in reading, and his library includes a wide range of novels, treatises and philosophies. He is somewhat partial to Jeffrey Farnol and especially to the "Amateur Gentleman" and the "Broad Highway," but he finds also great interest in the classics and in history. When he is tired he turns to lighter matter such as "Glitter," Katharine Brush's vivid novel of modern youth.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—With three of the thirteen rounds still to be contested, Frank J. Marshall of New York and Geza Maroczy of Budapest are tied for first place in the national masters' tournament of the Western Chess Association, both having scored 6½ points out of a possible 9. They are scheduled to meet in the semi-final round, and on that encounter will depend most likely the destination of first prize.

In the meantime Marshall has to reckon with Carlos Torre of Mexico, who, after his initial defeat in the first round, has gradually forced his way to the front until he holds third place, half a point behind the leaders.

With the exception of one game, the tenth round was completed today. The winners were Torre, Marshall, Banks, Jaffe and Kashdan, not a draw being recorded. Oscar Chajes of New York finished his adjourned game with L. J. Isaacs from the ninth round and won after 109 moves. This, so far, is the longest game of the tournament.

The summary of the tenth round: Showalter 1, Torre 1, Alekhine's defense, 26 moves; Marshall 1, Kupchik 0, queen's gambit declined, 30 moves; Isaacs 0, Banks 1, Sicilian defense, 42 moves; Lasker vs. Chajes, Ruy Lopez, adjourned; Jaffe 1, Fink 0, Ruy Lopez, 37 moves; Kashdan 1, Factor 0, Ruy Lopez, 20 moves; Maroczy, a bye.

SPECULATOR BIDS TUNNEY FAREWELL

DUE HERE THIS MORNING

In Philadelphia He Will Be Greeted by Mayor and Contingent of Marines.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.
Special to The New York Times.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 31.—With shouts of farewell and hopes of success ringing in his ears, Gene Tunney departed from Speculator this afternoon bound for Philadelphia, Stroudsburg and way stations in his quest for the heavyweight championship of the world. The entire native population of Speculator and the Summer visitors turned out en masse to speed the happy warrior on his way, and if best wishes could bring titles Gene Tunney would soon rule supreme in the land of fistiana.

The parting ceremonies were informal and spontaneous. The crowd gathered in front of the training quarters, where the challenger and his entourage were making ready for their departure. When Tunney appeared on the front porch the throng burst into a cheer.

Smiling and a bit embarrassed, the gay crusader paused for a moment and looked out across the placid ripples of Lake Pleasant, bidding a silent farewell to the waters where he has spent many happy hours during the last four weeks.

Challenger Addresses Crowd.

Then as shouts for "Speech! Speech!" echoed from the crowd he gazed down into the eyes of his admirers and spoke for a brief moment in that clear, calm, earnest way which is familiar to those who know him.

"It is with the deepest regret that I am leaving Speculator," he said. "I have found this an ideal spot for training, and the time I have spent here has been most enjoyable in every way. I want to thank you, kind people, for the good wishes with which you send me away toward the goal for which I have striven for seven years. I want to thank Bill Osborne for his hospitality and generosity in looking after my comfort, welfare and happiness.

"I am going, but I shall return—and if it is within my power the next time I come to Speculator it will be as champion of the world."

At this there was another outburst of cheering and shouts of confidence. The rest of the party, including sparring partners and trainers, followed the challenger into the waiting automobiles and started on their way to Albany. There they will catch the night boat for New York, arriving early tomorrow morning.

Tunney was accompanied by Louie Fink, his trainer; Osk Till, one of his sparring partners; a corps of newspaper men, and Pants Lawrence, the Adirondack guide, who says he is going in the official capacity of bodyguard to the challenger.

Albany Dines and Cheers Tunney.

ALBANY, Aug. 31 (AP).—Gene Tunney paused here long enough on his Stroudsburg (Pa.) journey tonight to attend a dinner in his honor and acknowledge an ovation of a large crowd gathered about the New York night boat on which he sailed.

The dinner was given at a club near here by prominent business and sporting men. Not satisfied with this manner of send-off, the sponsor of the dinner fired a broadside of fireworks as the steamer passed under an Albany bridge on the way downstream. The arrival of the contender at the boat pier was a signal for a rush of hundreds of persons to grasp his hand and wish him good luck.

Marines to Greet Tunney.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31 (AP).—Gene Tunney, who hopes to lift the heavyweight championship crown from the brow of Jack Dempsey on Sept. 23, will be here tomorrow to look over the battle ground.

Gene, a former marine, is sure to receive an enthusiastic reception from his former comrades among the sea soldiers stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, judging by the preparations the marines are making for him. Tunney will pay his respects to Mayor Kendrick and then will go to the Sesquicentennial stadium to look over the vast structure.

The Navy Yard adjoins the Sesqui grounds on the south, and here it is planned for the challenger to receive his greatest reception from the marines and sailors. When Dempsey visited the stadium last week the marines generously cheered him, but they wound up with "we want Tunney."

Gibson Completes Arrangements.

Tex Rickard returned to his desk in Madison Square Garden yesterday morning, following his turbulent session with the Pennsylvania boxing board on Sunday and Monday over the ticket allotments, and said that everything had been adjusted amicably.

Rickard immediately went into conference with Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, and completed arrangements for the important part that the challenger is to play in today's events.

Tunney is scheduled to arrive in New York at eight o'clock this morning on the night boat from Albany.

The party will take a 10 A. M. train out of the Pennsylvania Station for Philadelphia, where a day of elaborate entertainment will await the challenger.

Immediately after the festivities in Philadelphia, Tunney will be whisked away by Mayor Edinger in an automobile for Stroudsburg where this evening Tunney again will be feted and honored. Stroudsburg is to be Tunney's home until the day of the big fight.

According to Gibson, Tunney will lose no time resuming his training where he left off at Speculator, N. Y. Tomorrow will see the challenger right back to work again. Gibson, however, declared that he does not intend to allow Tunney to extend himself too much in his work for the next week or so. Tunney already is so far advanced, according to Gibson, that great care must be exercised that he does not go stale.

According to present training plans, Gibson said Tunney would indulge only in light work from tomorrow until Sept. 8. Then Tunney will sail into his work in earnest and a strenuous session is promised for the entire staff of sparring partners until Sept. 20. From that date until fight time, Tunney will just taper off in his work so as to be in the finest possible shape when he climbs through the ropes to face Dempsey.

Rickard Now Plans 140,000 Seats at Bout; Expects Receipts to Pass $2,000,000 Mark

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31 (AP).—Tex Rickard, returning here today, decided to increase the seating capacity of the Sesqui Stadium to 140,000. He confidently expects to fill the big bowl, and if he does the crowd will be the largest that has ever attended a paid athletic event in this country.

Architects are wrestling with the new plans for seats and propose to build out the end of the horseshoe, which is now open, and to erect additional seats on the running track.

Rickard said that owing to the overwhelming demand for seats there was nothing for him to do but to provide them. Telegraph wires and the mails are swamping him with requests for tickets, and he hopes to fill every order. He believes now that receipts will pass the $2,000,000 mark.

Ike Dorgan, member of the Rickard organization, already has requests for seats for 400 working newspaper men. They are from every part of the United States and from Canada and Cuba. The prize long distance request is from the Tokio Journal of Japan.

Among those requesting tickets today were Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and John J. McGraw of the Giants. Billy Richardson and Clark Griffith, joint owners of the Washington Americans, also enclosed certified checks for tickets. Richardson's order, it was said, amounted to $6,000. Bucky Harris and all members of the team are expected to be the guests of the owners at the fight.

BOARD AGAIN BALKS AT CROWNING WILLS

SEEKS PINCHOT INTERVIEW

Manager Insists Dempsey-Tunney Bout Would Be Barred if the Governor Heard His Side.

Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, renwed his efforts yesterday to have the State Athletic Commission take more action in behalf of his negro heavyweight challenger, and made a formal request at the board meeting that Wills be proclaimed the world's heavyweight champion. Mullins, however, made no further headway than on his previous visits to the commission.

He was warmly received, and was told that Wills still was on record with the board as the foremost challenger, but as for having the negro named the world's champion, Mullins was told the thing simply couldn't be done.

Mullins pressed his claim on the grounds that Jack Dempsey steadfastly has refused to defend his crown against Wills, and that Gene Tunney has announced that if he wins the championship from Dempsey in Philadelphia on Sept. 23 he never will give Wills a chance. Mullins also denied that he had ever been shown a bona fide contract signed by Tunney to meet Wills.

To this information the board listened patiently, but when Mullins was through Chairman James A. Farley and Commissioners William Muldoon and George E. Brower informed him that the commission had no authority to vacate titles and to name champions.

Mullins Cites Past Cases.

Mullins then reminded the board that it had taken similar action in the past. He cited the case of Johnny Wilson, who was dethroned as middleweight champion, and the title conferred upon Dave Rosenberg when he defeated Phil Krug.

This point was disposed of when Chairman Farley and Commissioner Brower told Mullins that they were not members of the Commission at that time. And to this Commissioner Muldoon added that since then the board has accepted the old custom of boxing that "titles can only be won in the ring."

Mullins appeared in a depressed mood when he left the commission office, but he was more talkative than usual.

"Wills is not getting a fair deal," declared the veteran manager. "I have thanked Chairman Farley and Colonels Phelan and Wear for the stand that they took in refusing Dempsey a license to fight Tunney here. But just the same Wills is not getting a square deal. He ought to be named the champion.

"If I could get fifteen minutes with Governor Pinchot," continued Mullins, "I am certain the Dempsey-Tunney fight never would come off in Philadelphia. I'd tell him something of the treatment Wills has received from both Dempsey and Tunney and he'd never let their fight go on.

Mullins Reads the Papers.

"The last time I visited the New York Commission they told me to read the papers. But from what I've read the last few days it doesn't look as though Wills is any nearer to getting a fair deal than ever."

Mullins ridiculed the story that he had been offered $200,000 for Wills to meet Tunney last year. He said Rickard once showed him a piece of paper which Tunney had signed, but it was not a bona fide contract.

"The nearest we ever got to getting a Tunney match," said Mullins, "was through Humbert Fugazy, who wanted to put the fight on at Ebbets Field. We agreed, but when the time came for Gibson to sign for Tunney he closed for the Gibbons match."

When asked when he intended to let Wills fight again, Mullins said the negro would be ready any time after Sept. 16. According to Mullins, the contract he signed with the Chicago syndicate for a Dempsey fight will remain binding on the negro until that date. By that time, if nothing further happens in the way of payments, which no longer seems likely, Mullins said that he would be free to negotiate with any promoter who wanted Wills's services.

Mullins intimated that Fugazy would be the promoter to first receive a call on Wills and that it is probable that he will be seen in action at Ebbets Field on Oct. 12.

Pinchot to Hear Mullins.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Aug. 31 (AP).—The final chapter in the preliminaries leading to the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight fight may be fought out on this small island, seven miles off the Rhode Island coast. Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, may appeal to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania during the latter's stay here in an effort to force the champion to meet the colored fighter. Governor Pinchot is resting at the Summer resort and declared tonight that he expected to remain here for another week.

When informed that Mullins had announced he would call on him, Governor Pinchot declared he would make no comment until he heard the manager's story. "I will have nothing to say at the present time and will make no comment until after I have listened to Mr. Mullins," was the Governor's statement.

SOLOMON STOPPED BY M'TIGUE IN 11TH

HANSEN PUTS ROMERO AWAY

Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion, knocked out King Solomon in the eleventh round of a scheduled twelve-round main bout at the Queensboro Stadium last night. Six thousand persons saw the Irishman, weighing 173 pounds, knock out Solomon, who weighed 189½, with such power that it was several minutes before Solomon could be revived and almost ten minutes before he was steady enough on his legs to leave the ring.

The Irishman won every one of the eleven rounds by a wide margin and was on the offensive throughout. He displayed his habitual cautiousness in the early rounds of the fight, but changed his style completely as he realized his mastery over his rival.

In the seventh and eighth rounds McTigue elected to slug toe to toe with Solomon. Throughout the ninth and tenth he continued these tactics and aroused the crowd to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Although it was the heavy hammering about the body that prepared Solomon for the end, a right and left to the jaw was the combination that finished the Panama heavyweight.

So surprised was the timekeeper that he did not begin to count until several seconds after Solomon hit the canvas. Then Referee "Kid" McPartland gave him the count at five and the timekeeper continued to the ten.

Before the bout was a minute old Solomon was on the canvas. This was due to McTigue's agility rather than anything else. The lumbering Solomon swung himself to the floor with a mighty right hander when the Irishman side-stepped. He was up immediately with a grin.

Solomon Goes Down Again.

In the second Solomon was on the floor again but again it was a push and a slip which did the trick. He was on his feet quickly with McTigue again slipping his darting left into his face.

The third and fourth rounds were easily McTigue's. McTigue made Solomon look ridiculous on many occasions. The crowd laughed with the former light-heavyweight champion through these rounds, but became impatient in the fifth. This was a slow session with McTigue forcing Solomon to miss while he continually landed his own light taps.

In the sixth the crowd booed some more even when McTigue cut Solomon's mouth with his left. In the seventh, however, the former champion forced the crowd to cheer excitedly. In this round he laid his head on Solomon's shoulder and drove the big Panaman around the ring.

Right and left to the body McTigue landed again and again. The unwonted spectacle of McTigue engaging in a slugging match with an opponent, and, that opponent more than sixteen pounds heavier, brought cheer after cheer from the crowd. In the eighth McTigue kept up his battering attack and slammed King Solomon to the ropes. He forced the King outside the ropes with the fury of his attack.

In the ninth Mike had Solomon hanging on before a tempest of blows. Solomon's head rolled from side to side, and as he went to his corner at the end of the round he was a very weary battler.

McTigue seemed arm-weary in the tenth. He started slowly, but got up steam as the round progressed. Toward the end he was again battering his big opponent at will.

Knute Hansen, Danish heavyweight, made short work of the Chilean, Quinten Romero, in the semi-final bout, scheduled for ten rounds. A vicious left to the stomach after 2 minutes 15 seconds of the third round gave the blond Dane a popular victory. He was warmly applauded as he left the ring. Hansen weighed 206 and Romero 199.

Adams Springs Surprise.

Sergeant Jack Adams of St. Louis proved a big surprise to the crowd and a bigger one to Johnny Grosso of Mount Vernon. At the end of eight rounds of more or less heavy punching, Adams got the decision. Each man weighed 190½ pounds. Grosso started at a fast clip and had the better of the going in the early rounds. He seemed more aggressive than the Sergeant and kept forcing the pace. In the fourth round the Sergeant's eye was cut by one of Grosso's overhand shots.

Both four-round preliminaries went the limit. In the first, Jimmy McNamara, 119, of Greenwich Village, was declared the winner over Eddie Zeigler, 120, of Washington Heights. The second one saw Alfredo Porzio, 202½, of South America, get the decision over Jim Sigmund, 203½, of the United States Navy.

Canada Lee Knocks Out Monty.

TILDEN AND CHAPIN HAVE A CLOSE CALL

BRUGNON IS HARD PRESSED

He and Cochet Drop First Set in National Doubles Before Saving the Match.

By ALLISON DANZIG.
Special to The New York Times.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31.—The early eclipse of William Tilden in the national doubles championships of 1924 and 1925 threatened to occur for the third successive year today when the Philadelphian and Alfred H. Chapin Jr. were carried to five sets by Nat Niles of Boston and Watson Washburn of New York in the second round of the title tournament at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Thoroughly in command of the play for the two first sets, the champion and his partner played a secondary rôle for the next two chapters as their seasoned opponents, throwing off their obsession for error making, brought all their cunning to bear and concentrated their shifting attack for the most part on Chapin. So flawless and ingenious was the stroking of Washburn and Niles that the outcome of the match remained in doubt until the former's service was broken through in the eighth game of the final set.

It was not until Tilden had gained match point four times in the ninth game that the play came to an end, after the losing pair had excited the gallery to a high pitch of enthusiasm with their placements off Tilden's service and had twice been within a stroke of breaking through. The score was 6—4, 6—1, 5—7, 4—6, 6—3.

Cochet Also Has Trouble.

The champion and Chapin, who is taking the place of Sandy Weiner as Tilden's partner this year, were not the only favored combination to get into difficulties. Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon of the French team, Wimbledon champions, ran into a buzz saw at the start of their match with Arnold Jones and William Ingraham of Providence, and did not come out of their daze until they had dropped the first set at 6—1.

Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer of Texas are again asking "What's in a name?" after a two-hour struggle with Claude Butlin and Manuel Llano of Mexico. Butlin, who is playing in the veterans' doubles championship, showed the young Texans that not all of the good tennis is played on one side of the Rio Grande, putting up no foxy an exhibition of volleying and lobbing, with ample assistance from Llano, that it took all of White's tremendous smashing power overhead and Thalheimer's instinct for finding the openings up forward to subdue them.

The first set went to the team from Mexico at 8—6, and after the Texans had ripped their defense to pieces with their savage onslaught in the next two chapters Butlin and Llano fought them tooth and nail through twenty games before finally submitting at 6—8, 6—3, 6—2, 11—9.

The only teams of the six seeded in the draw to win their matches by convincing scores were Vnicent Richards and Dick Williams, the champions, and William Johnston and Edward Chandler, the No. 2 favorites. Again Johnston and Chandler were the most impressive of the entire lot. In defeating Fritz Mercur and Neil Sullivan at 6—1, 6—1, 6—2, the Californians turned in a performance that was even more notable than their victory over Holman and Ogden in the first round.

Johnston Cuts Down Opposition.

Johnston's racquet was a scythe that mowed down the opposition, cutting a swath through the centre of the court as he stepped into the ball and whipped it back with the speed of a bullet. His volleying was equally destructive, and anything that came within the range of his racquet died a quick and sudden death.

Richards and Williams found in the clever play of Henry Guild and Axel Graves the necessary stimulant to bring them out of their inertia of yesterday, and the tonic worked like magic. Guild's sharp breaking service and stunning overhead smashes and Graves's keen volleying gave the champions no alternative but to play up on their toes.

The champions took the first two sets, but in the third set Guild's service and overhead smashes and Graves's subtle volleys again carried this team to the front. Then the champions rushed through four successive games in ruthless fashion, winning at 6—3, 6—1, 6—3.

Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste of the French team, Kenneth Appel and John Van Ryn of East Orange and Phil Neer and James Davies of California were the other teams to advance.

Borotra and Lacoste, after sweeping through the first two sets against John Barr and Wilmer Allison, lost momentum in the third chapter as the Texans found their best form for the first time. Pulling up from 1—3, the Texans tied the score at 3-all and then developed a duel of services that finally came to an end in the twelfth game when Allison was broken through. The score was 6—3, 6—1, 7—5.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 31.—The United States Lawn Tennis Association has received a bill for $2.10 from the English Lawn Tennis Association "for ginger ale," it was learned here today. TWO MATCHES HERE FOR MLLE. LENGLEN

French Tennis Star to Play in Garden Oct. 9 and 10—Rivals Not Named.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen will make her professional tennis début at Madison Square Garden next month, according to a statement issued yesterday by C. C. Pyle. Before leaving for Chicago yesterday Pyle said contracts covering the New York appearance of the tennis star had been signed by himself and John P. Hammond, Vice President of the Garden Corporation. The contracts, according to Pyle's statement, call for Mlle. Lenglen's appearance at the Garden on Oct. 9 and 10.

Mlle. Lenglen will participate in a single match against a noted woman player and in a mixed doubles match, according to Pyle. It is planned that several foreign players will appear in addition, Pyle said:

"For obvious reasons I do not care at the present time to name the players participating in the Lenglen tour, but there will be no dearth of high-class players to entertain the crowds. I am finding it much easier to land American players of ability and note, both men and women, than I experienced in signing Mlle. Lenglen. The professional tour of Mlle. Lenglen and other players which I am sponsoring will prove the beginning of the greatest boom tennis has ever received. It will mark a new era in the history of the fascinating sport."

Plans for converting the Garden into a tennis court for two days were discussed. A thick layer of cork linoleum will be laid for the players, and nets will surround the court. The seating capacity for the tennis matches is expected to be about 17,000. No information regarding ticket prices was given out, as this subject will be taken up by Pyle with Tex Rickard after the former's return from Chicago.

LANDS AND PETRI FIRST IN BIKE GRIND

PACED CHASE TO MADONNA

Dave Lands, Irvington, N. J., paired with Otto Petri, German rider, both strong six-day riders, won the one-hour team race at the New York Velodrome last night by lapping the field after the race had gone twenty-six miles.

Lands and Petri did not exert themselves until they made a bid for their lap and then they gave the fans a regular six-day thrill by gaining a clean lap on the field. A crowd of 12,000 fans saw the races.

Orlando Piani and Cecil Walker finished in second place with 56 points. Fred Spencer, American champion, who rode with Harris Horder, Australian star, finished third with 38 points. Reggie McNamara and Tony Beckman took fourth place, while Tommy Fitzsimmons and Tom Bello finished fifth.

The race was run and decided on a point basis with a sprint every two miles for points, but the points were discounted when Lands and Petri lapped the field and won the race.

Vincent Madonna, Italy, won the fifty-mile national motor-paced championship race, the twenty-ninth of the series of thirty-six races to decide the American title, in one of the most exciting and sensational races witnessed at the uptown saucer this season.

Madonna just managed to beat out George Chapman and Charley Jaeger of Newark. These three stars fought it out in the last twenty miles. The time was 1:13:08 2-5.

The summary:

One-Hour Team Race (Professional)—Won by David Lands, Irvington, and Otto Petri, Germany (12 points and one lap ahead); Orlando Piani, Italy, and Cecil Walker, Australia (56 points), second; Fred Spencer, Plainfield, and Harris Horder, Australia (38 points), third; Reggie McNamara, Newark, and Anthony Beckman, Secaucus (37 points), fourth; Thomas Fitzsimmons, East Orange, and Thomas Bello, Brooklyn (21 points), fifth.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Sailing a fine race in another fresh northwest breeze on Long Island Sound, off this harbor, the Narragansett Bay boat Rhody today won the second race of the International Star Class championship series, held under the auspices of the Larchmont Yacht Club, her second victory in two days.

Today's race was a windward and leeward affair, 2½ miles to the leg, twice around, making a total distance of 10 miles, and it was on the long thrashes to windward that Rhody did her greatest work, dropping boat after boat of the fleet trying for the lead.

Rhody, sailed by Ben Comstock, was in third place, 24 seconds astern of Talita, the New Orleans boat, at the second leeward mark, but going up the wind, on the beat to the finish line, the green Narragansett Bay entry disposed of Talita, Alya and Doris in quick succession and went on to win by 1 minute 26 seconds from Ardara, the Central Long Island Sound Boat, which came strong at the end to nose out Movie Star II for the place by 38 seconds.

Rhody Three Points Ahead.

By her victory today, Rhody rolled up a total of 32 points and is leading in the point scoring, with Movie Star second with 29, and Sonny, the Gravesend Bay sloop, which finished strongly today to take fourth place, third in the point totals with 27. Ardara has 25 and Dona Bertha and Talita, which finished fifth and sixth today, are tied with 24 points each. All of these boats seem to have a good chance to win the series, with Rhody the favorite if the breeze holds on.

Talita, the New Orleans boat, sailed by Earl Blouin, a young lawyer of the Crescent City, did most of the battling with Rhody around the course, and Skipper Blouin remarked after the race: "That skipper in the Rhody is some boy. He's got education, that boy." That seemed to make it unanimous.

The finish today between Movie Star and Sonny was very close, both making a rousing windup, with the Los Angeles Harbor entry nosing out Sonny by the scant margin of two seconds. Dona Bertha finished two seconds ahead of Talita, with the New Orleans boat 3 seconds ahead of Alya of Western Lake Erie.

The great finish of Ardara, with D. S. Starring skipper and F. T. Bedford, Standard Oil magnate, as crew, was one of the sensations of the race. The Central Long Island Sound boat laid a different course from the leaders and came up speedily from fourth to second place on the final leg.

Iscyra Far Back Again.

Iscyra, the defender for Western Long Island Sound, again failed to be a factor in the race, being among the trailers over two rounds of the course and finishing eleventh. Gavilan, the Havana entry, sailed well on the first round of the course but dropped badly on the second.

The starting and finishing lines were between the Larchmont Yacht Club committee boat and a mark boat moored one mile off the Larchmont breakwater. The committee was made up by Edmund G. Anderson, Chairman; Frank L. Anthony and T. D. Parkman.

When the warning signal was sounded at 12:50 there was a good sailing breeze blowing from the Northwest, but it was more puffy than yesterday's wind, letting down at times to a very light air.

Signals were set for a windward and leeward course, with the turning point off Week's Point on the Long Island shore. The starting gun was fired at 1 o'clock and the colorful fleet sailed away on placid seas with only a light breeze wafting them along.

Talita Holds Brief Lead.

The others were bunched along the line, Sayanora, Talita, Gavilan, Scrapper and Sonny all very close. It was a leeward start and as they wafted down the wind the lead changed several times, first Talita leading the fleet and then the gray Gavilan, one of the Cuban entries, was out in front.

Rhody and Iscyra held well to the eastward of line fleet and got a better breeze. Skipper Garin on the Gavilan, seeing this, also bore away to the eastward with Doris, Alya and Talita following close. The yachts were sailing with booms squared off to starboard and Gavilan had a hard time fighting off Doris.

All three leaders gybed their booms before rounding the mark and Alya jumped into the van, turning a second or so ahead of Doris, with Gavilan third. Talita made a neat turn and was soon up to windward of the leading group.

Rhody, yesterday's winner, and Movie Star, which finished second, were well down the line at this stage, not suited so well by the light breeze.

Most of the fleet made a long starboard tack to the westward after rounding but Gavilan split with the rest and sailed a long time on the port hitch before coming about. When Gavilan came back the Doris easily crossed the Cuban entry and then went about to weather of her.

Talita Slips Ahead.

Alya and Talita, coming off shore on the starboard tack, were having a fierce fight for the lead and they both weathered Gavilan and Doris. After tacking ship a couple of times, Talita out-manoeuvred Alya and went ahead.

Rhody then moved up to give Talita a battle and Blouin, on the New Orleans boat, a clever sailor, watched the Narragansett sloop like a cat. Every time Rhody came about trying to get out to weather, Talita tacked on top of her.

Talita had to turn her attention as the Alya came along fast and the New Orleans boat just did weather her. Talita then split tacks with Alya, and the Toledo boat, getting a lift of air, was first at the weather mark. Alya rounded the stake boat, ending the first round, at 2:15:12, with Talita 46 seconds astern, Rhody 28 seconds behind Talita and Gavilan fourth. Iscyra, the defender, was still far down the line.

They went winging away down the wind at a fast clip, carrying the breeze right across the Sound. Talita could not outrun Alya, but, on the other hand, the leader could not gain on the New Orleans sloop. Rhody clung to the third berth while Gavilan, Doris and Ardara were racing almost abeam.

Alya gybed her boom over shortly before rounding, losing some time, and Talita ran close to her. Alya made the turn at 2:41:22 with Talita only three seconds astern and Rhody third, 24 seconds back. Ardara was fourth, Doris and Gavilan crowding her close.

Splitting Tacks Costly.

Then another brisk battle up the wind began on the final leg, with the breeze freshing up for the finish. Talita took a long chance and split tacks with Rhody after the turn. This was a fatal move, as the Narragansett boat was going up the wind like a witch. After a sharp tussle with Alya, Rhody weathered the Toledo boat and took the lead.

They were making long port tacks and short starboard hitches. Movie Star began to speed up and went into fourth place and the Central Long Island Sound boat, Ardara, which had held to the westward, was going "great guns."

Ardara sailed up to the weather of Alya and Talita, but could not catch the flying Rhody. The Narragansett boat tacked on top of Ardara and then came along for the finish.

Rhody came romping home with her lee rail under and got a great chorus of whistles from the spectator fleet and Coast Guard patrols. Ardara was an easy second and Movie Star came like a flash to finish third.

The third race will be sailed tomorrow off Execution Light under the auspices of the Port Washington Yacht Club.

GOAL BY SANFORD BEATS ARGENTINA

By ROBERT F. KELLY.

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Aug. 31.—Argentina's new polo team went to defeat here today in its American tournament debut, but it wrote on the way to that defeat one of the most vivid chapters of tournament history and served notice to American polo that another great team has come out of the Argentine.

Stephen Sanford's Hurricanes, by the virtue of his own winning goal, scored a few seconds before the closing bell, entered the final round of the Herbert Memorial tourney. That goal of Sanford's gave his team a total of 12 goals to 11.

Tomorrow there is the prospect of another great game as Meadow Brook-Army and Orange County come together for the right to face the Hurricanes on Saturday. The two American teams are well matched, but they cannot hope to beat the thrills, the mad riding and the brilliant hitting of today's encounter.

Argentina's mounts failed at critical points today, but it would be manifestly unfair to take an iota of credit from the showing of the Anglo-American four. They had three goals and the Argentines, handicapped by ill mounts and lack of practice, are not yet up to giving so many away.

Game Is Well Played.

There was interesting polo from start to finish, but the entire rest of the game stands in the background of two closing periods that had the spectators standing up and shouting with excitement.

Argentina had caught the Hurricanes in the fourth period, and the teams left the field deadlocked at half time at six goals. The Hurricanes went away again, only to be caught once more, and the sixth ended with the score tied again.

Land started off that seventh period with a well hit goal, but Bobby Strawbridge, who played the best game he has shown since his return from abroad, came storming up into the attack. He scored a splendid goal, riding out Lacey and hitting on his near side. Then Captain Roark, the brilliant Irish player, poked a ball under an Argentine mount and came around behind to take it down and then centre it for Sanford.

Starting into the last period, Roark started another rush which carried over the line just wide of the goal, and then Argentina, riding all over their mounts and hitting beautifully, led by Jack Nelson, stormed all over the Hurricane goal.

Sweep Over Line Four Times.

Four times the attack carried over the goal line, with Strawbridge and Lockett just managing to keep it away from the goal posts, but finally Nelson sneaked into the mêlée and rode through the field for the tying score.

Into the few remaining minutes there was about everything crammed that a polo game can have. Both sides rode with all caution thrown to the winds and the gallery was standing on its chairs and roaring forth its excitement.

At midfield there came a Hurricane foul on a long race for the ball, but there was no resultant score and presently the Hurricanes were back pressing into the Argentine goal.

A shot came out of the galloping pack and rolled steadily clean into the middle of the Argentine goal posts. Just as it was going over, Nelson, leaning away over the head of his mount, raced into the goal and did the only thing he could, made a safety.

Roark missed the try for goal and Nelson came up on a magnificent run, but his shot went wide. Then came the end. Lockett hit up beautifully and Sanford, the best mounted man on the field, was away with it and no one near him.

Manuel Andrada started in pursuit, but his horse was no match at all for the madly riding Hurricane forward and he went three quarters of the length of the field to ride through after the goal just as the bell rang to end it.

Argentina Forces at Start.

The entire game was a see-saw affair with excitement running high throughout. Right at the outset Argentina forced the going and had three attacks carry across the line. A few moments later Andrada, playing his first game here, pitched headlong over the neck of his stumbling mount but was up and mounted again before any whistle blew.

At the end of the period, the Argentine ponies went bad and it appeared that this was to be the story of the game as Sangord took the ball up and Roark scored. But during the later periods some of the South American mounts went well, though Andrada had one which couldn't finish a period.

The second period was all Hurricanes' with Lockett and Roark scoring, but the Argentines, with Nelson out at No. 1 and going splendidly, scored three times in the next and in the fourth caught the others, who had been held scoreless twice.

Hurricane went well again in the fifth, scoring twice, and in the next Nelson played brilliant polo with Lacey hitting well to back him up and Argentina went ahead by a single goal, only to have Strawbridge tie it up and set the stage for the final sessions.

After the game Jack Nelson, leader of the expedition, said he was pleased at his team's showing and was confident that it was coming along. Andrada's mounts are worse off than the others and he did not show his real worth today save in flashes.

The line-up:

No. 1—S. Sanford.	No. 1—J. D. Nelson.
No. 2—Capt. Roark.	No. 2—C. N. Land.

Beatrice, War-Honored Pony, Carries Sanford to Victory

Special to The New York Times.

RUMSON, N. J., Aug. 31.—When Laddie Sanford rode away from Manuel Andrada here this afternoon to score the last minute goal that stopped Argentina's polo four he was upon one of polo's most interesting mounts. Beatrice is the only horse decorated by the British Government, owning a medal won in the war, and she has been ridden in five international matches, under Milburn and Lacey, and has been owned by Watson Webb. Laddie Sanford bought her from Viscount Wimbourne.

MACDONALD SMITH LEADS AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Macdonald Smith of New York led the field of professional and amateurs competing in the Chicago district open tournament at the Evanston Golf Club today by finishing the first thirty-six holes of the seventy-two-hole competition in 68, 71—137.

A stroke behind Smith was Dill Hartshorne of Brier Gate, with 70, 68—138, while Walter Hagen of Pasadena, Fla., got 73, 66—139 and was tied with Eddie Loos of Chicago, whose card was 71, 68—139.

Smith and Hagen bagged several birdies each to score their brilliant rounds of 68, four under par. Each approached so deadly that putts were few. Smith played much better than he did at Indianapolis last week, where he lost the Western open title to Hagen, who scored a round in 66 at the Highland Club also.

Other leaders today were J. R. Foulis, Chicago, 140; Harry Hampton, Memphis, 141, and J. C. Fee, Jock Hutchison and Bob MacDonald, Chicago, 142 each.

SUMATRA IS VICTOR IN $10,000 EMPIRE

2:08 TROT TO HURRY UP

SYRACUSE, Aug. 31 (AP).—Ben White of Lexington, Ky., carried off the honors in the second day of the Grand Circuit meeting at the New York State Fair here today. White piloted his mare, Sumatra, to a victory in the $10,000 Empire State Stake, the first race, and then wound up by winning the 2:08 trot with Hurry Up, a bay gelding by Belwin.

White took the first and third heats in the Empire and $5,000 in prize money, but Minia Dillon, driven by Loomis, smashed the record for the event in winning the second heat. Loomis's gelding negotiated the mile in 2:02¼, clipping one-fourth of a second from the mark established by Walter Cox's Grey Worthy in 1921.

Guy Ozark, favorite, set the pace in the first mile of the Empire, leading the field of nine trotters in the stretch. Heading for home, White brought Sumatra around the field and overhauled Guy Ozark at the sixteenth pole, to win by half a length.

Eris Guy and Senator pushed to the front in the second mile and set a merry pace to the half-way pole, where Dickerson brought Guy Ozark up. He was unable to hold his advantage on the turn, Minia Dillon then rushed up and in a driving finish Loomis, using the whip, got his gelding to the wire a step ahead of Guy Ozark. Sumatra broke in the second mile and finished last.

In the third heat Sumatra went away fast and, with Senator and Minia Dillon, set the pace up the backstretch and around the turn.

White's Hurry Up was second and fourth in order in the first two heats of the 2:08 trot, which went to Hollyrood Frisco and Walter Sterling, respectively.

In the third heat White brought his gelding down the stretch on the outside to beat out Walter Sterling and Great Scott in a thrilling finish. White opened up fast and led all the way around, with Hollyrood Frisco and Walter Sterling appearing tired in the fourth and deciding heat.

The Geer Memorial, for 2:14 trotters and a $3,000 purse, went to Winnie O'Wynn in straight heats, and Logical, with Butler in the sulky, scored in like fashion in the 2:11 pace.

ONE THING AT A TIME.

Representative MILLS made a comment upon ex-Secretary BAKER'S war debt proposals which there is undeniable force. He said that "this is not the time to talk about cancellation." If he simply meant that there is a natural order which must be followed in the whole business, he is quite right. First must come ratification by the French Parliament of the debt settlement negotiated by Ambassador BERENGER. That would complete the circle of agreements with this country and open the way for the next steps, whenever they are to be taken. The French should not allow themselves to be deceived into thinking that they might get better terms from our Government by declining to ratify. Already in our Senate there is objection to the French agreement as being too lenient. This would surely be intensified if new and lower terms were written into it. It is best for all concerned to get through these preliminaries promptly and for the time being to sponge the international slate clear of this entire question of the war debts.

Some of the other remarks elicited by Mr. BAKER'S statement have a familiar sound. He was writing in behalf of a trust company. Aha! Do you not see the plot of the international bankers again at work? Furthermore, the ex-Secretary spoke of the necessity of preparing for easier exchange of goods and closer commercial relations with Europe. Instantly Republican hands of horror went up Why, the man is actually a free-trader! He would lay an impious hand upon the sacred tariff. For that matter, many high and hidebound protectionists are in a little panic of their own lest future payments on the war debts lead to a demand that the customs duties be reduced. Rather than consent to such a sacrilege, they would themselves hasten to advocate the policy of canceling the war debts outright.

Still others profess to see in Mr. BAKER'S words a subtle attempt to commit the Democratic Party to the plan which he advocates. This is enough to make Mr. BAKER himself grin. He has a sense of humor, also has his eyes open, and must know perfectly well that he controls no great party following, and that it would be ridiculous to expect the Democrats in Congress and in the nation straightway to take his side of the issue. It is enough for him that he has set a great many of his fellow-citizens to thinking harder on the subject of the war debts. Action can come only much later.

THE LEAGUE AND THE NATIONS.

While the committee of the Council of the League has sought a formula to bring in Germany while salving Spanish pride, the British and French Governments have braced themselves for any eventuality. If Germany's arrival means Spain's departure, then Spain may be permitted to go. It will be a blow to the League, but, as our Paris correspondent points out, a repetition of last Winter's fiasco with respect to Germany would be one much severer. Failure to admit Germany would lend substance to the charge that the League of Nations is only a league of conquerors.

The disappointment of last March was hastily attributed to the machinations of France. The claims put forward by Poland, the obstinacy of Brazil, were only manoeuvres engineered from Paris. It did not take long to show that no Gallic devilry and British connivance entered into the situation. The authors of Locarno were not engaged in destroying their own work and undermining their own prestige. At worst it would appear that CHAMBERLAIN and BRIAND had not made sufficiently clear their intention to admit Germany into the League unconditionally. The opportunity was seized upon by Poland, and when Warsaw was finally made to see reason Spain and Brazil swung into action. Poland's case was better than Spain's. At Warsaw it might be contended with some show of reason that the one nation which Poland must be on guard against is Germany. Any enhancement of German influence should be balanced by concessions to Poland.

No such argument from basic self-interest is available in the case of Spain. With her it is a question of prestige. Spain with a population of twenty millions and Poland with a population of thirty millions present the new problem of the middle-sized nation with more than middle-sized aspirations. It was customary in the early days of the League to discover in it not only an association of victors for the grinding down of the vanquished, but an association of Big Powers for the exploitation of the little fellows. Events have since shown that the peace of the world and the reconstruction of Europe have been much more heavily handicapped by the ambitions of the junior members.

SELLING GOVERNMENT SHIPS.

After a consultation with President COOLIDGE, MATTHEW BRUSH of the American International Corporation urged the sale of Government-owned ships to foreign interests if Americans will not buy them. He said:

> President COOLIDGE'S chief desire for an American merchant marine is based on the idea of national defense. Actually it makes no difference what flag a ship is flying when war breaks out. We would seize them for military purposes if they flew our own flag, and if they flew the flag of the nation with which we were at war, or flew a neutral flag.
> But to seize ships under neutral flags it would be necessary to have them in our own harbors—of course, intending and promising to pay for them. War might come when but few ships were in home waters. Mr. BRUSH'S view that from a military standpoint it doesn't matter whether merchant ships available for war purposes fly the American flag or not the War and the Navy Departments do not share. When the Shipping Board, early in July, decided to advertise for sale the United States Lines and the American Merchant Lines, because they did not pay under Government operation, the following "inspired" statement was made:
> President COOLIDGE, like his immediate predecessor, prefers to see all of the Shipping Board routes placed under private control, but is unwilling to dispose of any of these seagoing lines except to American shipowners and under circumstances calling for maintenance of routes and the building up of the merchant marine.

The Shipping Board understands that American operation is dearer than British or Norwegian; but it has not abandoned hope that American ships, if a moderate price is put on them, can be taken over by private interests and be made to pay. The larger lines would have the indirect subsidy of mail contracts. This year the Shipping Board has disposed of vessels on routes that were not profitable, and the price has been made to suit the difficulties of private operation in competition with foreign lines. On the Pacific Coast there has been criticism of the acceptance of "low bids," but the bargain seems to have been the best that could be made. The policy of selling only to American bidders is sound, so long as they are in the market. The good faith of the Shipping Board in desiring to sell to American interests cannot be challenged. It has announced its purpose to get the Government out of the shipping business, but at the same time it is committed to retaining suitable types of vessels, as naval or army auxiliaries, if no one buys them.

ALL IS NOT LOST IN IOWA.

It is encouraging to see The Des Moines Register, which cudgels Secretary JARDINE and every other misguided person who dares to minimize Iowa's sufferings and find her fairly prosperous, itself yielding to cheerfulness:

> It is not a matter of being broke or even of being hard up in the Mississippi Valley. The Iowa State Fair will demonstrate that we are neither broke nor hard up.

Not the present but the future is made to look somber. Iowa must take "the long view." Is the United States to be industrialized at the cost and to the ultimate ruin of agriculture, or shall the United States "say in every situation and on every occasion 'the farm first'"? This philosophic melancholy befits the sage. The present is bright enough, if we may trust a little broadside on "The Iowa Situation," issued by Mr. D. M. PIERCE of Des Moines, publisher of The Iowa Homestead and The Wisconsin Farmer. It is his business to know the state of the farm business. The great circulation of his farm weeklies indicates that he does know it. He says that financially the State is well off. The normal indebtedness of its banks to the Federal Reserve Board is $22,000,000. On May 20, 1926, it was $8,215,000; on July 1 it was $6,680,000.

The latter sum is more than $90,000,000 less than the "peak" borrowing, reached in December, 1920. It is merely $3,500,000 less than the indebtedness on Oct. 1, 1925. Borrowings from the War Finance Corporation are negligible, less than $100,000. Deposits in State banks, savings banks and trust companies increased more than $9,000,000 between Dec. 30, 1925, and April 12, 1926, the latest date for which the figures have been compiled. These deposits then amounted to more than $605,000,000. The farmers keep on buying automobiles, though the roads must be well congested. More than 70 per cent. of the new cars bought in June were registered in rural counties. The unrelieved farmer still possesses ample "purchasing power."

How is it with dairy, beef cattle, corn and pork, the Big Four of Iowa farming? The dairymen are prosperous. In the first six months of the year more beef critters were slaughtered at Federal-inspected packing houses than in six months of any other year, save one. In spite of the many killings, prices were "somewhat higher." Of corn, name-giver of the famous Belt, only 15 per cent. is sold for cash. The rest goes into the insides of the live stock:

> That conditions in Iowa should be improving is not to be wondered at when hog prices are studied. Hogs have not sold below $11 per hundred pounds since Jan. 1, 1925, and since Jan. 1 this year prices have been steadily advancing. During June hogs averaged $14 a hundred on the Chicago market, which is equal to about $1.40 a bushel for corn on the Iowa farm. This means that Iowa farmers have enjoyed exceedingly large hog prices so far this year and the outlook for the future is very bright.

Hog production has not increased as rapidly as many expected, so that good prices are sure for another year. Finally, "Iowa farmers are in much better condition this year than they have been at any time during the past six years." We invoke upon Mr. PIERCE'S "deaf and desperate" head the maledictions of Colonel BROOKHART.

SPAIN AND TANGIER.

Spain has apparently decided that there is nothing to be gained by bringing Tangier before the League of Nations. Great Britain does not see any "question" in it. To the House of Commons, Sir AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN explained that if Spain wished to suggest changes in the administration of Tangier, during the discussion about the adherence of other nations to the treaty of 1923, they would be examined, but nothing would be acted upon which failed to take account of existing agreements. He went further and said that the British Government would not consider the incorporation of Tangier into the Spanish zone of Morocco.

In this view France concurs. Such negotiations as may take place will be between the nations already signatories to the treaty, without interference by outsiders. Italy seems to be agreed that the League is not the place to discuss the future of Tangier. Yet she has served notice that she wishes to participate in any special conference, because she considers herself one of the great Mediterranean Powers. Aside from her newly developed friendship for Spain as a result of the Italo-Spanish treaty, it is difficult to see that Tangier has for Italy as great importance as for Spain or France with their Moroccan interests, or for Great Britain sitting at Gibraltar directly opposite Tangier.

Some of the English papers have charged Spain with using the Tangier incident as a threat to force the League to recognize her claims. The somewhat unwise insistence by the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs that the question of Spain's permanent seat is linked with the Tangier problem was doubtless responsible for the hostile attitude of the London press. Perhaps the real cause for Spain's sudden interest in Tangier is to be found in local politics. Her demands broadcast to the world may have been primarily for home consumption. The Spanish Dictator has not been happy during the last few weeks. He has also been faced with the fact that the military success in Morocco last Spring has not fully satisfied that section of Spanish opinion opposed to the extension of Spanish influence in North Africa.

GEOLOGY FROM THE AIR.

The possibilities of exploration and discovery from the air, recently demonstrated in the Arctic, have also been illustrated in Africa. More than six years ago Dr. CHALMERS MITCHELL took a Vickers-Vimy airplane over the unexplored country in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan between Wady Halfa and Khartum. At that time he sent cables to The London Times reporting that after crossing the Nile on its southwestern bend he saw wild deserts and mountains with vast fields of lava and a number of distinct craters. This country was unknown to the governmental geologist of the Sudan, though he had suspected the existence of extinct volcanoes because of specimens of tufa sent to him from neighboring regions.

Now the descriptions of this volcanic field are verified by the Governor of Berber Province, who has been exploring in that direction by motor car. Dr. MITCHELL'S discovery, which is referred to by the author of the article on "Africa" in the supplementary volumes of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica as "the first important geological discovery made from the air," is of great scientific interest. No other known volcanic fields are nearer than Abyssinia and Darfur, almost 700 miles away. A survey will throw light on the relation of volcanic action to the course of the Nile and also to the shaping of the earth and sea for an enormous distance.

The provincial Governor, Mr. H. C. JACKSON, penetrated some of the craters. He found one great crater, Hosh el Dalam, "the place of gloom," so deep that bushes which he knows grow to a height of ten feet looked no taller than tufts of grass in the bottom of the pit. A native, in pursuit of a wild sheep which in a miraculous manner had got to the bottom of the crater unharmed, let himself down by ropes. The sheep was too lively for him, but he came out safely empty-handed. A Government survey of these desert volcanoes is now planned. But nothing can be done by the usual overland method until the problem of food and water supply is solved. It may be that before that can be done other intrepid airmen will bring out photographs, specimens of lava and pumice, and further details of this remarkable discovery from the air.

THE WORLD PRESS CONGRESS.

From many countries representatives of the press are now on their way to Geneva, the present seat of the "parliament of war." Without the newspaper correspondents the parliament would fail of its world purpose, for the League of Nations gives to every people on earth a platform from which it may speak to all other peoples. This privilege would be of little value if the press were not there to make it possible for every nation to hear what each other nation has to say. Whatever may be said of the other services of the League, what comes of the conferences of representatives of the nations could without newspaper reports yield little beyond the fruits of official diplomacy functioning secretly.

DE BLOWITZ'S definition of the difference between a journalist and a diplomatist was that the diplomatist must not tell what he knows and that the journalist must talk about what he doesn't know. This does not characterize accurately either the League diplomatist or the League journalist. The former is now expected to tell what he knows and is free to express it without giving "offense"; and the latter is able to know what he is talking about. An inarticulate diplomatist and an uninformed journalist go logically together. But the diplomatist who can tell what he knows and the journalist who can know what he is talking about are complementary in their service to mankind. "The Fourth Estate" is an essential factor not only in every country possessed of parliamentary government, but especially in the world at large.

The members of the World Press Congress—some of whom are being received by New York this week on their way to Geneva—will have an opportunity to see something of the machinery of information-gathering, of conference, to which their own journalistic machines are essential in carrying into homes and offices the world around the facts and opinions coming to expression in this greatest of parliaments. These publishers and editors will profit by the discussions of their own press problems, from various points of view, but also they will have the advantage of observing at close range this undertaking in behalf of better understanding among men. This is, after all, the chief end of journalism.

These journeying journalists are cordially welcomed here. When they return they may expect to be "interviewed," as was characteristic of the Gauls in CAESAR'S time, according to the Commentaries, and is doubtless so till this day, for it was the habit of the Gauls to stop travelers at the frontier to question them closely as to any event of interest which each may have gathered on the way, and to compel them to give a clear and full account of the news they had found current. Such an account of the state of the world as seen from Geneva by these experienced observers will be of great value to those who depend upon the news.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Different One Hundred Per Cent.

Events foster the suspicion that Fascism and Anti-Fascism, in their New York manifestations, are not without a professional interest. Otherwise it would be difficult to explain the precision and promptness with which the two camps with standards and battle cries deploy into the open on every possible occasion—sometimes on no occasion. No occurrence touching Italian interests or sentiment is permitted to pass without Fascist demonstrations and anti-Fascist counter-demonstrations, or the other way about.

An Italian explorer returning from the North Pole via the Grand Central Terminal, the body of an Italian movie star lying in state, the sessions of an Italian fraternal organization, never fail to elicit alarums and excursions of Black Shirts and Red Shirts, who, according to their own statement and by some miracle of double personality, are at the same time 100 per cent. Americans.

America's Italian population is industrious. Its labor has gone into the building of our cities, our factories, our railroads and highways. Since it is hard to see how such a hard-working people could spare the time away from its daily task for the necessary demonstrating and counter-demonstrating, the conclusion follows that the Fascist and anti-Fascist tumult and shouting are the work of a comparatively small number of professional partisans with an avid appetite for excitement and publicity.

Uncle Sam and the Cost of Travel.

The first reaction of travelers to the new regulations limiting the sums which Government employes may spend in tips and other travel expenses is that these civil servants will be lucky if they can "get away" with giving only those sums that have official sanction. Brave indeed is he or she who can face a bellboy and say, "I have already spent my 30 cents allowance, so you must take my thanks instead." The modern system of pawning hats before each meal and redeeming them afterward for 10 cents in itself will eat up this allowance each day. Who, furthermore, can stand the withering glances of the Pullman car "Georges" when he gives what these colored gentlemen regard as a "piker's" tip?

Establishing a scale of expenses is necessary for a great employment machine like the Government. Many of the items must, of course, appear arbitrary. It is to be hoped, however, that the regulations are sufficiently flexible to meet special conditions.

Anti-Tourist Demonstrations Now Explained.

Tourists returning from France tell stories of their treatment by the Parisians as varied as their own individualities. Some who were accorded a cordial welcome declare that they saw nothing of the attacks on sightseeing buses loaded with Americans. One visitor who has spent the last five or six Summers in Paris declared on his return that he found the city and the people this year very much in the same welcoming attitude as in previous seasons. But he did see some of the demonstrations on the boulevards and has evolved a theory for their cause.

The ability of Americans and other foreigners to attach themselves to Paris is well known. They feel, when they have been in the beautiful city for a week, that it is as much their own as if they had been born there. Much more than the natives do these adopted children resent the intrusion of tourists, who invade the charming little restaurants they have discovered and made their own. Even the regular Summer visitor found that he was scorned by fellow-countrymen who had been residents for six months.

His theory, therefore, is that the demonstrations of xenophobia were not staged by Parisians, but by American-Parisians. Our three-day-old visitors looked with horror on the arrival of hundreds more coming from Havre and Cherbourg and could not endure the sight. So, with the typical American talent for organization, they made public protest. The tourist who reports this says that in no case did he hear a single French hiss or cat-call.

The Barber of Mount Pleasant.

One begins to like barbers in "The Arabian Nights." Then one comes to know the barber-chirurgeons of the Middle Age, the great barbers of history and other fiction, stage and opera; and makes pleasant acquaintance with their modern representatives, the bobber-barbers of today. Observant, shrewd, companionable, taciturn if their client prefers, lovers of sport and chance—one could say more of these amiable artists. Even OLIVIER LE DAIN will yet be proved to be a victim of calumny.

But today give honor to Mr. P. B. TERRELL of Mount Pleasant, Texas. It occurred to him that he would like to run for office. What office? He didn't care. He is an all-around man. Then he remembered that as a boy he had been a surveyor in Arkansas. So he chose the nomination for Land Commissioner. His is a famous name in Texas and borne by a prosperous town. His friends told him, says The Dallas News, that his name "was worth $10,000 to him in any man's race."

They gave him money to put it on the ballot. He didn't spout. He had no headquarters, save at the shop where he practiced his profession, "as usual." The present Land Commissioner is believed to have a life post, yet Barber TERRELL got over 320,000 votes in the primary and was gloriously defeated by only 35,000. Health, luck and all the business that he wants to Barber TERRELL! Perhaps his only fault was in not aiming high enough. He may be Governor yet.

Kind, Courteous New York.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been living in New York for nearly six months and during that period I have encountered only kindness and courtesy here. In the business world, in the social world, and among people of every class I have found friendly interest and a sincere desire to help each other in every way possible.

New York is extremely impersonal and after escaping a small town environment I find this impersonal attitude most refreshing. Of course, New York is noisy, but what of it? I have not observed that New York suffers from nerves. The average New Yorker is the most patient and tolerant individual I know. He endures with a smile inconveniences which would make the up-State man tear his hair.

EVE WOODBURN LEARY.

Mr. Cristman and Self-Control.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Cristman, independent candidate for United States Senator, said in your report of a recent speech by him, "No people can ever govern themselves until the majority of the citizens learn and achieve personal self-control, and above all else assert and maintain their individual liberty against the tyrant of intoxicating liquors."

I wish Mr. Cristman would kindly tell us how any citizen can "have and achieve personal self-control" while prohibition, if successfully carried out, takes away from him all opportunity of exercising his self-control in the matter of the use of alcoholic drinks.

ONE BEACH MADE FAST.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest the article, "Can They Make Fast Our Beaches?" in THE TIMES of Aug. 24, and I trust you will permit me to correct an erroneous impression which may have been left with others who read the article.

You stated that a portion of the Summer colony on a strip of beach near Wilmington, N. C., was partly destroyed by the migration of an inlet, and that efforts to check the movement by building breakwaters had failed. The inlet referred to is located at Wrightsville Beach, near Wilmington, and had been moving very slowly northward for a number of years, but no efforts to control it had been made until the early Spring of this year. The only property damaged consisted of vacant lots composed of sand dunes and small portions of the flat beach formerly subject to overflow during storm tides.

The town of Wrightsville Beach has recently completed the construction of eleven jetties, five of wood and six of concrete sheet piling, to combat the erosion. Two of these jetties were placed at strategic points adjacent to the inlet referred to. Since their construction several months ago they have been subjected to the stresses of two storms and the recent abnormally high tides prevailing on the Atlantic seaboard. It is apparent that they have not only stopped the migration of the inlet northward, but the present indications are that the inlet is actually beginning to move the other way, reclaiming land that has been under water for several years.

RELOCATING A STATUE.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The correspondence aroused by your editorial on the badly placed statues in New York City has mentioned that of Nathan Hale, commenting on the unsuitable corner it has been given in City Hall Park.

If we are to be concerned on the location of our statues, could we not consider the exact locations that might tie themselves with the definite history of the famous men? Nathan Hale, as far as good authority gives us, was hanged at Dove Tavern on Sept. 22, 1776. This tavern was situated near Third Avenue and Sixty-sixth Street.

To save a historic spot and to be sure that actual environment would preserve the memory of a great patriot, could not this statue be moved into this vicinity—if the spot provided for it in the busy park cannot be held to be a worthy one?

The 150th anniversary of the young patriot's martyrdom will occur this Fall. What better time to suggest a change in the location of his statue could there be?

SAMUEL J. BLOOMINGDALE.

A Painter of the Far West.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Thomas Moran, the landscape painter, whose death at Santa Barbara, Cal., you chronicled today, was a man of extraordinary vitality, whose practice of his art made him famous more than fifty years ago and whose interest in it kept him alive and vigorous to within a few months of his ninetieth birthday.

I first knew him in Newark, N. J., in the early seventies. My brother Richard had not yet become the editor of Scribner's monthly, but was associate editor with Dr. J. G. Holland. A. W. Drake, the art editor, and Moran, one of the illustrators, were friends and neighbors of ours. R. W. G. called the artist's two big pictures portraying the wonders of the Yellowstone and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado to the attention of Senator Frelinghuysen, then or later Secretary of State, and Mrs. Frelinghuysen promptly procured their purchase by the Government. The price was a high one for those days ($10,000 apiece), but the average Congressman was the less disposed to balk at it because of the size of the canvases. At first the artist was suspected of having unduly heightened nature's coloring; but in time it was realized that if the coloring was too high it was nature's fault, not his. The vein he struck in these early works was successfully cultivated to his dying day.

When he picked up the art of fiddling, the forefinger of his left hand happened to be out of commission—with the singular result that ever afterward he played with three fingers only.

He was a small man, weighing in his latter days less than 100 pounds; but flowing mustache and a patriarchal beard gave dignity to his slight figure.

You say that Ruskin long ago pronounced one of his etchings the best that had yet been made in America. His wife's skill in this difficult and delicate art was not less than her husband's. All her prints were signed with her maiden name, Mary Nimmo.

J. B. GILDER.

FIVE LOAVES.

"Five loaves," she said.
And looked upon them as they lay
On the white folded linen cloth half spread
Upon the table there,
Five loaves fresh from the baking.

The day was at an end.
It had been long
Since the first morning light.
Her hand was weary as she buttered over
The crisp brown crusty loaves
That turned a richer brown,
Golden and moist, and with the scent of noon
In a warm field.

There came a mist before her tired eyes.
She brushed them with her hand.
"Five loaves," she said,
"Five loaves of good, white bread."

Then suddenly upon her aching brow
She felt a cool wind blowing.
And she remembered some one, long ago,
Some one who said,
"This is my body, broken, and for you."

And then she knew her weariness was sweet.
The tired hands and feet,
The aching head,
The mist before her eyes—
These things were trifles
Weighing less than dew.

"Here are five loaves of bread
To feed my children's hungry mouths,"
She said.

CONCERNING THE DEBT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The fear is expressed by some, the joy of others, is evident, that Clemenceau has injured his country's cause by his letter to President Coolidge. True, his was not a diplomatic missive, but is it not a fact that the conditions with which the world has been confronted, both during and since the great war, have quite transcended the bounds of the usual? And does not the situation justify plain speech from one who has made his mark as a defender of liberty and the champion of a great people? Were the Senate in session, no doubt its imagined dignity would be offended and we would have wild tirades over the impudence of a debtor who dares to speak frankly of the exactions of his creditor. But Congress will not meet, thank Heaven, until December, and in the interval this country is going to learn a good deal about the merits of the debt question.

It is really ignorance of the facts that is the root of this matter, and these must be brought home to the people at large. Here are some that merit consideration:

1.—The war began in August, 1914, and the fighting ended Nov. 11, 1918.

2.—We declared it to be our war in April, 1917, and began to take an active fighting part in July, 1918. I am totally at variance with those who think Congress should have declared war earlier, for the country as a whole awakened very slowly to the necessities of the case. Had it not been united in feeling, the wonderful acquiescence in the draft act would not have occurred, nor the willing subscription to billions of bonds.

3.—When we declared war, we could offer money and supplies as our contribution, but not fighting men. Our allies had no money and their supplies were near exhaustion, but the flower of their youth and manhood were holding the lines. This they did for five-sixths of the time we were in the war, and but for this we should have had to face Germany practically alone. Remember the threat of the Kaiser to Ambassador Gerard.

4.—We lost about 60,000 men and loaned our allies about ten billion dollars, all of which we required them to spend in this country, paying the exorbitant prices that everything commanded and greatly enriching our industries.

5.—They lost during the period of our inactivity about half a million men, the equivalent of our ten billion dollars, if we put the value of a life at the moderate sum of $20,000.

6.—France came out of the war with a million and a half dead and three million wounded. Her richest manufacturing district had been almost annihilated and her people had to loan their Government about six billion dollars for restoration of homes and industries.

7.—We came out of the war the richest nation on earth, notwithstanding our bond borrowings; with our debts to Europe paid and almost every European nation owing us fabulous sums; our wage level and scale of living higher than ever before and a multitude of rich men who had thriven on the profits of war industries.

8.—Notwithstanding these conditions, we have now carefully appraised the financial status of our allies, concluded that we should exact repayment from them to the extent of their capacity to pay, and fixed the amount at ten billions of principal, with eleven billions of interest. We have given them the next two generations (sixty-two years) within which to discharge this debt and condemned them to poverty during that period. We prove our magnanimity to ourselves by dilating upon the small interest rate we are charging, ignoring the fact that to him who has little or nothing it matters not what designation payment is demanded. We also draw a distinction between pre-armistice and post-armistice loans, as though the post-armistice advances did not merely supply the exhaustion incident to the war and fall into the same category as those made before Nov. 11, 1918. If one's feet are bare, one's stomach empty and one's ammunition exhausted after the battle is won, shoes, food and cartridges are still quite as essential as when the onset began.

9.—We did desert our allies before our work was done, as Clemenceau points out. Our President did his best to effect a just and lasting treaty of peace, and gave his life in the endeavor to make our people realize that the safety of the world could be secured only through a League of Nations in which this country could and should exercise a great and splendid influence. Congress rejected the treaty and the League, and then, without any consultation with our allies, entered into a separate treaty of peace with Germany. Canny, though disloyal, we certainly were, for we insisted on retaining all the benefits of the treaty that we had refused to ratify, thus appropriating all advantages while repudiating any responsibility for its enforcement.

10.—Through the Dawes plan, for which our Government deserves no credit, some order was brought out of chaos and reparation required from Germany. The total amount, however, that she is expected eventually to pay is less than the sum we demanded from our allies. Moreover, we refuse sternly to permit payment to us to be in any way contingent upon receipts from German reparations.

11.—We have seen Germany, through debasement of her currency, wipe out her internal and external debt, leaving herself subject only to the charge for reparations. This is relatively a modest sum and places her in a financial situation far superior to that of either England or France. And here is the fallacy of Senator Borah's recent suggestion that if war debts are to be canceled, reparation payments should be treated likewise. Were this done, Germany would have lost the war, but won the peace, and would be exalted above those who saved the liberties of the civilized world.

12.—The claim is frequently made that England and France have been greatly enriched by the extension of their territorial possessions. In the first place, these cannot fall to be an expense, rather than an asset, for many years to come; secondly, under the watchful eyes of the League of Nations, they cannot be exploited for individual profit, but must be developed for the general good of the world; thirdly, the United States both expressly disclaimed any desire to acquire such possessions and declined to exercise any mandatory supervision. We cannot therefore justly balance this imaginary benefit against the definite losses entailed by the war.

13.—England, France, Belgium and Italy are staggering under the burden of overwhelming taxes, and the currency of the last three is worth only a small fraction of its former value. Facing huge payments to us for sixty-two years to come, they can see small hope of better days ahead or of regaining their financial stability. We also pay abnormal taxes in comparison with those of pre-war days; they are, however, relatively to our national income, but a small fraction of those borne by the peoples of Europe. Moreover, they are diminishing steadily, and if we adopted the plan of liquidating our bonded indebtedness in sixty-two instead of about twenty years, they could be brought within very modest limits.

14.—The only demand we make from Germany, the author of our woes, is payment of half a billion dollars, in annual instalments not to exceed twenty-three millions. In addition, we are seriously considering the return to her of three hundred millions now in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian. By way of contrast, we are now receiving from England alone one hundred and fifty millions a year, and if all our debt settlements are put in operation, we shall before very long get total annual payments from our friends of $400,000,000. It might well be asked who were our friends and allies, who was our enemy?

15.—In the final analysis, how are these debts to be paid? We loaned the allies not money, but goods. We now demand, not repayment in kind, for our tariff wall forbids that, but transfers of cash. All economists see the futility of any such expectations and an inevitable readjustment within a few years if commercial intercourse is to continue between us and Europe. Why not make that readjustment now, remove the cause of the just resentment which is generally entertained against us and help our struggling allies to their feet?

WANTS SANE TARIFF LAW.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was good news to the opponents of the existing Fordney-McCumber tariff law that the Republican campaign managers, Representatives Will R. Wood and John Q. Tilson, majority leader of the House, were opening headquarters here to make the present tariff the "chief issue of the Republican campaign."

One of the chief evils of war is the side-tracking, and often death, of vital economic questions. The Civil War destroyed thirty years of education and achievement toward a "tariff for revenue only." It also threw us back in the formation of a sound, stable currency and banking act. We succeeded to an ever-mounting protective tariff; to greenbackism, then to the more recent free coinage of silver fiat money craze; until, after more than fifty years of economic turmoil, including three panics, we got into a sane frame of mind on these fundamental subjects in the first Wilson Administration.

The extreme protectionists and fiat-money men were unable to overthrow the great Federal Reserve act; but they did repeal the Underwood Tariff act, and put in its place the present Fordney-McCumber act, the worst, the most unscientific, the most oppressive tariff law ever enacted in this country.

It is quite in order for Messrs. Hill and Tilson to attack the Underwood act, and to say that "the mills of the country were idle in 1920 and 1921, the prices of farm products were reduced below the cost of production, 5,000,000 men and women were out of employment and soup houses were operated in all the large commercial centres." This sounds familiar.

But what about the period before the after-war reaction of 1920-21, the world over? The Underwood tariff did not stop that enormous "prosperity." Also, why the terrific slump after the panic of 1897, with the blessed Dingley bill still on the statute books?

Anyhow, let's have this debate all over again. Exorbitant, monopoly-breeding tax laws never could stand debate; and the Fordney-McCumber act is the most vulnerable of them all. This monstrous law is now splitting the Republican Party; an attack upon it will unite the Democrats in the interest of the oppressed taxpayers.

Continuation School Handicap.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is an unnecessary hardship to boys to be compelled to attend continuation school while being employed.

Why can they not be allowed to attend evening school, so that they do not have to ask their employers to permit them to stay away during business hours? Why should a young fellow compelled through circumstances at home to earn a living be handicapped by such a foolish school regulation?

Business houses hesitate to employ continuation school boys, and I have had to turn away several lads seeking employment with my organization on that account.

Suspension of Auto Licenses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How would it do to penalize the automobile as well as the reckless driver? Suspend for a term the license granted to the particular car—deprive the owner or driver of the vehicle of the use for ten, twenty or thirty days.

VALENTINO'S BURIAL TO BE IN HOLLYWOOD

Pola Negri to Be in Party on Special Car—Demand Grows for Dead Star's Pictures.

Another solemn high requiem mass will be sung for the repose of Rudolph Valentino before his body starts West to its final resting place at Hollywood, Cal., tomorrow. This announcement was made last night by the Rev. Joseph Cosgedo, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart at 315 East Thirty-third Street, where the second service will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Father Cosgedo explained the body would not be taken to the church for the second service, which was arranged for the special consolation of Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the dead motion picture star, who is expected to arrive this afternoon on the Homeric. "It will be a tribute of prayer to the illustrious dead," Father Cosgedo said, "in the presence of the afflicted brother, by those who loved him in life and cherished his memory."

Although the mass will be private in nature, the priest said, and will be conducted with as little ostentation as possible, the public will not be barred.

S. George Ullman, Valentino's manager, announced last night that he had been in radio communication with Mr. Guglielmi aboard the Homeric, and that the brother had made no objection to plans to take the body to Hollywood for burial.

Body to Leave Tomorrow.

Arrangements have been made to have a special car attached to the Lake Shore Limited of the New York Central Railroad, leaving the Grand Central Terminal at 6:30 P. M., Daylight Saving Time, tomorrow. The funeral party, comprising Mr. Guglielmi, Pola Negri, Mr. Ullman and others will accompany the body West in this car.

Mr. Ullman expressed surprise when he learned that plans for the service had been made public, saying that he had not expected the event would be announced "on account of the mob." He said he had hoped it would be merely "a quiet mass for the repose of the soul of the deceased." He immediately communicated with Father Cosgedo and requested that adequate police arrangements be made for the service.

Asked if Miss Negri would attend the service, Mr. Ullman said she probably would. Since the mass last Monday, he said, she has kept to her room almost constantly. He said he did not know whether Jean Acker, Valentino's first wife, would attend the service.

Demand for His Pictures.

It was learned yesterday that nothing has been done by friends here to ascertain whether Valentino left a will, or as to the extent of his estate. It has been assumed from the time of the actor's death that if he left a will it would be found in Los Angeles, where he made his home.

Friends are of the opinion that Valentino did not leave anything that could be regarded as great wealth, and it was known that he owed some very large sums. On the other hand, under his screen contracts his earnings continue after his death. Inquiry at the film agencies reveals the fact that there has been a general demand for Valentino pictures, especially for his last picture, "The Son of the Sheik." Crowds have been flocking to see this picture, it was said, and the daily income has been so great that the share that will go to the Valentino estate will aggregate between $15,000 and $25,000 daily, according to one estimate.

There also has been a demand for "The Eagle" and earlier Valentino pictures in which he had a half interest, and this, too, will add substantially to his estate. It is understood that if there is a will, and one report is to the effect that Edward S. Gilbert of Los Angeles is custodian of one, it will leave the estate to relatives in Italy, who are reported to be without means. (The known relatives are the brother who is to arrive today and Maria Guglielmi, a sister.

At the Ambassador Hotel last night it was said that Miss Pola Negri had spent the day resting and was slightly better. A cable message was received during the day from Winifred Hudnut, also known as Natacha Rambova, by A. T. Wilton, her representative here, which read: "I am greatly overcome at Rudolph's passing."

20 LYNCHINGS IN YEAR.

Association Reports Only Two White Men Among Victims.

Figures made public yesterday by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, at 69 Fifth Avenue, show that there were twenty lynchings from Aug. 30, 1925, to Aug. 30, 1926, as compared with eighteen lynchings during the corresponding previous period. Two white men were lynched during the present year, while none were killed in that manner last year.

William Pickens, Field Secretary of the association, blamed the failure of the Senate to pass a Federal anti-lynching law, for the increase in deaths at the hands of a mob. He said the defeat of this measure had made bolder persons who had lynching proclivities.

ARLINGTON RECEIVES THE BODY OF RODGERS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—One year to the hour from the time he embarked from San Francisco on his trans-Pacific flight that made him a world-known hero, the body of Commander John Rodgers arrived at his grave in Arlington National Cemetery this afternoon for his funeral service.

He was buried under three tall oak trees in a grove that is shaded with oaks, almost within a stone's throw of Arlington mansion. The headstones of the neighboring graves bear many famous names. On the south is the name of a former Secretary of War, William Worth Belknap, and on the west a monument erected by Rhode Island in memory of Major Gen. Frank Wheaton of Civil War fame.

This particular spot, in the officers' section on Humphreys Avenue, was chosen because it is not far from the tomb of Montgomery Cunningham Meigs, Brevet Major General, who died in 1892, and who married Louise Rodgers, daughter of Commodore John Rodgers, grandfather of the late Commander Rodgers.

Parents Remain at Grave.

Standing silently near the grave while the service proceeded were the dead aviator's father and mother, the former Rear Admiral John Rodgers, retired, of Havre de Grace, Md. Admiral Rodgers displayed the same courage that has marked the family name and showed outwardly no trace of emotion. The mother also maintained a firm demeanor. But after the services were over they requested that the public give them an opportunity to be alone with their dead before the casket was finally laid away.

Full military honors with a three-gun salute fired by marines were accorded the dead officer. Navy airplanes soared overhead, flying with a blank file to typify the loss of one of their number.

The funeral party arrived from Havre de Grace at the Fort Myer entrance to Arlington Cemetery and began the march to the grave at four minutes before 3 o'clock. That was the hour at which Commander Rodgers took off on Aug. 31, 1925, in the flight from San Francisco to the Hawaiian Islands. A caisson and six horses bore the casket, which was draped with a silken flag of the United States. The military escort was preceded by the Navy Band of seventy-two pieces, led by Charles Benter. Chopin's Funeral March was played during the procession to the grave.

Petty Officers Bear the Body.

Eight chief petty officers from the navy yard were the body bearers, as follow: C. F. Bell, chief fire control man; J. A. Clune, T. M. Franklin, R. A. Frye, H. Hage and I. W. Hale, chief machinist's mates; E. L. Hume and G. E. Mackenzie.

The color guards were F. Augustine, gunner's mate, third class; W. F. Osborne, gunner's mate, third class; O. J. Barbeau, fire control man, third class, and F. J. Garvin, fire control man, first class.

The pallbearers were from among Commander Rodgers's close associates in the Navy Air Service, and were Captains George C. Westervelt, Samuel M. Robinson, Ralph Koch and Stephen Rowan, Commanders Holden C. Richardson, Kenneth Whiting, Frederick V. McNair and Martin K. Metcalf.

At the cemetery were Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, S. R. Pope, aviation pilot, and William M. Bowlin, aviation machinist's mate, of Commander Rodgers's crew, who were on the Hawaiian flight. O. G. Stantz, a fourth member, the Chief Radioman, was on the Pacific Coast and unable to be present.

The services were conducted by Captain Curtis H. Dickens, Chaplain Corps, U. S. N., and Canon F. J. Bohaan of the Washington Cathedral.

The funeral was attended by the Acting Secretary of the Navy T. Douglas Robinson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, Edward P. Warner; Admiral Edward W. Eberle, Chief of Naval Operations; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, head of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics; F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for the Army Air Corps, and other navy officials.

From the Founder's Writings

Napoleon at St. Helena, It Is Said

was one time walking on a narrow path with a lady when a man came up with a load upon his back. The lady kept her side of the way, and seemingly asserted precedence to her sex; but Napoleon gently waved her to one side, saying: "Respect the burden, Madam."

It may be from thoughtlessness or habit that even kind-hearted people "insist on their rights," as they say, showing that they do not "respect the burden" of others.

Yet it would cost so little and help so much were we to respect the burden of others.

Many people have burdens to carry that are not visible. Sometimes it is a load of sorrow, pain, hunger, cold, loneliness or illness.

It would not be a long way to the foot of the rainbow for a weary soul were we to yield a point now and then.

Au Quatrieme
Presents Its Great Collections of
English, French, Italian and Spanish

SELECTED IN EUROPE IN THE EARLY SPRING

AU QUATRIEME'S collections for the Fall of 1926 were made in the early Spring enabling us to land all our great purchases from England, France, Italy and Spain before September 1. All are now unpacked and on view. Our clients returning from the country, or from vacations in distant places, will find complete stocks awaiting their selection, and affording a most astonishing wealth of choice, comprising as they do both the important examples of fine antique furniture from the countries in question, and the simple provincial and peasant pieces with their appealing charm. All at prices lower than ever before.

The Extraordinary Collections of French MEUBLES DE STYLE, Peasant and Provincial Furniture

The French collections alone are almost inexhaustible in their richness and variety, far excelling in interest any similar group brought together here at any one time in the past, and including an unusual number of very early examples . . . Among these are the Henri II and Renaissance Oak Benches, Louis XIV Choir Stalls, a Louis XII Walnut Prie Dieu and a tall Henri II Oak Cabinet adorned with the coat of arms of Diane de Poitiers. Innumerable are the delightful examples of the Louis XV, Louis XVI and Directoire styles, of both fine and rustic types, some arranged in interiors designed in the manner of a French gentilhommiere, others perforce . . . because of their great number . . . standing just as they have been unpacked, overcrowding the huge galleries set aside for this purpose. Never have there been so many delightful examples of Meubles Regionaux . . . the great carved Aymoires and Bonnet Cupboards, Buffets and Dressoirs, Commodes and Desks, Poudreuses and small engaging Tables de Chevet, Clocks, Mirrors, Etageres and Vitrines from Provence and Normandie, Lorraine and La Bretagne.

There are beautiful Boiseries, panellings of entire rooms, exquisite in their simplicity and their fine proportions. Old wood and marble Cheminees and Trumeaux. Directoire scenic panels of Papier Peint of great decorative and historic interest. And all those small objects and appealing petits meubles that give to the French interior its irresistible charm.

The Great English Collections of 17th and 18th Century Furniture

These occupy a third or more of the vast floor space. Necessarily, because of their magnitude, many of the pieces could only be left in crowded ranks, as in the case of the other collections. Others are arranged in interiors characteristic of the 17th and 18th Centuries in England. In a beamed and panelled oak room will be found the picturesque Jacobean examples, and many delightful country pieces of oak, elm, yew and various fruit woods. Particularly worthy of note is the very great number of choice Queen Anne walnut and of early Georgian, Chippendale, Adam, Sheraton and Hepplewhite mahogany and satinwood examples.

The many pedestal tables alone would make a most imposing group. Or the mahogany bookcases, the secretaries and cabinets. Pieces of great size, designed for important drawing rooms, and the small examples so notable for their exquisite perfection of detail, are both numerously represented. Two Georgian pine panelled rooms with doors and fireplaces, from an old London house, came over with this collection. And the decorative objects . . . Mirrors, Needlework Paintings, Paintings on Glass, Samplers, Embroidered Maps, and old Chelsea and Staffordshire Figures and Groups . . . are also unusual for their great number and charm.

The Spanish House is Completely Redecorated

The Patio, flanked by great carved and gilded columns, the Salon, Bedroom and Breakfast room, are completely redecorated and rearranged with superb examples of 17th and 18th century workmanship, both Spanish and Italian. The interweaving of influence in architecture and the decorative arts between the two countries making such groupings quite harmonious and correct. Alpujarra and Spanish Aubusson rugs with their brilliant coloring and bold designs are on the floors. On the plaster walls, washed with soft clear tints of yellow and blue, hang old Spanish portraits and decorative paintings. A 16th century wrought iron and brass fire guard stands before the fireplace in the salon. There are great 17th Century armchairs covered with crimson velvet, adorned with characteristic armorial devices and exquisite old needlework. Old Sacristy Cupboards, ancient Credenze and Varguenos add to the picturesque interest of these interiors. In the Breakfast Room are delightful 17th Century side chairs with carved backs painted red and gold. In the Bedroom a magnificent Castilian Canopy Bed with spiral posts, surmounted by carved and gilded capitols, is the feature of dominant importance. Other objects of special interest are pairs of carved and gilded Gothic Figures, old Italian walnut high backed Chairs covered with ivory leather, Wall Brackets, Mirrors, Torcheres, and Candlesticks.

INJUNCTION MAY BE ASKED

Berry, Upheld on Contract, Is Told He Has Ground for Legal Action, but Won't Discuss It.

LAWYER SEES ACE AT FAULT

Row Due to Lack of Cooperation, He Says—Col. Hartney Calls Project More Important Than Men.

Unless the differences between Captain René Fonck, the French ace, engaged to fly the big Sikorsky airplane from New York to Paris, and Captain Homer M. Berry, a member of the Argonauts, who insists that he has the right to be a member of the crew, are reconciled in a very short time, it is probable that there will be some radical changes in the personnel of the crew, with the possibility that Captain Fonck himself may be eliminated.

This was learned last night after a day spent by promoters of the flight in determining the exact status of Captain Berry, a stockholder in the Argonauts, and who, according to Captain Fonck's contract, has the right to go on the flight if a third man makes the trip. Bernard Sandler, attorney for the Argonauts, conferred for some time yesterday with Colonel H. E. Hartney, Vice President of the organization, and later issued a statement upholding Berry's position.

Mr. Sandler, who said everything possible would be done to avoid unfortunate complications and that he hoped to be able to smooth over the difficulties in a diplomatic and satisfactory manner, made it clear that the Argonauts were at liberty to do just as they please, inasmuch as Captain Fonck's contract, which was for only four months, has expired and that he has received his last salary check.

Considers Flight First.

Colonel Hartney also made it plain that he was more interested in the flight than in the affairs of any individual connected with it, and insisted that the flight would take place.

"I am neutral in this matter, and do not wish to take sides," he said. "But the flight will take place. If one man doesn't fly the plane another will. I am tired of these squabbles."

Both Mr. Sandler and Colonel Hartney said a conference would be held today in an attempt to bring about a reconciliation between the contending aviators. Captain Berry wrote a formal protest yesterday to the Argonauts against being excluded if a third man is taken on the plane, and when it is received by Colonel Hartney today, he said, he would call Captain Fonck and Captain Berry into conference with himself and Mr. Sandler and attempt to straighten out the matter.

If Mr. Sandler's services as mediator are successful they will remove considerable anxiety on the part of all those connected with the flight, for neither Colonel Hartney nor Captain Berry has been optimistic as to what might happen if Captain Fonck did not recede from his position. It seemed possible that the flight might be postponed, for Captain Berry said he would insist on being included in the crew unless it could be proved that his weight would be too much for the machine. He has been told that he has legal grounds for an injunction, and the plane, which has been designed to carry a 30 per cent. overload, has already established a world's record for carrying weight to a height of 17,000 feet.

Attorney's View of Situation.

Mr. Sandler has been in touch with the situation for some time, being particularly interested in the contract between Captain Fonck and the Argonauts, and it was said that he would be able to impress Captain Fonck with the strength of Captain Berry's legal position. Colonel Hartney has said that Captain Fonck has already failed to live up to some of the conditions of his contract.

The statement issued by Mr. Sandler read:

"Despite published rumors regarding some unfortunate differences that have arisen between the Argonauts, the backers of the proposed transatlantic flight from New York to Paris, in so far as they affect the present status of Captain Rene Fonck, the French ace, these differences have not reached the stage where an open rupture has occurred between Captain Fonck and the Argonauts.

"The relation between Captain Fonck and the Argonauts is one of employer and employe, Captain Fonck being under contract to act as pilot on this flight. The plane, which has not been christened as yet, is owned by the Argonauts by bill of sale from the Sikorsky Manufacturing Company. The Gnome-Rhone-Jupiter motors are owned by the Argonauts, Inc., who purchased the same from the General Airways System. A bond of $20,000 was posted with the customs authorities when the motors entered this country to be installed in the S-35.

"The only unfortunate situation that has been created is Captain Fonck's lack of cooperation with Captain Homer M. Berry, who is a war veteran, and has a good flying record in the United States air forces, and is a stockholder in the Argonauts, owning 10 per cent. of the stock, and who helped initiate this proposed flight, interesting such men as Robert Jackson, John B. Jameson and Colonel H. E. Hartney, who have contributed over $100,000 to date to make this flight possible. The bone of contention is due to paragraph three of an agreement between Captain Fonck and the Argonauts, which follows:

"'Captain Homer Berry is acceptable to Fonck as third pilot, he (Berry) to understand that if it becomes necessary on account of overload to limit the crew to two then he must be prepared to stay behind.'

"The test flight of the S-35 proved that the plane exceeded its lifting power 25 per cent. above the specifications set by the Sikorsky Manufacturing Company. The Argonauts contend this makes it possible for Captain Berry to accompany Captain Fonck on the flight."

Says Third Man Is Needed.

The big plane will weigh with its full load about twelve tons, of which nine and a half tons will be useful load, that is, fuel, supplies, pilots, instruments and so forth, and Colonel Hartney has said that if the plane has such a small safety factor with that load that an additional 175 pounds would be dangerous, he would consider the venture too risky and would oppose it. Captain Berry also said yesterday that he considered the question of his weight a ridiculous one in view of the huge load the plane will carry, and that the amount of gasoline he might displace would carry the machine only a short distance.

"It is obvious that a third man must be taken on the flight," he said, "as it is estimated the flight will take thirty-five hours and no one pilot could stay at the controls for that length of time. Lieutenant Snody could not relieve Captain Fonck, as he would be busy every minute of the time taking observations. The navigation of a plane on such a trip is ten times as important as the piloting, and Snody will have his hands full. And as to a mechanician, nobody could get at those motors if they went bad. It would be impossible to fix them from the wings. I think the trip is impossible without a third man to relieve the pilot, and I shall insist on my right to be that man.

"The trip is much more important than any one person's desires, and I want to see it go through. If it could be done with only two men, or if it could be proved that my weight was a bar, I would be only too glad to get out and wish them luck. But two men cannot make the flight, and my weight is not a factor, and I shall not be pushed aside. I cannot understand why this situation has arisen. Fonck and I have always been good friends."

Silent on Legal Action.

Captain Berry said he did not want to say whether he would take legal action to stop the flight if he felt that he were being sidetracked without justification. He will visit the field today, but did not say whether he would confer with Captain Fonck. He had not seen Colonel Hartney all day, he said, but had merely filed a formal protest in a letter to the Argonauts against being excluded from the flight if a third person is to be taken.

Captain Fonck and Lieutenant Allan Snody agreed yesterday not to talk any more about the controversy, and refused to answer any questions regarding it. They were at the field all the afternoon superintending the streamlining of the motors and the building of an observation hatch in the top of the fuselage, from which Lieutenant Snody will take his sextant sights.

It was also revealed during the day that the big plane had already hung up two unofficial records. On Saturday twelve persons, included in a load of 7,000 pounds, were taken up 17,000 feet, and later the same day the plane flew with this same load at the rate of 145 miles an hour over a measured two-mile course.

SEATTLE-LOS ANGELES AIR MAIL ANNOUNCED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Contract air mail services between Seattle and Los Angeles, over a route 1,099 miles long and on a schedule that will transport mail between the two points in less than a day will be inaugurated Sept. 15, Postmaster General New announced this evening, after communication with the Pacific Air Mail Company, the contractor. Eight planes will be used.

This is the first of the contract air mail routes the schedules of which call for night flying and the first where lighted airways have been established.

Utilizing the night flying experience of the Air Mail Service, the contractor has installed beacons similar to those in use on the Government-operated transcontinental route, placing them between Seattle and Portland and between San Francisco and Los Angeles. The remainder of the route under the schedule will be flown in the daylight hours. The lights were installed by the contractor with the aid of local communities.

Under the schedule planes southbound will leave Seattle daily except Monday at 3:45 A. M., Portland 5:45 A. M., Medford 8:15 A. M., San Francisco 12 noon, Fresno 2 P. M., Bakersfield 3:30 P. M., and arrive at Los Angeles at 5 P. M. Northbound planes will leave Los Angeles at 12 midnight, Bakersfield 1:45 A. M., Fresno 3:30 A. M., San Francisco 5:30 A. M., Medford 9:30 A. M., Portland 12 noon, and arrive at Seattle at 2 P. M.

The new route is the longest of the contract air mail routes and the only one to exceed the 1,000 mile limit on 10-cent postage. The rate between Seattle and Los Angeles will be 15 cents; all other points 10 cents.

The Pacific Coast route is a "line unto itself." Its schedule is designed only to accommodate the cities to which it provides service and no attempt is made to make connections with the transcontinental either at San Francisco, Los Angeles or via Pasco, Washington.

The schedule as arranged will afford marked improvement over present railroad mail time. An illustration is provided by a mail train leaving Seattle at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, which arrives in San Francisco at 9:10 Wednesday morning and Los Angeles at 7:40 Thursday morning. The train out of Seattle will have had eleven hours and fifteen minutes start when the mail plane leaves at 3:45 Tuesday morning. The plane, however, will reach San Francisco at 11:45 Tuesday morning and Los Angeles at 5 P. M. the same day.

Fort Lee Ferry Sets a Record.

The Fort Lee ferry between 125th Street, Manhattan, and Edgewater, N. J., exceeded all its previous records last Sunday, when it transported 11,040 vehicles and 53,703 foot passengers, it was announced yesterday. During the rush hour periods, both morning and evening, the five boats of the company, which have been enlarged recently to accommodate four lines of vehicles, were in continuous operation.

Five, Who Coined New Titles For Waiters, Split $50 Prize

The five contestants who first submitted the terms of "Service, Please," "Steward," "Server," "Orderman" and "Cardman" as substitutes for the call of "Waiter" will divide the $50 prize offered a year ago by the United Restaurant Owners' Association to obtain the best replacement for the latter title.

Calvin W. Klein, Executive Secretary of the association, in announcing the decision of the judges yesterday, said that they were not exactly satisfied with any of the suggestions. However, it was felt that the above terms were better than the word "waiter," since none carried the menial significance which the disliked word implied.

The five who get $10 each are Miss Dorothy E. Davis of Kearny, N. J.; Peter Taylor, Long Island City; George O. Jaer, Savannah, Ga.; J. Maulsby Smith, Baltimore, and M. Harty, Chicago.

TWO GANGS SEIZED FOR MANY THEFTS

Police Say Group Admitted Stealing Diamonds, Furs and Clothing.

BRONX PAIR ARRESTED

Three Others Are Charged With Criminally Receiving Stolen Property.

Two groups of alleged hold-up men were captured by the police early yesterday and were said to have admitted many robberies and burglaries. On confessions alleged to have been made by Edmund Burke, 23 years old, a chauffeur, of 2,169 Second Avenue; Patsy Sicilliano, 22 years old, of 433 East 120th Street, and Anthony Jossell, 25 years old, of 321 East 114th Street, Detectives Cavone, McGrohan, O'Connor and McAllister of the East 104th Street Station in the afternoon arrested three men on suspicion of criminally receiving some of the loot of the trio.

Burke, Sicilliano and Jossell were taken into custody for the theft of $4,000 in diamond rings from the window of the jewelry store of Frank Goldblum at 2,144 Third Avenue on Aug. 23. One of the robbers threw a brick through the window and he and a confederate scooped up three trays of rings and escaped in the taxicab Burke is alleged to have admitted he drove. Burke was the first taken into custody yesterday by the detectives and Detective Lieutenant John Appel of the East 104th Street Station.

He was alleged to have involved Sicilliano and Joselli, and the men told of burglaries or robberies in a store at First Avenue and Eighty-first Street, in which fifty silk dresses were obtained; in another store in East 116th Street, near Fifth Avenue, in which a quantity of jewels and beaded bags was the loot; a store at St. Nicholas Avenue and 111th Street, in which $750 in silk shirts were stolen; the theft of thirty-three suits from a store at Stanton and Orchard Streets; the burglary of a store at Lenox Avenue and 119th Street, in which twenty-five suits were obtained, another at Third Avenue and 110th Street, in which the thieves got sixty silk dresses, and the theft of twenty fur coats, ranging in value from $200 to $400 in the burglary of another store in 125th Street, near Fifth Avenue.

One Freed Two Months Ago.

Lieutenant Appel said that the police records revealed that Sicilliano only two months ago was released from Sing Sing after serving almost three years on his conviction for possessing burglars' tools on Aug. 9, 1923. He previously had been sentenced to Elmira Reformatory on a larceny conviction, and began his criminal career, the police said, when he was committed to the Catholic Protectory for another offense. Jossell, the police said, had a record of sentence to Eastchester Penitentiary in 1921 for the theft of a ring and a suspended sentence in 1924 on a grand larceny indictment. Burke had no previous criminal record.

John Valendine, 48 years old, was arrested in his tailoring establishment at 301 East 116th Street on a charge that he had purchased some of the loot from the trio. The detectives said that fifty-five suits of clothes found in his place were identified by Louis Freedman as having been stolen from his establishment at 200 Lenox Avenue on July 25. The police also charged Valendine with illegally possessing a loaded pistol found in his shop.

Benny Billitio of 236 East 104th Street and Patsy Montano of 425 East 115th Street were the other two men arrested on suspicion of having purchased loot from Burke, Sicilliano and Jossell. They own a second-hand clothing store at 131 West 135th Street, in which, the police alleged, they found sixty dresses and a $400 fur coat, part of the loot in the burglary of the establishment of the Hygrade Fur Store at 226 East 121st Street on Aug. 15. Sullivan law charges also were lodged against Billitio for having a 25-calibre automatic pistol and a 38-calibre revolver, both loaded, in his place. Valendine, Billitio and Montano denied they knew the stuff had been stolen.

Two Arrested for Hold-Ups.

James McCue, 20 years old, of 988 Boston Road, and John McGowan, 23 years old, of 656 East 166th Street, were arrested in the Bronx in connection with two hold-ups. When arraigned before Magistrate Albert Vitale, McCue, who had no previous police record, was held in $15,000 bail, while McGowan was remanded to the Bronx County Jail without bail. The evidence against them will be presented to the Grand Jury next week.

They were arrested in connection with the hold-up of Joseph Pierce, a taxicab driver, of 491 East 164th Street, and the theft of $15 at Southern Boulevard and Intervale Avenue and the hold-up of Edward Reimer in the latter's delicatessen store at 624 East 161st Street, in which Reimer was robbed of $65 and a watch. McGowan, the police alleged, was freed on a suspended sentence on last Jan. 19 for the theft of an automobile.

ARRAIGNED ON DRUG CHARGE

Florida Couple Held for Trial Here on Sept. 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perrin of Daytona Beach, Fla., who were indicted three months ago by a Brooklyn Federal Grand Jury on charges of violating the Harrison Drug act, pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Marcus B. Campbell in Brooklyn and were held under bonds of $5,000 each for trial on Sept. 20. The Perrins had waived extradition proceedings and had come to Brooklyn voluntarily.

Mitchell Waddell, said by Federal officials to be a member of the alleged heroin gang, of which the Perrins are accused of being the Florida agents, will be tried with them on Sept. 20. Two men and a woman have already pleaded guilty to being members of the ring said to include the Perrins and Waddell and which is said to have had its headquarters in Brooklyn. The woman was placed on probation and the men were sentenced to terms in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Seek to Enjoin Palace Bus Concern.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 31.—Restraint in this State of the Palace Tourist Company, which operates a bus line between New York and Atlantic City by way of Lakewood, was asked today in a suit filed by the Board of Public Utilities Commissioners. The complaint set forth that the operation of the buses in New Jersey is without necessary municipal permit and without the sanction of the State board. Vice Chancellor Leaming ordered the company to show cause on Sept. 14 why an injunction should not be issued.

To Complete Laying of Fastest Cable Today; 3,400-Mile Line to Be Landed at Rockaway

The laying of what will be the world's fastest cable, the nineteenth to span the Atlantic, will be completed this morning at 10 o'clock when 150 workmen of the Western Union Telegraph Company drag the American end ashore at Hammels, near Rockaway Beach, haul it far up on the land and bury it in a trench from which it will later be connected up with the company's cable office at 40 Broad Street.

Manufactured by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company of Greenwich, England, and sheathed in permalloy, an alloy of iron and nickel developed in the laboratories of the Western Electric Company, which gives it greater speed, the cable will have a sending capacity of 2,500 letters per minute and will be eight times as fast as any other cable between New York and England.

Early last June the S. S. Colonia began the task of laying the great cable across a stretch of 3,400 nautical miles. Its eastern terminus is at Penzance, England, whence it stretches across the undersea plateaus, valleys and mountain tops of the Atlantic to Bay Roberts, Newfoundland. Then it strikes southward to New York.

The crew of the Colonia completed their task yesterday when the western end of the terminal was secured to a score of big casks and these in turn were anchored a short distance off the Rockaway shore. This morning a huge winch on a truck will draf these casks and the cable ashore, where the workmen will be waiting ready to seize it.

The English company which manufactured the new cable is the oldest in the world engaged in that business. It was formed for the purpose of laying the first successful transatlantic cable, which was accomplished in 1866.

When Cyrus Fields's first attempt to connect the two continents by cable failed in 1858 he could raise no more funds in this country and went to England. There he obtained the necessary money to finance a new venture and the Gutta Percha Company was commissioned to build the cable. The steamship Great Eastern was chartered in 1865 to lay the cable, but when 1,200 miles of it had been laid out the cable parted and efforts to recover it at that time proved fruitless.

Again Fields's project was threatened with ruin, but John Prender, head of the Gutta Percha Company, came forward and offered £250,000 of his own money to carry on the work. A new cable was built and on July 13, 1866, the Great Eastern steamed into Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, trailing a line of cable which stretched back to the Irish coast. Later the Great Eastern returned to the scene of the loss of the first cable, grappled for it, recovered it and linked it up to form the second transatlantic line. Today, of the nineteen transatlantic cables the Western Union operates eight.

SUES TO TIE UP CASH OF BRIDEGROOM, 78

HIS SECOND WIFE IS 31

Plaintiff Says She Will Ultimately Inherit Estate of Uncle and His First Wife.

Jean G. C. Cottier, head of the diamond firm of C. Cottier & Son of 542 Fifth Avenue, who at the age of 78 recently married Miss Ruth Dowling, 31 years old, will be enjoined from spending any of his fortune if a restraining order applied for yesterday in the Court of Chancery, Jersey City, is granted to his niece, Miss Gladys Rich.

Miss Rich declares that under the terms of his first wife's will she was to be the ultimate inheritor of the estate. She says that Cottier disappeared from his home at 12 Congress Street, Jersey City, last June, and married Miss Dowling. Mrs. Amanda M. Cottier, his first wife, died on Nov. 22, 1925. In her will she provided that her estate be kept in trust for Miss Rich, designating her as the ultimate beneficiary. A duplicate of Cottier's will including the same provisions is now in the hands of former Common Pleas Court Judge Robert Cary, Miss Rich's counsel.

Miss Dowling, according to Miss Rich, was an infrequent visitor of the Cottier home. Miss Rich, according to her own declaration, lived there virtually as an adopted daughter. When she learned that Cottier had assigned some of his real estate holdings to his bride, she applied for the order restraining the disposal of $30,000 worth of Jersey City real estate that Cottier owns. Mrs. Cottier left an estate of more than $50,000, and Cottier's holdings are said to be worth several times that amount.

Cottier, according to former Judge Cary, was living with his bride in a luxurious apartment at the Park Lane Apartments, Park Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. Inquiries last night revealed that no one of that name was known here. The application for an order against him, Miss Rich says, was made to enforce the trust arrangement between Cottier and his first wife, and also to prevent the squandering of the money before an equitable arrangement was reached.

The aged diamond merchant has not employed an attorney to contest the action, so far as is known. A hearing on the application will probably be held today.

MAKES PEACE WITH UNIONS.

Newark Contractor to Pay Legal Fee Builders Incurred.

Clifford F. McEvoy, contractor, of Newark, who has been at war with union labor in New Jersey for two and a half years, buried the hatchet yesterday. Mr. MacEvoy promised to withdraw his $500,000 damage suit against fifteen union labor leaders, eleven unions, the Carpenters' District Council and the Building Trades Council. He will pay the counsel fee of $2,000 incurred by the Building Trades Council.

The settling of differences was at a conference of Mr. MacEvoy's seeking. The dispute arose when Mr. MacEvoy received the $3,318,000 contract for the Wanaque Water Works job, March 10, 1924. He employed a non-union worker and when the hoisting engineers demanded that he discharge the man Mr. MacEvoy refused.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Vanderbilt, wife of General Cornelius Vanderbilt, is ill at The Breakers. She had been ailing for a few days, and finally had to take to her bed. On the advice of her physician she has canceled her social engagements. It is expected that she will be up again soon. Mrs. Vanderbilt is suffering from an affection of the throat, presumably due to a change in weather conditions.

CITY MILK DEALERS TO APPOINT A 'CZAR'

DETERMINED TO CLEAN UP

Harris Says Creation of Such an Office Will Clarify Situation—Danziger Aids to Be Ousted.

Determined to "clean house" and obtain the favorable opinion of the public, the Milk Chamber of Commerce, an organization of independent milk dealers in New York, has decided to appoint a supreme arbiter of the industry who will work on lines similar to those of Will Hays in the motion-picture field.

This announcement was made yesterday following a conference between Health Commissioner Louis I. Harris and officers and counsel of the milk dealers. The latter included Leo A. O'Neill, President of the chamber, Patrick Mullin, Treasurer, Henry Pfanmuller, Secretary, and Barnet Metzger, a director.

Commissioner Harris said the creation of such an office would clarify the situation concerning the handling of milk in this city. Mr. O'Neill agreed with the Commissioner that the dictator to be chosen for the industry should be a man with no previous connections with the sale or handling of food products. The temporary work required as preliminary to the appointment of a milk dictator is now being done by a retired milk dealer serving without compensation.

Begins "House-Cleaning."

As an earnest of its desire to put its best foot forward, the Milk Chamber of Commerce has ordered the discharge of all men previously associated with Harry Danziger, the first man indicted in the milk graft inquiry. These include "the four horsemen," who were employed by Danziger to visit the dealers. They were Abraham Cohen, Philip Blass, Isidore Tiger and Moe Schadinsky.

In addition, the organization, through President O'Neill, announced it would discontinue payment of salaries to milk dealers, a practice to which Commissioner Harris had objected.

"We admit that we gave our organization a black eye by retaining in our employment a certain type of men," said Mr. O'Neill after the conference. "We were compelled to do this because of the service they were able to render in exposing undesirable conditions. Recent attacks on our organization, coupled with the demands of Dr. Harris, have caused us to determine upon immediate action, and the discharge of Danziger's former associates is the result. When we shall have engaged the services of some man highly respected in the community we shall then feel that we are entirely above criticism and innuendoes."

Commissioner Harris denied reports that the City Administration had shelved his plea for additional inspectors. He said he had received reiterated assurances from Mayor Walker of his support and keen desire to see supervision of milk products put upon a basis of efficiency that would safeguard the community. He was sure that when the right time arrived the additional forces for inspection would be provided.

Suspends Food Inspectors.

Dr. Harris suspended two food inspectors yesterday on charges of gross irregularities as the result of information furnished him by milk dealers.

George O. Harvey, former Alderman, in a letter to Governor Smith, requested the appointment of an investigator to get to the bottom of the milk scandal. Mr. Harvey said that in April, 1925, he was responsible for an investigation into the milk and cream situation which revealed substantially the same evils that have recently been uncovered, but that the testimony of witnesses examined for a month by the District Attorney and the disclosures made were shelved.

BOSSES WANT WAR, SUIT STRIKERS SAY

Union Leaders Charge Plan of Manufacturers Is to Cause Failure of Conferences.

WILL REFUSE ARBITRATION

Employers Hope to Have Governor Try to Compel Workers to Accept It, They Assert.

On the eve of conferences with Raymond V. Ingersoll, Impartial Chairman of the cloak and suit industry, union leaders last night accused Henry H. Finder, Chairman of the Manufacturers' Industrial Council, of bad faith. They asserted that he and his associates would go into the conference this afternoon, not to reach an agreement to settle the strike in the industry, but determined to withstand every union demand and refuse a compromise. The purpose, they said, would be to break up the conferences so that Governor Smith would attempt to compel the union to refer the dispute to arbitration. The manufacturers are to meet Mr. Ingersoll at 130 West Thirty-first Street at 2 P. M.

"From this viewpoint the Governor's letter is a hindrance instead of a help in reaching an understanding," said Louis Hyman, Chairman of the Strike Committee. Mr. Hyman also said the union would stand pat on its letter to the Governor and would not submit its demands to arbitration.

Impugns Employers' Motives.

Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said that, while he would go into the conference today with a genuine desire to reach a just agreement, the leaders of the Industrial Council were not inspired by similar motives.

"The very fact," Mr. Sigman said, "that just a few hours before we are to meet them in a conference arranged by Mr. Ingersoll the leaders of the Industrial Council choose to issue a violent attack upon the leaders of the workers' organization indicates how little they desire peace.

"The spokesman for the Industrial Council on the eve of the conferences denounces the strike leaders as persons having 'disrespect and utter disregard for legally constituted authority' because they prefer direct negotiations to arbitration, and heaps abuse upon them as 'so-called leaders who with characteristic defiance of the law are using reprehensible and brutal methods.' I would remind them that in July, 1924, at the very first hearing before the Governor's Special Mediation Commission, the representatives of the Industrial Council openly declared the union's demands 'undebatable' and informed the mediators that they had dissolved their association and would therefore be no party to any mediation, arbitration or conciliation proceedings. That farcical dissolution was exposed when they reorganized their association into the present council. Today they are such fervent adherents of arbitration that they would denounce any one declining it as lawbreakers and criminals."

Denies Finder's Charges.

Mr. Hyman in his statement said:

"Mr. Finder's accusation that the union has, in six strikes, worked hand in hand with jobbers against inside manufacturers,' is absolutely false. On several occasions we have stated that the majority of the present jobbers were manufacturers. Many of them were members of the Protective Association, which is now the Industrial Council. The Protective Association fought the union and attempted by every means to lower the workers' standards, and because, through the system of jobbing and sub-contracting, they are able to bring this evil condition about, the system was developed.

"The same procedure is still employed. We see no difference between the jobbers and the Industrial Council when the union demands that jobbers be responsible for the conditions of the workers. They work hand in hand and are fighting to defeat the union and thereby make the workers defenseless for the future, as they were in the past.

"In reply to Mr. Finder's challenge that union leaders are expressing their own opinion and not the opinion of our members in refusing to accept arbitration, we inform him that our members have discussed this question, both at a Chairman's meeting and at meetings of locals, and they have unanimously rejected the suggestion to refer our dispute to arbitration. Our problems are so varied that it is almost impossible for an arbitrator to analyze and realize them. After our workers have been on strike two months we would be betraying them if we sent them to work and referred their future to an arbitrator, no matter who he may be.

"The strike must and can be settled between the leaders of the unions and employers. If the leaders of the Industrial Council want to end the strife they must realize this."

NAVY PICKS BEST SEAMEN.

Pittsburgh's Personnel Wins Annual Trophies for Efficiency.

The forty-four officers and 850 men of the crew of the armored cruiser Pittsburgh were honored at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday afternoon when they received three prizes given for excellence in the performance of their duties during the year from July 1, 1925, to June 30, 1926.

The trophies are awarded each year by the Navy Department for all vessels of the same class as the Pittsburgh for supremacy in gunnery, engineering and battle efficiency. The trophies for gunnery and engineering are bronze cups, while the trophy for battle efficiency is a pennant.

The presentation was made by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commandant of the navy yard. The trophies were accepted by Captain F. Taylor Evans, commander of the Pittsburgh, who is a son of the late Admiral Robley D. Evans. The trophies will be held by the Pittsburgh for one year, when they will be awarded to the vessels making the best records during the year 1926-1927.

Mrs. Tappin's Sons Inherit $352,839

Lindsley Tappin, member of the New York Stock Exchange, who was divorced last January by Mrs. Elise Tappin, and directed to pay her $7,500 a year alimony, will receive $176,419 under the will of his mother, Mrs. Helen Z. Tappin, whose estate was appraised yesterday at $352,839. Mrs. Tappin, who died on May 13, gave the other half of her estate to her son Harold, of the Yale Club. Lindsley Tappin was married in April at Richmond, Va., to Mrs. Sarah Coe Schermerhorn, corespondent in his wife's suit, who had previously divorced Colonel William Hayward, former United States Attorney.

Holds Up Girl, Kisses Her, Penitently Returns Loot

James Murray, 16 years old, a messenger, of 3,945 Carpenter Avenue, the Bronx, tried to be a hold-up man early yesterday morning, but failed because of the beauty of his intended victim, who was Miss Elinor Sweet of 694 East 236th Street, the Bronx.

Miss Sweet and her companion, John Martin, of 639 East 236th Street, the Bronx, were strolling along the Bronx Boulevard near 236th Street when Murray came up to them. The youth took $4 and a bracelet from the girl, according to the police, but when he looked into her face he returned the stolen property and then, kissing her good-bye, added: "I hope we meet in better circumstances another time."

The couple telephoned to the police and detectives from the White Plains Avenue Station arrived before the youth had left the scene. He was arrested and arraigned before Magistrate Vitale in the West Farms Court. He waived examination and was held without bail for the Grand Jury.

TO LINK WITH 8TH AV. LINE

Project, Which Includes Tube to Long Island City, Is Again Attacked as Waste of Money.

The Board of Transportation adopted a resolution yesterday formally inviting bids for the construction of the Fifty-third Street subway to connect Long Island City by tunnel under the East River with the Washington Heights-Eighth Avenue subway, now under construction. The resolution provided that the bids for the two sections from Eighth Avenue to the East River should be received on Oct. 1 and for the tunnel section under the East River to Nott and East Avenues, Long Island City, on Oct. 15.

The board also directed the publication of an advertisement in The City Record on Friday and, in accordance with the law, in two daily newspapers.

The definite decision of the Board of Transportation to go ahead with the construction of the Fifty-third Street subway was considered of particular importance as indicating that it intended to proceed with the plan for an independent municipally operated subway system, as proposed during the Hylan Administration, instead of connecting the new Washington Heights-Eighth Avenue subway with the B. M. T. Broadway subway at Fifty-ninth Street.

Several months ago the Merchants' Association wrote Mayor Walker urging the Board of Estimate to delay approval of contracts for the construction of the Fifty-third Street subway until the board determined a definite policy on municipal operation, on the ground that if the new subways were to be linked with existing lines the proposed Fifty-third Street tunnel under the East River would not be necessary, as the existing East River tunnels to Long Island City are not used anywhere near capacity. At the offices of the association yesterday it was said that no new action by the association had been taken.

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, issued a statement attacking the proposed construction of the Fifty-third Street subway as a waste of public money and calling on Mayor Walker and the Board of Estimate to decide on a definite subway policy.

Mr. Browne said the Hylan Administration wasted $30,000,000 in the construction of useless Staten Island piers and voted $70,000,000 for a combination freight and passenger tunnel to Staten Island construction of which had been stopped as a waste of public funds.

"The necessary Eighth Avenue subway from Washington Heights to Columbus Circle, instead of being connected with the Interborough subway at Columbus Circle and with the B. M. T. subway at Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, was made an independent subway and continued south on Eighth Avenue at a cost of $30,000,000," Mr. Browne said. "This latter is being built to kill the Interborough Seventh Avenue subway and injure the city's own investment therein.

"The Fifty-third Street subway from Eighth Avenue to Astoria, an independent subway, was voted for to help kill the B. M. T. subway from Seventh Avenue and Fifty-seventh Street to Astoria and injure the city's own investment therein. The cost of this subway is $38,000,000.

"The Hylan Administration was yelling itself hoarse over the iniquity of the taxpayers having to pay $10,000,000 a year for the debt service of the existing subway bonds and at the same time was doing everything it could to make this condition worse.

"It's too late now to stop the south Eighth Avenue subway, but it isn't too late to stop the Fifty-third Street subway to Astoria, the contracts for which will be let in September at a total cost of $38,000,000."

ROAD ARGUES FOR NEW LINE.

Long Island Says Cut-Off in Queens Must Be Rebuilt for Emergencies.

Officials of the Long Island Railroad testified yesterday at a hearing before the Transit Commission that in its application to rebuild the Cedarhurst cut-off in Queens, which has been idle for many years, the railroad company is attempting to prepare for future emergency requirements and is not merely trying to keep its franchise valid.

C. D. Baker, General Superintendent of the railroad, said the railroad would need the cut-off in the near future, certainly for car storage, and probably for freight and passenger use. Under cross-examination, Mr. Baker said he had seen only one freight train operated over the cut-off during the thirty-five years he has been connected with the railroad.

L. V. Morris, consulting engineer, said reconstruction of the cut-off with 100-pound rails had been ordered by George Le Boutillier, Vice President of the company. He said it was about half completed. There is one grade crossing on the line, and Colonel W. C. Lancaster, chief engineer of the commission, said that some arrangement would probably have to be made for its elimination during reconstruction, if the commission decided that the railroad's franchise was still valid.

COST OF I.R.T. STRIKE IS PUT AT $1,146,000

FAILED TO MEET RENTALS

Also Lacked by $1,406,283 the Sum Necessary to Pay Interest on Borrowings.

GAIN FOR TROLLEY LINE

Third Avenue Railway's Net Rose to $86,244 Owing to Diversion of Traffic.

The cost of the recent Interborough strike, which began at one minute after midnight on July 1 and ended on July 30, was disclosed as approximately $1,146,000 by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company's financial statement for July, made public yesterday.

This estimate was reached solely by comparison with the receipts and expenditures of the company for July, 1925. It was said that because the receipts for July, 1926, under normal conditions might have been expected to be higher than for the same month of the preceding year, due to the normal increase in traffic, the actual strike cost was probably a little higher and that $1,250,000 might be a more accurate estimate.

The statement showed total revenue from all sources of $4,016,301.38 for the month, a decrease of $1,242,910.75, as compared with the receipts for July, 1925. Expenditures for operating and maintaining the company's property were $3,581,769.82, an increase of $622,436.30.

The net result for the month, as shown by the company's statement, was a deficit of $1,663,538.69, as compared with a surplus of $252,855.98 for July last year. This was a decrease of $1,916,394.67, but it was explained that $770,000 of this decrease was due to the receipt of that amount in July last year as a cash payment on a new advertising contract, there being no similar payment this year. The balance, $1,146,394.67, it was said at the company's offices, represented approximately the cost of the strike.

The monthly report showed that the company had failed by $263,944.95 to earn during the month the money necessary to meet its rentals, and by $1,406,283.03 the money to meet its interest charges on borrowed money and bonds.

The report of the Third Avenue Railway system for July showed that it had profited by diversion of traffic to its lines during the strike. The operating revenue for the month was $1,314,836.52, an increase of $117,363.96. The company's net income was $86,241.04, an increase of $81,869.51, as compared with July, 1925.

TELLS AIMS OF BODY TO FIGHT PHONE RATES

Subscribers' Committee Secretary Says 'Perverted Construction' Was Placed on Offer.

Martin Henry, Secretary of the Telephone Subscribers' Committee which recently sent out circulars declaring that for $3 from each subscriber the committee would fight their battles against further increases in telephone rates, issued a statement yesterday that a "perverted construction" had been placed on a certain paragraph in the circular "which was really intended to protect subscribers."

This paragraph was construed to mean that the committee would give no account in detail as to the expenditure of the money paid to it by persons circularized. Mr. Henry said yesterday:

"Any sensible person knows that in attacking the policies of a big corporation they are exposing themselves to fire and that an appeal to the public can by a sufficient enlistment of the opposition's money and numerical strength be converted by that opposition into a weapon against the organization by packed voting.

"No one in his sane senses would suppose that the committee proposed to handle public moneys without proper auditing and accounting at the correct time, and the attempt to prevent any packing of the subscribers, or subverting the intentions of the subscribers, was, we consider, well taken. But no one knows better than the committee that proper and careful accounting of the moneys would have to be made to protect their good names and honorable intentions.

"The committee does not hesitate to believe that once the press is apprised of the bona fides of the committee it will at least give them credit for a gallant if somewhat misguided effort to be of public service."

Postoffice inspectors admitted they had received no complaint against the committee, which is said to have collected a very small sum from persons circularized, but said they were looking into the project on general principles. Mr. Henry's statement added:

"The committee is totally unaware, except through the medium of the press, of any postoffice investigation, but will gladly welcome any, the public being aware that such investigation carries no more implication than a bank examiner's inspection of any institution's books."

NO BITTER EXPOSE IN THAW'S 'TRAITOR'

Advance copies of Harry K. Thaw's book, "The Traitor," reached New York yesterday. It begins with a discussion of the author's killing of Stanford White on the roof of Madison Square Garden twenty years ago and ends with a quotation from Euripides.

Most of the 371 pages are taken up with the events preceding and following the drama of Madison Square Garden. There are many pages also of description of Thaw's travels abroad, illustrated with a map of Europe. Other illustrations include several views of himself, many of Evelyn Nesbit at various ages, but none after the tragedy; a picture of Anthony Comstock and another of Samuel P. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, who was one of Thaw's acquaintances, and a photograph of a group comprising Thaw, Prince and Princess Candriano, Duchess Gracioli and Princess di Paterno, taken in Rome in 1900.

The names of many persons prominent on the other side of the Atlantic, as well as the best-known members of New York society, appears in the volume, but there is no support for advance reports that it would contain a "bitter expose" of life in New York society and "brand three prominent New York women."

The nearest approaches to an "expose" are discussions of the agonies of having dinner or having to dance with the wrong persons, and the account of how one woman high in New York society announced that the food and wine served her by the host of an entirely orderly party, who happened to be Stanford White, were "rotten." There are many anecdotes, but the characters shift so often and the subjects wander off into so many bypaths that the result is confusing.

Describing the shooting, Thaw says:

"Half rising he [Stanford White] gazed at me malignantly. I shot him twelve feet away. I felt sure he was dead. But I wanted to take no chances. I walked toward him and fired two more shots. He dropped.

"I looked to see if any fool should attack me; there were two bullets left, if needed. Instead, all the people moved, and moved so far, surging to the end of the roof, that I feared some might be forced to fall, toppling to the street eighty feet below, so I slowly raised the gun above my head and turned rather fast, yet not enough to alarm any one, and went back the same way as I had taken.

"Some men, observing that they were safe, I walked and handed the pistol to one of them. Then straight to Evelyn. She uttered a cry: 'My God, Harry, what have you done?' I held her closely and told her: 'It is all right, dearie, I have probably saved your life.' Then I kissed her."

The "Traitor," for whom the book is named, is one of the lawyers who appeared for Thaw immediately after his arrest. Thaw does not name him, but charges with the utmost bitterness that this lawyer was a tool of Stanford White's friends and was betraying him and Evelyn while receiving pay from him.

Many pages are filled with transcripts of the evidence given at the trials, and there are both bitter and complimentary remarks about District Attorney Jerome. One blank page in the midst of the account of the trial is marked, "Censor cut this out," without further explanation. Thaw omits the section of Evelyn's story at the trial which caused the greatest sensation.

Throughout, the book speaks with the utmost affection of Evelyn Nesbit as an innocent girl who had not been to blame for the entanglement with White and who fought valiantly against every possible handicap when Thaw was on trial for his life.

SOVIET RUSSIA SETS UP OWN MONROE DOCTRINE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 31.—What amounts to a Monroe Doctrine for the Baltic States was announced by the spokesman for the Soviet Foreign Office today. The spokesman said the Soviet Government had proof that Poland recently intended a coup against Lithuania.

"The most vital interests of the Soviet Union would be threatened if the Baltic States came under the control or political influence of any greater power," he said. "The Soviet Union will not tolerate hegemony or special privileges over the Baltic."

Regarding Poland, the spokesman declined to reveal the alleged proofs, but said: "One of our neighbors is the most imperialistic power in Europe and the greatest danger to peace. It is especially dangerous since the advent to power of a new leader whose aims at expansion to the Northwest and in the Ukraine are known generally. The plans were near realization—we sounded the alarm just in time to prevent the coup for the moment at least. But the plans now are not abandoned and the menace of Poland persists."

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Americans are not working as hard as they are supposed to do, according to the testimony of the party of fifty members of Gordon Selfridge's London department store who have returned from a tour of American shops.

Gordon Selfridge in a speech at a luncheon to them today commented on this experience and added that Americans, demoralized by success, were playing golf instead of making more money. Not so many new ideas now come from America because its people become too easygoing, he said.

American Sailor Dies From Shot.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Emile Paredes, an American sailor, who was shot last week at Gravesend after a dance, died in the hospital today. His alleged attacker, a negro American of the United States Destroyer Sharkey, was held on the destroyer after its captain had refused to hand him over to the English police. The Sharkey left today for San Sebastian and it has been decided that the negro will be tried by the American authorities.

STADIUM CONCERTS CLOSE WITH OVATION

REQUEST PROGRAM GIVEN

Two of the Numbers Are by Tchaikovsky and Another by Johann Strauss.

The largest audience of the season, estimated at more than 15,000, packed the Stadium last night for the last concert of the Summer series by the Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Willem van Hoogstraten. The Dutch conductor on his appearance was greeted with tumultuous applause.

The request program began with Tchaikovsky's "Pathetic" symphony. It was received with great favor, especially the third movement, for which the orchestra had to rise. Mr. van Hoogstraten took several recalls at the close. Richard Strauss's tone poem, "Don Juan," won an ovation for conductor and instrumentalists and paved the way for a favorite of another sort, Johann Strauss's "Tales of the Vienna Woods."

Tchaikovsky's "1812" overture was the last number of the printed list and was succeeded by a demonstration of unusual warmth, not only for the popular conductor but also for the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Mr. van Hoogstraten has borne the brunt of the conducting during the season. In his five weeks he has directed thirty-five concerts of the fifty-five of the season, giving twenty-eight symphonies, besides many other works. He gave, among other works, Mahler's "First Symphony," Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony" twice (the second time curtailed by a storm), two performances each of Verdi's "Requiem" and Stravinsky's "Scare du Printemps." Mr. van Hoogstraten felt himself more than justified in giving before a Stadium audience this last work, which has made such a stir in the musical world. It will interest Mr. van Hoogstraten's admirers to know that Baroness Hildegard Schneider, pupil of Professor Georg Kolbe, the German sculptor, has made a striking bust of the Dutch conductor which will be shown in the bronze at the approaching exhibition by the Baroness in New York.

Mr. van Hoogstraten sails on the Berengaria today to meet his wife, Mme. Elly Ney, in the Bavarian Alps. Mme. Ney will begin a tour of fifty European concerts with the Berlin Philharmonic under Furtwangler. She will play Toch's new concerto. Mr. van Hoogstraten will return to Portland, Ore., in time to begin on Oct. 18 his Winter series of twenty orchestral concerts.

IRISH REBELLION IN A FILM.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Sept. 1.—A film re-enacting scenes of the Irish rebellion in 1920, many of the actors being men and women who actually took part in the fighting against the British Government, has been produced in the Free State by a Dublin physician. It has caused much interest among American film renters. The producer, Dr. I. J. Eppel, sailed today for the United States on the Leviathan to arrange to show the picture there.

Troopers Find Stills in Cabin After Finding Animal Near Woods.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP).—When an old roan mule staggered out of a thicket near Welmouth yesterday and stood disconsolately in the middle of the road with its long ears lopping down the suspicions of three Hammonton State troopers were aroused.

They made a sortie into the woods and discovered a small log shanty in which a 100-gallon and a 25-gallon still were in operation.

Cached under the floor of the cabin were eighty-five gallons of alleged moonshine, which the troopers confiscated, along with five barrels of mash.

A warrant will be issued today for the arrest of William Loving of Weymouth, alleged owner of the stills.

The mule, it is believed, had eaten some of the mash which was in one of the barrels that had been placed outside the cabin.

WARSAW, Aug. 31.—Without outwardly condemning the revolution of May 12 the Polish Catholic Congress adjourned today after passing final resolutions against short skirts for women, against married women with children being employed in any form of labor and against duels between Polish civilians or members of the military forces. Other resolutions favored limited prohibition and the observance of Sunday as a holy day.

The peaceful ending of the conference is taken to mean that the opposition of countless thousands to the revolutionary idea largely subsided after the first outburst of anti-revolutionary sentiment.

BODIES FOUND AFTER FIRE.

Believed to Be Those of Care Taker of House Boat and His Wife.

the police of the High Bridge Station searching the débris in the house boat Louise, which was burned early yesterday as it lay on land on the Bronx side of the Harlem River, found two bodies burned beyond recognition. They were taken to the Fordham Morgue.

Papers on the bodies indicated that they might be those of Ossman Stoveman, 42 years old, a carpenter, and his wife Anna, 42, both of whom were reported to have been employed as caretakers on the boat, the ownership of which has not yet been learned.

Prince Fights Duel in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—Prince Valerio Pignatelli, Secretary of the Italian Legation, fought a duel yesterday with Alberto Meade. Prince Ulgnatelli, who is a descendant of Cortez and a member of one of the oldest Italian families, challenged Meade. The cause of the quarrel is not known. The men exchanged shots, but both missed. The seconds then declared that honor was satisfied and ended the duel.

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Abe and Mawruss (God Forbid!).

POTASH AND PERLMUTTER, DETECTIVES, or POISONED BY PICTURES, a "new comedy about Abe and Mawruss" in three acts, by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman. Staged by Bertram Harrison; produced by A. H. Woods. At the Ritz Theatre.

Babette Imerglick	Annette Hoffman
Kent J. Goldstein	Hartley Power
Rosie Potash	Mathilde Cottrelly
Abe Potash	Ludwig Satz
Mawruss Perlmutter	Robert Leonard
Tegner	Edwin Walter
George McAdam	Charles Gotthold
Jean McAdam	Hope Sutherland
Hedges	Robert Vivian
Hal Mason	Brandon Peters
Henry Dubois	Harry Manion
Lefty	Patricia O'Connor
Mrs. McAdam	Isabel O'Madigan
Cunningham	Allan Jenkins
Sigmund Fried	Arthur Dunn

Having demonstrated long ago their incapacity for the garment trade, Abe and Mawruss now enter the jewelry business by the backstairs in "Potash and Perlmutter, Detectives," acted boisterously at the Ritz last night. Who stole the McAdam jewels? How should they know? Well, one must concede that, for that matter, no one knows, and least of all the gesturing, shoulder-shrugging and wrangling "schlemiels" who, by force of circumstances, lock up the stolen property in their office safe. Following the instructions of Abe's generous breast and Mawruss's instinct for business, they set out on the quest uncertainly as unwilling detectives. And where do they end? In jail, God forbid! If this fleeting sketch of their progress seems slightly confusing, befogged and irratic, the authors of the comedy must share part of the blame. For Potash and Perlmutter, on stage or in print, make no pretense to mental clarity. "You agree with me?" shouts Abe at his partner; "then I must be wrong." One suspects them of being commercial opportunists.

In a labored first act Mr. Glass and Mr. Goodman wrest them violently from the garment trade and set them down as protesting sleuths in the office of the Coplin Detective Agency. More labored exposition gradually succeeds in engaging them on both sides of the McAdam case, in the employ of the suspected robber as well as the loser. And then during two rough-and-ready acts Abe and Mawruss run through their familiar paces amusingly indeed, sliding back two feet for every foot advanced. As a matter of fact, they are still more literature than drama; and the effect of their frantic activities during the jewelry mystery is more that of a vitalized magazine yarn than an acted play. As in the original stories, they speak in the form of questions, they insult indiscriminately and fall into verbal traps rather than dramatic situations. For the dialogue, strewn with inverted similes and topical thrusts, provides better amusement than the rag-tag and bobtail of their incidental misfortunes. But throughout the last two acts the authors have kept the humor running constantly in the old "P. and P." racial vein. If the unsteady course of the story makes for little continuous enjoyment, the individual cracks of dialogue seldom go astray. Every blow in this pugilistic stage skit manages to loosen the ribs.

To dismiss "Potash and Perlmutter" as words rather than theatre, however, would be to reckon without the acting of Ludwig Satz as Potash and Robert Leonard as Perlmutter. For the enjoyment never runs higher than when these two hold the stage with rapid colloquies together. After maundering listlessly in several directions the first act comes to a sharp conclusion with a wrangle at the office door. And when they interrupt each other in the second act and by turns descend ingratiatingly upon the superior McAdams the low comedy comes into its own. Mr. Leonard plays Perlmutter in full voice. This bulwark of the ill-fated partnership keeps his lungs well expanded and his gold teeth constantly flashing. And if his emotions are fairly constant, his consistently pessimistic point of view is the actual reason. In a superb make-up Mr. Satz keeps the credulous Abe all in one key of temperamental stupidity. He is timid, generous, compassionate and thoroughly futile. Always in the vein of low comedy, Mr. Satz conveys all these various qualities of emotion. At the conclusion of the second act, after a long criss-cross of epithets and narrow squeaks, Mr. Satz creates a genuine moment of pathos. Talking with the head of his bureau over the telephone, Abe learns that the jewels have been stolen from the safe. Visions of a long term at Sing Sing fill him with abject melancholy. He calls up his wife to say good-bye. But the words of farewell come brokenly, and all the strength in his body deserts him. For, as Mr. Satz's acting indicates, the range of low comedy is by no means confined; it may have depth as well as breadth. Even in its deepest moments the pure fun is constantly bubbling.

MUSSOLINI HASTENS TO MOLLIFY CHURCH

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Government is hastening to remove the unforeseen impediment to the steady improvement of the relations between Church and State which has arisen through antagonism ending in violence between the youthful extremists in both Catholic and Fascist camps.

Because of Fascist attacks on Catholic parades at Mantua and Macerata, the Pope has canceled the International Catholic Gymnast Congress, scheduled to be held here this week. The Government immediately issued an official communiqué and has ordered the Inspector General of Police to investigate and punish those responsible.

The incidents which have caused the trouble, according to the Government version, were not serious and were caused by excess zeal of boys, and hence do not represent any real anti-Catholic feeling on the part of responsible Fascisti.

The incident at Mantua, the Government report states, was a squabble between Catholic Boy Scouts and Fascist Vanguardists, where "except for a nocturnal invasion of the Fascist headquarters there were no breaches of the peace."

At Macerata, during a university congress, a fight started between Catholic youths and various Fascisti "present in the capacity of journalists," according to the Government report. This clash was followed by street fights in which three youths suffered minor wounds.

The Vatican maintains strict silence about the matter, but it was asserted in Catholic circles the Pope was so deeply pained by the incidents that he suspended the gymnast congress, preparations for which had been going on for many months.

A number of German clubs have already started for Rome, and it is understood that it was the fear that the exuberance of foreign youth, excited by such incidents, might cause more serious trouble which prompted the Pope to act as he did.

'SHE COULDN'T SAY NO' IS A FUNNY PLAY

SHE COULDN'T SAY NO, a "new American farce" in three acts, by B. M. Kaye. Directed by Rollo Lloyd; settings by Yelenti; produced by A. E. and R. R. Riskin. At the Booth Theatre.

Walter Turnbull	Ralph Kellard
Christopher Morton	Chester Clute
Alice Elnsdale	Florence Moore
Eddie Page	Frank Beaston
Elliphalet Potter	Joseph Dailey
Mary Hudson	Helen Spring
Hank Smith	Louis Haines
Sly Sweezey	John A. Regan
Ezra Pine	Paul Porter
Fansy Hooper	Fay Courtney
Judge Jenkins	Walter Jones
Clerk of Court	Ollor Doyl

Florence Moore, after a number of seasons in the town's various revues, appeared last night at the Booth Theatre in an entertainment which might be described—and brazenly will be—as a bedlam farce. It is entitled "She Couldn't Say No," and whatever else may be said about it, one outstanding fact must be set down. It is funny.

Previous encounters with Miss Moore lead one inevitably to the belief that it is she who is mainly responsible for that fact. The credited author is Benjamin Kaye, a lawyer, whose previous contacts with the theatre have been concerned with occasional revue sketches. A further program note makes a graceful gesture in the direction of Harry Wagstaff Gribble, but the author of "March Hares" must have given an assistance primarily technical.

The finger points to Miss Moore. Only a seasoned comedienne could feel so accurately the necessity for a broadly funny line—a gag, if you must have it—in a given spot; could know so unerringly how to fill each chink and crevice of the drama with lines that audiences would laugh at. This is the talent of a Groucho Marx. Miss Moore has that talent in abundance, and with only one vital ingredient missing. She does not always know where to stop—an audience is likely to find itself fully spent by the time the curtain is down.

And yet—let the fact be repeated and shouted from the pent-houses—Miss Moore is extravagantly funny. Witness her arrival at a country hotel, when an ancient lithograph of Maud S. brings forth the query as to whether that is the current mare. Witness almost any moment of "She Couldn't Say No"—barring only those few seconds in which the star tries to woo a tear, and comes distinctly close to doing it.

The play is an absurd tale about a young woman who pretends to be a lawyer, and not one instant of it is in the least credible. But as a tour de force for Florence Moore it is superb.

SHUBERTS TO BOOK ALL OF COHAN PLAYS

Organization Also Buys a Half Interest in the New Four Cohans Theatre in Chicago.

With the announcement by Lee Shubert yesterday that his organization had purchased a half interest in the new Four Cohans Theatre in Chicago from George M. Cohan it also became known that the Shuberts would hereafter handle the booking of all Cohan attractions in their theatres in New York and throughout the country.

Mr. Cohan in the past has been identified with A. L. Erlanger in the booking of his productions. He has always been a stanch ally of the Erlanger faction and has actively sided with Mr. Erlanger in past managerial disputes. This is the first time in all his years in the theatre that Mr. Cohan has been affiliated with the Shuberts.

The Four Cohans Theatre was opened last May with "The Home Towners," Mr. Cohan's attraction now playing at the Hudson Theatre here. The Theatre was named after the family act in which the actor-playwright first became known to the stage, and in a curtain speech the night of the opening the playhouse was said by Mr. Cohan to have been built as a tribute to his family and a present to his mother.

The first Shubert attraction to play at the Chicago house will be "The Passing Show of 1926," known here as "Passions of 1926" and "The Merry World Revue." It will open there on Sept. 12.

No details concerning the purchase of the Chicago theatre were given out by Mr. Shubert, but representatives of both the Shuberts and Mr. Cohan said last night that booking arrangements had also been completed whereby the latter's production of "Deep Yellow," a play by Maraget Vernon, would open at the National Theatre on Sept. 20 as the first Cohan attraction to play at a Shubert house in New York under the new management.

SENATOR M'KINLEY IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Weakened by Long Illness, He Fails to Resist Pulmonary Attack.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Aug. 31 (AP).—The condition of Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, who has been under treatment at a local sanitarium for a week, showed a pronounced change for the worse late today, his physician, Dr. R. H. Egbert, announced. Dr. Egbert considered his patient's condition critical.

"Senator McKinley is suffering from pulmonary congestion," Dr. Egbert said in a statement to The Associated Press. "Due to his somewhat advanced age and his condition, weakened from a long illness, he is showing less resistance to his ailment than he has heretofore demonstrated."

The physician announced that the Senator's temperature was 102, his pulse 120 and his respiration 36.

Girl Is Champion Horseshoe Pitcher.

HIBBING, Minn., Aug. 31 (AP).—A ten-year-old girl is Minnesota's woman amateur horseshoe pitching champion today. Prene Pagliarini of Hibbing defeated Mrs. Otto Witt yesterday in the first game of a three-game championship match, 50 to 37, and then caused her to forfeit the second when she was down 15 to 3. Showing unusual skill, the girl mad her way to the State title by winning eighteen consecutive matches, triumphing over some of the best players in the State.

Missouri Legion Opposes Paris Meeting.

MOBERLY, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP).—A resolution opposing the holding of the 1927 American Legion convention in Paris was adopted by the Missouri Department of the Legion in convention here today. The resolution urged that the convention be held within the United States. The action was taken as a result of recent demonstrations against Americans in Paris.

WON'T SAY 'HELL' IN REVUE.

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The use of a word with four letters, meaning an extremely hot place described in the Bible, was considered so indelicate by May Moore Duprez at the opening of a new revue last night that she declined to utter it.

"You go to hell," was the line she was to have spoken, but when the time came she merely said in a weak voice, "You may go wherever you like."

The press agents of the show had worked the audience up to a state of expectancy for the climax of the belligerent actress, who had declared previously that she would not utter the word, and there was much joy among them when an ovation was given Miss Duprez and she was showered with bouquets. Miss Duprez insists that she will not use the word hereafter, and the producer of the revue is said to be talking about a "broken contract."

Lila Lee, understudy for Miss Duprez, is not of the same mind as the leading woman.

'TIP-TOES' OPENS IN LONDON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—"Tip-Toes," the musical comedy imported from New York, where London now gets at least half of her lighter successes, opened here tonight and received a great reception. The critics declared it the best musical comedy seen in London since "No, No Nanette," produced a year and a half ago.

The cast is international, Dorothy Dickson, the American actress playing the name part, assisted by Allen Kearns, John Kirby, Lovey Lee and several capable English performers.

"Tip-Toes," which is being produced at the Winter Garden, a Shubert theatre, brings the list of American productions in London at present up to seven.

Provincetown to Give 'Turandot.'

The Provincetown Playhouse yesterday announced that its first production of the season would be Gozzi's "Turandot," recently presented by Max Reinhardt at Salzberg. It has likewise been reported that Reinhardt would produce the play here on a large scale later in the season. The Provincetown group will use a Russian adaptation of the play instead of the German version presented by Reinhardt. Rehearsals will begin next week.

Mrs. Arch Selwyn Sails Today.

Mrs. Arch Selwyn, wife of the theatrical producer, will sail for Europe today on the Berengaria. She will be accompanied by her two sons, who will attend school in Switzerland.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Owing to delays in the completion of the new John Golden Theatre, in Fifty-eighth Street, "Two Girls Wanted" will open at the Little Theatre on Thursday night of next week.

Sara Sothern will succeed Sylvia Field tomorrow night in "The Little Spitfire," at the Cort Theatre. Miss Field will be seen in "Broadway."

The Waldorf Theatre, now being finished in Fiftieth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, will open late in September. The opening attraction is as yet unannounced.

Effingham Pinto will go to England for the London production of "The Fall Guy."

A second company will act "The Great Vagabond" in Chicago, beginning next Monday, and a third company, now in rehearsal, will open in Detroit.

Arthur Geary has been engaged for "Countess Maritza," which the Shuberts will bring to the Shubert on Sept. 16.

Chamberlain Brown's production of "Kept," by Pierre Gendron, will reopen in Providence next Monday, and will come to New York late in the month. The cast will include Minnie Dupree, Zola Talma, Edmund Elton and Valerie Valaire.

"Miss Bo-Peep," a musical comedy with book and lyrics by Thomas F. Fallon, author of "The Last Warning," and music by Maurice L. Albert, will be produced in November by Lyle D. Andrews. It will be presented on a larger scale than Mr. Andrews's previous musical productions, and will be housed in a larger theatre than Mr. Andrews's own theatre, the Vanderbilt.

The postponed opening of "Is Diss a Biznis?" will take place tomorrow night at the new Intimate Theatre in the Bronx.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

On practically every market, financial cheerfulness was exhibited yesterday. There was no relaxation in money rates, all of which held at the 5 per cent. figure, but the stock market broke away from this influence and scored, under the leadership of the railway shares, a substantial and sustained advance. In the foreign exchange market, further recovery of the franc brought its price close to the 3-cent figure and nearly ⅛ cent above the level reached in the reaction following the rise of Aug. 7.

The railway shares moved up with unusual rapidity, advances of 3 to 5 points occurring in a considerable number of important stocks, with increased transactions, and either this aggressive leadership or a reviving spirit of speculation for the rise caused a similar movement in the active industrial shares. Final prices on the Stock Exchange were close to the highest. Taking the market as a whole, the day's advances were perhaps more evenly distributed than on any day of the month.

It was clearly enough evident that the underlying influences on the market were, first, the unexpectedly favorable statements of the railways published in the last few days, and belief that the money market was not likely to go materially higher. The first of these considerations is at least tangible. There is certainly no reason for surprise over the railway results; they had long been foreshadowed in the volume of trade known to be conducting and in the actual physical magnitude of freight loaded for transportation, both of which have been running steadily beyond that of a year ago. In ordinary times, especially in the pre-war period, such increase of railway earnings was always taken for granted in sequence to a trade movement like that of 1926. But the present year has been marked until recently by much the same skepticism in ideas of railway performance as in judgment of the trade situation itself. Even after the Springtime misgiving over an Autumn "business reaction" had abated, the periodical reviews of industry were not overcheerful, and the rather habitual practice in railway circles, of complaining that existing rates were not adequate to bring a safe margin of profit, had occasioned more or less of such skepticism about the railways also.

But the recent earnings statements show that railway prosperity may be reckoned on, so long as trade is sustained on the scale indicated all along by this year's loadings and the economies effected during the last four or five years are kept in force. The argument for continued easy money is not equally convincing, for the reason that violent speculation for the rise, which may be a result of low money rates, is itself usually the surest means of putting an end to them. But even in that regard the state of the credit organism in this country is of so extraordinary a character that prediction is not easy. The purely inflationary influences, which had been unable to get control of general business and of the commodity markets, doubtless had a considerable hand in last year's extravagances on the Stock Exchange and in the realty market.

Sterling held firm around the lower price of last week and the Bank of England took in £393,000 more gold, making £642,000 of net addition to its reserve since its weekly statement of last Thursday. The day's advance in the franc will lend interest to next Thursday's report by the Bank of France of the account with the Government. This being "settlement week," a very large increase in the Treasury borrowings would be in accord with rule. On most occasions of the kind, this year, the State has borrowed upward of 1,000,000,000 francs, and paid off only part of the new borrowings afterward. If the new taxes have fairly got into operation, this week may make a different showing.

BOND FRAUD DRIVE BEGUN BY BANKERS

A. G. DAVIS TO BE ITS HEAD

Ex-State Official of Illinois Says His Aid Has Been Asked In 9,000 Swindles in 5 Years.

A new department to cooperate with the various State blue sky law officers in combating traffic in fraudulent and worthless securities has been created by the Investment Bankers Association of America.

Arthur G. Davis, formerly Assistant to the Secretary of State of Illinois, will head the department. The work of the department will be country-wide. Mr. Davis has resigned as manager of the Investors' Protective Bureau, Inc., a public welfare organization formed by Chicago bankers, brokers and security dealers to aid the State in combating fraudulent security evils.

"In the last five years," said Mr. Davis, "more than 9,000 men and women have besought me to recover savings they lost in trying to get something for nothing or to get rich quick. We have been able to recover quite a sizable amount of these losses and, better, to prevent much greater losses. These results were made possible quite largely by the constant cooperation of members of the Investment Bankers Association of America. It is the purpose of this new department of the association to augment in every State and in Canada the support of organized investment banking houses of the country in driving out fraud and the traffic in questionable securities.

"Forty-six States now have blue sky laws in one form or another, but as wide-spread as they are these statutes are neither understood nor appreciated by the public. There is scarcely a more difficult job in American public life than that of the administering of the blue sky laws."

The title of Mr. Davis with the Investment Bankers Association of America will be that of Field Secretary and his office will be at the association's headquarters in Chicago.

SEEKS TO REDUCE RUBBER PRODUCTION

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Despite the high price of rubber during the past year some of the English rubber planters want not less restriction but more of it.

H. W. Hewitt, managing director of the Pelepah Valley Rubber Estates, at today's general meeting of the company maintained that under the Stevenson restriction scheme standard production had been fixed at too high a level in many of the European estates at Malaya and Ceylon.

Most of the companies at Malaya could not market more than about 85 per cent. of the standard production, he said, with the result that there was an accumulation of unused export coupons representing about 25,000 tons.

He contended that this had enabled American buyers to defeat the object of the restriction scheme, since native rubber could be bought to fill these coupons, and thus larger quantities were being exported than was contemplated when the coupons were issued.

Mr. Hewitt urged that these unused coupons should be canceled and that before Nov. 1, when another restriction period begins, assessments should be reviewed and reduced in all cases where standard allowances proved to be too high.

A further suggestion by Mr. Hewitt was that the pivotal price of rubber should be raised from 1 shilling and 9 pence, to 2 shillings per pound "in the interest of taxation."

The London Times financial editor, commenting upon this proposal, notes that a good working profit can be made in Malayan rubber at about 1 shilling and 6 pence per pound, and that to raise the pivotal price to so high a figure can only provide an additional incentive to the Dutch and native producers, who are not restricted, and thus limit the field of consumption for British rubber.

ASK $166,666 COMMISSION.

Suit Cites Services to Obtain Cuban Loan That Wasn't Floated.

A suit for a $166,666 commission on the flotation of a $100,000,000 bond issue of the Cuban Government which did not materialize, was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Kenneth L. Bernard against Mestro, Machado & Co., Harold J. Charlwood, Joseph E. Gonzales and the American-Cuban Steamship Line. The plaintiff alleged breach of contract by the defendants as the result of which he was unable to collect the sum agreed to be paid to him for services.

Bernard alleged that the defendants represented that they were authorized by the Cuban authorities to negotiate for a $100,000,000 loan to carry on public improvements; that on June 14 last, they made him their financial agent with power to find persons willing to purchase the bonds and agreed to pay him 1-6 of 1 per cent. for his services. He declared that after he had arranged the loan, the defendants, without cause, interfered with his work, and finally withdrew his authority and refused to complete the negotiations.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

It was a frequent remark in Wall Street circles yesterday that the day's advance in the railway shares as a group was probably the most emphatic that has occurred on any single day since the war. This is a comparison not easy to verify, but the uniformity of yesterday's movement and the scope of the advances in the leading railway shares were admitted by every one to be out of line with recent experience. Union Pacific, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Illinois Central, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Norfolk & Western were the stocks which rose with most rapidity. In the industrial department the stocks that showed the widest gains were Allied Chemical, American Sugar, Congoleum, du Pont, Foundation, General Motors, United States Steel, American Leather preferred, American Snuff, American Sumatra, Barnet Leather, Burns Brothers B, Gold Dust, International Harvester and Union Tank Car. The oil group was active in the late trading; it helped to sustain the general list when selling pressure was exerted. But the entire market was buoyant at the close.

Fifteen "New High Records."

Fifteen railroad shares advanced to new high points yesterday in a market confined in large measure to stocks selling above par. Estimates of the July earnings have undergone upward revision, until it was generally believed yesterday that net operating income for the month will exceed $122,000,000, as compared with $99,462,000 in July of last year. This discovery appeared to have encouraged both the investor and the speculator. The August earnings also look promising, judging from the gross revenues received by several of the larger companies, and railroad men said yesterday that they would not be surprised to see the August net amount to $130,000,000 or $135,000,000.

The Franc Goes Higher.

After a week of inactivity, with very gradual improvement, the French franc moved up sharply yesterday under a resumption of active trading, and at the close was within a very small fraction of the 3-cent level. This is the point at which many home and foreign observers have predicted recently that the franc would be stabilized. Talk of definite action toward stabilization has increased in the last few days and has renewed discussion in Wall Street of a possible large credit for France. Naturally, so far as this country is concerned, such a credit could not be obtained until after ratification of the French debt agreement. There is a belief in some financial quarters that Poincaré will revise his plans, again attempt to push through the ratification and announce the stabilization of the franc, accompanying this with an international credit for the protection of ex hange. Some estimates place this credit as large as $250,000,000. The suggestions of $500,000,000, prevalent a couple of months ago, were considered by all well-informed bankers as outside the line of probabilities. That the credit would be readily available has never been doubted. The firmness of the French "dollar bonds" during the recent Paris crisis is regarded as conclusive proof of the market's attitude toward new French borrowings.

Lower Rates on New Loans.

The railroads have joined other classes of corporations in the policy of effecting savings through the issues of securities at decreasing rates of interest. One of the largest transactions of this character of the present year is the flotation of $35,000,000 of 4½ per cent. bonds by the Illinois Central Railroad. This attracted special attention because of the fact that this road usually obtains its capital needs by the sale of stock rather than bonds. It is expected that the money will be used largely in electrification and other improvements to the lines. The Illinois Central this year is reporting increased earnings over the corresponding period of 1925.

One Aspect of Yesterday's Market.

The movement yesterday in the stocks of railroads earning close to a fair return on their property value can be directly traced to a feeling in investment circles that the recapture clause of the Transportation act will become a dead letter with the subsiding of agitation for consolidation. The death of Senator Cummins has removed a great impetus to compulsory unification, which the recapture clause was incorporated in the regulatory law to encourage. If this phase of the law were to be repealed or disregarded, it would mean that one-half of the earnings over 6 per cent. on property value might be distributed among shareholders rather than placed in a fund to aid the weaker carriers.

A Cost Comparison.

The question of public ownership, always a subject of perennial interest in the public utility industry, has received some renewed attention recently through the disclosure of the cost of a Southern power development second only to Muscle Shoals. According to these figures, the cost per horsepower of building the privately owned enterprise was approximately one-half that of Muscle Shoals, which was built by governmental agencies. While Muscle Shoals was built hastily at a time of inflated cost, public utility men nevertheless consider that this ratio of costs provides a basis for argument in favor of private enterprise.

Utility Equipment Market.

The present inactivity in the public utility field appears to be reflected in the electrical equipment market. Recent figures show that demand from electrical utilities has been inactive of late. Buying of equipment by industrial users, however, is keeping up well. It is believed that the public utility demand will improve in the next quarter.

27 Million-Car Weeks.

It now appears likely that 1926 will see the recording of twenty-seven weeks in which more than 1,000,000 freight cars have been loaded, as compared to twenty weeks in 1925, the present record. This estimate is gained by adding the million-car weeks to date to those recorded in the remaining period of last year. So frequent has the million-car week become that it is necessary for the loadings to exceed 1,100,000 to be of more than average interest during the latter half of the year.

Electricity in Coal Fields.

The extent to which development of power has influenced industry in the South was strikingly instanced yesterday by a financial man who follows developments in this area. He said a power company which has a commanding position in the South had difficulty ten years ago in selling power in the Southern coal fields. At that time, it would appear, the coal companies found it more economical to use their own product for developing energy in their industry. Now, according to this information, the Alabama coal fields all use electricity for power, and sell to railroads and manufacturing enterprises the coal they formerly consumed themselves. Where once coal companies had to be convinced of the value of electrical power, now they are said to be insistent buyers.

MONEY.

TUESDAY, AUG. 31, 1926.

There was no particular feature about the day's money market, rates continuing unchanged in both the call and fixed period trading. On the Stock Exchange it was 5 per cent. for demand loans and for maturity money the same figure prevailed. It was noted in the latter market that the tone was slightly easier for the short dates, with the possibility of a moderate concession shortly. However, four to six months' funds were eagerly sought for but very little came out. Business money was quiet and unchanged in discount.

Trustee: United States Trust Company of New York

SECURITY

The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York Gold Mortgage Bonds are secured by first mortgages on certain carefully selected types of real estate which are deposited with the United States Trust Company of New York as Trustee. Deposited mortgages are always equal in face value to the amount of bonds outstanding. The total of all mortgages made by the Company amounts to 42% of total appraisals of the properties securing them. Selling prices of properties on which the Company has had loans have, over a period of twenty-one years, averaged 5% above the appraisals. The Mortgages, which average about $4,000 each, are on improved real estate. In every instance the property securing these loans is a home or an essential business property. It is thus restricted because real estate of these two types are elementary necessities in the life of any community, and have long been recognized as the most substantial and consistently valuable of all property.

RESTRICTIONS

The trust agreement under which the Company operates definitely limits the Company as to the type and character of loans that it can make. Four important restrictions are:

(1) All bonds issued must be secured equally by all loans deposited, irrespective of the series of the bonds or date of issue.

(2) All mortgages must be on improved real estate in cities of the United States having a population of not less than 40,000.

(3) All mortgages used as security must be limited to one-half of the appraised value of the property, except in cities having a population of 300,000 or over, in which case the loan may be for three-fifths of the appraised value of the property.

(4) Mortgage loans deposited may be made only on residence or business property. No loan can be deposited which is secured by farm property, unimproved property, an undivided interest in property, leaseholds, churches, factories, clubs or theatres.

The trust agreement referred to is operative under the supervision of the New York State Banking Department, which makes a thorough examination of the Company's affairs each year.

GUARANTEE

The bonds are the direct obligation of The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York with Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits amounting to more than $2,900,000. Every dollar of these funds is obligated solely to guarantee the prompt and full payment of both principal and interest of the bonds issued by the Company.

The trust indenture, under which the bonds of this Company are created, does not permit of the issuance by the Company of bonds which will total more than fifteen times its capital stock. This ratio is far more conservative than is adhered to generally, and, we believe, makes this the strongest guarantee of any real estate mortgage investment.

DIVERSIFICATION

The loans are made in twenty-six substantial and growing Southern and Western cities. They are stable agricultural, manufacturing and distributing centers with sound economic reasons for their permanent existence. They extend from Georgia to Oregon. For these reasons, it would be practically impossible for any industrial or commercial depression to materially affect the entire group. This diversification affords a safeguard unusual in mortgage investments.

RECORD OF THE COMPANY

The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York, founded in 1905, was created as an organization to provide sound mortgage investments for its own funds as well as to create a higher form of real estate security sufficiently safeguarded to attract the better informed and more exacting type of investor.

The Company has never lost a dollar of principal or interest for any investor during the twenty-one years of its existence. It has made over 14,000 loans in cities of the South and West, of which only 24 have been foreclosed, and these foreclosures have resulted in a net profit to the Company.

No investor could lose a dollar on these bonds until the Company's entire resources had been absorbed.

For sound security and attractive return we recommend these bonds for conservative investment.

END GRAND TRUNK STOCK DISPUTE

ANNOUNCE TERMS TODAY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—It was announced officially tonight that the dispute between the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway 4 per cent. debenture stockholders and the Canadian National Railways regarding the payment of interest on the debentures had been settled. The terms of the settlement will be issued tomorrow.

The negotiations toward a settlement of this long-standing grievance began three weeks ago. An independent advisory committee, consisting of Reginald McKenna, Sr., George May, E. R. Peacock and D. W. Beatloe-Wilkinson, was recently formed to endeavor to bring the two parties together and their efforts apparently were soon successful. Messrs. McKenna and Peacock were recently appointed directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which is the rival of the Canadian National.

Resentment over the non-payment of interest on the Grand Trunk Pacific stock had, however, done a good deal of harm in the London market, and the fact was recognized by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian interests generally. It is thought that a settlement of the question will be followed by the re-entry of Canada into the London market as a Government and industrial borrower. She has in recent years obtained all the money she needed in New York.

The dispute had its origin in the taking over of the Grand Trunk Railway by the Canadian Government. Only one interest payment was since made to the Pacific stockholders, who contended that this was because the Grand Trunk stocks had been wrongly given priority over their security.

New Officials for Trust Company.

The directors of the Times Square Trust Company, which will commence operations on Oct. 1 at Seventh Avenue and Fortieth Street, last night elected Edwin R. Lawrence, for twenty years with the American Exchange-Pacific National Bank, as Treasurer. They also selected Joseph W. Hansen as Secretary and Thomas Haldane of the Bank of America as Assistant Treasurer and credit manager.

DIAL SYSTEM PHONES GAIN IN PENNSYLVANIA

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania is now operating 398 central offices, according to figures recently issued. The company employs 21,972 persons. Some of the buildings that house these central offices are large enough to quarter a regiment, and if grouped together the various buildings would form a good-sized town.

About 20 per cent. of all telephones in the State are now dial or machine-switching instruments. The dial system of operating telephones in the metropolitan areas has proved highly satisfactory in handling the complicated city traffic. Dial offices are now located in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Altoona and Scranton. Reading will soon be placed on a machine-switching basis.

Since the first of the present year more than 25,000 telephones have been added to the Bell system in the State. On the first day of January, 1924, the Pennsylvania Bell Company was operating 351,085 telephones. The rapid growth of approximately 130,000 telephones in the last two and one-half years indicates prosperity in the State.

C. & E. I. BUYS COAL CARS.

Sets Record for Day's Haul From Mines—Traffic at Higher Peak.

Five hundred Milton all-steel hopper cars have been ordered built at Mount Vernon, Ill., for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway, at an aggregate cost of $1,200,000, it was announced yesterday. The first shipment of the cars is expected this week, and it is said that all the shipment will be put into service immediately.

The Chicago & Eastern Illinois brought into Chicago on last Monday its heaviest movement of coal for a single day from the West Frankfort mines in Southern Illinois, consisting of three trains, for a total of 175 cars. Traffic records on Aug. 27 show that the railway handled 1,883 loaded cars on that day, which is more than on any day since the war period.

14 Bus Lines Incorporated in August.

Fourteen new bus companies were incorporated in the United States in August, according to Bus Transportation, and were granted to twenty-one companies. The number of buses added to the bus transportation of the country in August was 259, the total investment in new buses being estimated at about $2,500,000.

JULY RAIL EARNINGS RISE TO $104,850,000

28 Roads Reporting Show Gain of 23.3% Over July of 1925—$122,000,000 Total Likely.

6.61 PER CENT. ON VALUATION

July Figures Highest for the Year, but Are Expected to Be Beaten by Earnings of Autumn.

The July earnings of seventy-eight railroads made public to date show total net operating income of $104,850,000, against $85,041,000 for the same lines last year, an increase of $19,809,000, or 23.3 per cent. If the same percentage of gain is maintained by the other railroads to report, July net will exceed $122,000,000, or the equivalent of a return of 6.61 per cent. on the carriers' tentative valuation.

These remarkable earnings, and the prospect that August will do even better, probably showing profits in the neighborhood of $130,000,000, stimulated trading yesterday in the high-grade railroad shares, which Wall Street has come to believe will receive a "melon" of no small proportions at the end of the year.

The July figures are the highest reported thus far this year, but will undoubtedly be exceeded by August, September and October, during which, according to the normal seasonal variation of traffic, a larger percentage of the year's freight movement is handled.

Gross revenues for the first seventy-eight roads to report totaled $490,934,000, against $461,473,000 a year ago, an increase of 6.4 per cent. In June, 1926, gross was $477,221,000, or 2.9 per cent. below this July. On the basis of net operating income for July, as estimated above, the Class I roads should show for the first seven months of the current year net railway operating income of $616,800,000, or at an annual rate of return of 5.76 per cent. on tentative valuation, against an actual net operating income of $537,165,541, or a return of 5.19 per cent. for the corresponding period of last year.

COLOMBIA SEEKS BIG LOAN.

Plans to Float $100,000,000 Issue to Build Railroads and Highways.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 31 (AP).—Colombia proposes to float an international loan of $100,000,000 in 1927 to build railroads and highways.

It has been known for some time that half a dozen large Wall Street banking houses have been competing for a Colombian loan, the amount of which is expected to be about $40,000,000. It was understood that a former Colombian Administration had practically completed arrangements for a large loan from the United States when it went out of office. Resumption of negotiations has been delayed by this political change.

Redemption of $2,000,000 of the Republic of Colombia five-year 6 per cent. gold notes of 1922 will be effected on Oct. 1 next, according to announcement by Blair & Co., fiscal agents. The redemption price will be 100 and accrued interest.

Paint Plant for Moon Motors.

Additional manufacturing facilities have been acquired in St. Louis by the Moon Motor Car Company to provide for the painting and trimming of Moon products, according to an announcemet yesterday by Stewart MacDonald, President. "The increased production of automobiles since the introduction of a new model recently has necessitated this move," Mr. MacDonald said.

MORE MACHINERY ORDERS.

Automotive and Railroad Industries Are Principal Buyers.

The machinery industry is maintaining a satisfactory rate of activity, and in some sections an upward trend has been noted, American Machinist reports. The automotive industry and the railroads are the steady buyers, although inquiries from industrials have been fairly numerous.

"In New England," says the publication, "the automotive industry has placed a large number of orders. The situation in New York underwent little change, though a small gain in railroad orders has been noted. In Buffalo the position of the market for machine tools is satisfactory. Philadelphia has received larger orders from railroads and a steady volume of business is being maintained. Conditions in the West continue to be better than in the East. Buying of equipment by the railroads has raised the total for August in the Chicago district. Cincinnati has been less favored than some of the other sections, but inquiries have increased. Detroit shows a steady gain in inquiries, and Milwaukee and Cleveland report that conditions are good for this period of the year, with automotive buying a feature in the market."

Spanish River Pulp & Paper Net.

The Spanish River Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., of Toronto reports a net profit of $2,195,902 for the twelve months ended June 30. This equals $12.15 per share, earned on $18,066,500 combined shares of 7 per cent. preferred and common stocks. In the previous year the net reached $2,284,571, or $12.64 per share.

MEXICAN INTEREST IS PAID FOR AUGUST

TRADE IN LUXURIES HURT

No Falling Off in Government's Revenues or Imports From United States, He Asserts.

The Mexican Government has placed to the order of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico the regular monthly payment covering August on account of the second half year's interest, due Jan. 1, 1927, on the bonds representing the public debt of Mexico, it was announced yesterday by Arturo M. Elias, financial agent in this city.

In making the announcement Mr. Elias asserted that the economic boycott, with the backing of the Catholic Church, had failed of its purpose. In reply to four questions which he addressed to A. J. Pani, Secretary of the Treasury of Mexico, he received the following:

"In reply to your question as to 'what are the effects of the boycott up to the present time,' I would state that while at the beginning some slight decrease was noted in commercial activities, at the present date, Aug. 27, absolutely normal conditions are being re-established.

"In reply to your second question as to 'what have been the effects of the boycott on trade,' I would say that the only trade which suffered somewhat from the boycott was that on articles of luxury. This was caused by the fact that the wealthy class, being most related to the clergy on account of conservative ideas, was the only class which has in any way supported the boycott. The boycott movement has found absolutely no response from the middle and laboring classes, who constitute the most important body of our population and who are the ones who give life to all trade in staple commodities, and it is these commodities which constitute the country's most important business activities.

"As to your third question regarding the 'effect of the boycott on the Government itself,' I would say that the revenues have not suffered any noticeable change and that the accounts received up to now do not show any fluctuations on State taxes.

"To your question asking to 'what the effect of the boycott has been on exports from the United States,' my answer to this is that United States merchants continue to send to Mexico all articles constituting the base of our trade relations. As I have stated in answer to your previous question, the vast majority of our people have not responded to the boycott movement and therefore the consumption of necessary commodities continues to be absolutely normal."

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

French, Belgian and Italian Rise in Active Market—Rally Starts Abroad.

Substantial price advances in a number of the more important foreign exchanges featured yesterday's trading. Business was on a large scale, particularly for the French, Belgian and Italian descriptions. Improvement was first noticed in the early cables, the rally being continued here as banks again evinced keen interest in the Paris franc, which was carried close to the 3-cent level—to 3.96¼ cents, an overnight gain of more than 7 points. Italian lire at 3.28¾ cents gained 6 points, and the Brussels franc at 2.79 cents was up 3 points.

Speculation in the Japanese yen lifted it to 48.12 cents for cables, the Calcutta rupee likewise picking up a few points at 36.43 cents. The Chinese were reported heavy sellers of their own currencies, both Hongkong and Shanghai reacting sharply. A drop in the pressure in Spanish pesetas accounted for a recovery of 10 points, to 15.31 cents. Sterling was firm and unchanged at $4.84¾. Swiss, Holland and the Scandinavians were quiet but firm. The German mark rose 1 point to 23.81 cents. South Americans were dull.

FORD SAYS HIS ROAD IS WORTH $23,000,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Henry Ford's railroad—the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton—is worth at least $23,000,000, instead of a little more than $11,000,000, the value placed upon it for "rate-making purposes" by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to a brief filed with the commission today in behalf of Mr. Ford.

The Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Company is one of three roads that Mr. Ford recently wanted to merge into one system. Permission to do so was refused by the commission.

In protesting against the valuation fixed by the commission the brief submitted stated that no explanation was made of what was meant by a value for "rate-making purposes," or how such a basis differs from the "true constitutionally protected value of the property," or by what method, or in accordance with what rules or principles of law, the commission reached its conclusions.

The contention is urged that the commission's valuations "are too small because the estimate of the cost of reproduction now of the properties upon which they appear to be based, is much less than it should be," also that the commission erred in valuing certain items, and that it excluded some factors that would have led to a higher estimate.

For example, the road insists that it owns 3,097 acres of land, whereas the official estimate of the road's acreage is 3,676 acres. The road also insists that its lands are worth not less than $2,255,376, whereas their value was fixed at $2,071,755 by the commission, and that the total reproduction cost of the road and equipment, including working capital, and expenses of obtaining money, &c., would reach at least $18,782,560.

FUTURES DECLINE IN RUBBER MARKET

Prices for Crude Fall 60 to 80 Points for Active Months—London Market Lower.

In a narrow and inactive market, prices of crude rubber futures yesterday declined from 60 to 80 points for the active months. So far as actual turnover was concerned, it was one of the smallest on record for a full session, only thirty contracts being involved. Over-the-counter trading also was quiet, with the price trend in the street following the London change. The London market was ⅛ to 1/16d lower, reports from that quarter indicating only a nominal business.

On the local Exchange the trading was confined to October, December and March positions. October was firm and unchanged in the forenoon, but later sold off 70 points to 40.50 cents. December followed the same characteristic, yielding 60 points to 41.30 cents at the finish. March gave up the maximum ground, 80 points at 41.50 cents.

What bonds should you buy?

We see almost daily the hardship and worry which result from buying the wrong types of good bonds. Business men, with opportunities lost because they cannot readily raise money on their bonds. Widows, with inadequate safety because they hold "business men's bonds." Estates swallowed up by inheritance taxes because of wrong investments.

Your choice of good bonds should depend on two things:

1. Yourself

How old are you? What is the source of your income? What is the size of your income and the amount of your surplus for investment? Are you married? How many dependents? What are your tax liabilities? Other liabilities? Do you own your home? Do you travel? Where is your legal residence? What are your prospects? What are your plans? Have you made your will? Created a trust fund?

Why are you saving? To buy something? To assure a comfortable income in old age? To provide for your family? To protect a business? To provide for some contingency?

Personal questions—yes. But financial health is as important as physical health. And the investment specialist, no less than the medical specialist, must have facts for diagnosis before he prescribes the bonds you ought to buy.

2. Your present investments

The bonds you already own have a bearing on your next and other future purchases. It is quite possible that some of your present holdings are not the best for you. Others may have depreciated as regards the features most favorable from your standpoint.

You may realize the foregoing facts but you may not realize this: all the securities you now own should fit into a personal investment program, based not only upon the fluctuations of industry and a constant income average, but also upon your own plans and contingencies and other personal factors mentioned above.

Your present holdings are a personal matter, too. But the sincere investment specialist warrants your confidence as completely as does your physician. He cannot intelligently advise you on new purchases unless he knows what you already own.

Our offer

We offer you the help of our investment specialists in selecting the right bonds from the best bonds the financial world affords.

Our offer is made in your interest as well as our own. It is easy to accept. It entails no obligation.

Simply send for an Equitable Investment Memorandum. Turn to your page. Put down the facts it calls for and return it to us. The information will be held entirely confidential and, with it as a basis, we will prepare a personal investment program designed to meet your specific needs and plans.

HEAVY RAINS RAISE COTTON QUOTATIONS

NET GAIN OF 24 TO 27 POINTS

Advance in October Contracts Abroad Provides Feature of the Market.

Heavy rains in Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas, together with several reduced crop estimates, exerted a stimulating influence on yesterday's cotton trading. Following the reaction of three-quarters of a cent from high levels of last week, prices recovered a dollar a bale on Monday and continued the improvement with an advance of quarter of a cent yesterday, closing at a net gain of 24 to 27 points. Trade interests bought on a more liberal scale the past few days than for several weeks as a direct result of less optimistic Southern advices and recent unfavorable weather.

A feature of the market was the advance in October contracts abroad to new high levels for the month. Though near positions in both New York and Liverpool sold at the same price for several months last Spring, October in Liverpool yesterday sold about 140 points over October here. Several times during the day October contracts in New Orleans sold over New York, as was the case on Monday. Demand for contracts was on a liberal scale throughout the session, bringing highest quotations of the day in closing trading.

Jay & Co. reduced the previous crop estimate half a million bales to 14,380,000 on a condition of 58.6. This compared with 14,965,000 on the corresponding date last year, which was a million bales over the Washington estimate at that time. The causes assigned for the present reduction in prospects were frequent and excessive rainfall at nearly every station except in parts of Texas, from three to over six inches precipitation occurring during the month. This brought a rapid increase in insects as well as causing rank plant growth and poor or slow fruiting over a large area. Quite favorable reports were received from Western Texas. Western Oklahoma and North Carolina. Hopkins, Dwight & Co. placed the indicated yield at 14,500,000 and Hicks & Co. at 14,610,000. The last Washington estimate was 15,248,000.

Weather continued more favorable over the Eastern belt than for some time, while very little moisture was reported in Texas. Both Oklahoma and Arkansas have had too much rain of late, many stations in the last named State reporting from eight to over twelve inches during the month. The predictions were for unsettled weather in Oklahoma and Arkansas, but fair to cloudy conditions in nearly all the remaining States.

changed; Houston, sales 6,457, 18.25, 15 points advance; Little Rock, sales 290, 18.15c, 5 points decline; Dallas, sales 5,910, 17.80c, 20 points advance.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, sales 858 bales, 18.80c, 15 points advance; New Orleans, sales 2,234, 18.12c, 15 points advance; Savannah, sales 809, 18c, 13 points advance; Augusta, sales 261, 17.55c, 12 points advance; Memphis, sales 950, 18.25c, unchanged.

HOLIDAY APATHY IN COUNTER MARKET

Nearness of Labor Day Causes Irregular Trading—Industrials Evidence Strength.

Comparative quiet prevailed on the over-the-counter market yesterday, resulting from the approach of the three holidays over Labor Day. The list was slightly irregular, with a moderate reaction in the bank stocks, which was offset to some degree by a slight strength among some industrials, particularly in the afternoon trading.

United States Trucking Class B was up 4 points on the bid, but no activity developed. Giant Portland Cement maintained its recent gain, showing a recovery of about 7 points for this movement. Armstrong Cork, which rose slightly in the morning, became more active in the late hours, closing with a net gain of 7 points. Singer Manufacturing advanced 5 points on the day, and fair performances were turned in by United Milk Products, McCall Corporation, International Silver, Van Camp preferred and Lehigh Portland Cement.

Contrary to expectations the chain store issues remained quiet yesterday and the tobacco shares continued firm, with Universal Leaf the outstanding performer. Sugar stocks were quiet, the only active of the day being Godchaux Sugar, up 2 points.

Public utility stocks were generally quiet and somewhat better, a few exceptions being Galveston-Houston Electric, up 1 point; Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone and Telegraph, and New England Telephone and Telegraph, both up fractionally.

An issue of some characterized" the market for National Bank of Commerce. Bankers Trust, Empire Trust, Chase National and National City, which were down on a range of from 3 to 6 points. Municipal Bank was an exception, being up 5 points, while New Netherlands ran up 5 points in the late trading, and Bronx National was substantially higher at the close.

UNION TRUST PROMOTIONS.

New Vice President, Cashier and Other Officers Named.

The Union Trust Company of Chicago yesterday announced the following changes:

Herrod, who came to the Union Trust from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in 1921, is promoted from assistant cashier to cashier.

AUGUST TRADE GAIN CONSIDERED NORMAL

Bank, in Letter, Regards It as a Continuation of Healthy Tone in Earlier Months.

LABOR SHORTAGES DEVELOP

Skilled Building Workers Said to Be Especially Scarce—Prices Remain Low.

Although August established new records, statistically, in trade and manufacturing activity, the improvement was normal and the healthy tone which has prevailed through the year was maintained, according to the monthly letter of the American Exchange-Pacific National Bank. Especial improvement is shown in the textile, automobile, coal and lumber industries. In the West, and some other sections of the country, building continues at a high rate. A shortage of skilled labor has developed in building and several manufacturing industries, but thus far there has appeared no undue bidding for labor.

The letter says:

"Although trade is active, wages high and the demand for goods steady, prices show no tendency to advance. On the contrary, there was further progress toward stability, with the movement, in some commodities, toward lower price levels. A few producers showed some reluctance to increase commitments at present levels, but buyers refused to press the market, and changes toward higher prices were negligible. Forward buying was reported in one or two trades, but the movement was not general, the spirit of conservation which is the secret of sustained trade activity continuing to dominate the situation.

"Unseasonable weather during the early Summer left fairly large stocks of Summer goods on the hands of men's clothiers, and sales and bargain offerings, especially by the smaller shops, have been fairly numerous. Although unsatisfactory to those immediately concerned, this condition has had no important effect on retail trade in general. On the other hand, that branch of business has been generally good and reports indicate that merchants are, on the whole, well satisfied with the season.

"In the main, crop reports are favorable, indicating large yields of the principal products. These prospects have been reflected in lower prices for most of the farm commodities, notwithstanding that in the case of wheat, in particular, world shortages are indicated. However, definite estimates as to final yields are not yet available and prices are not likely to reflect the actual position until later in the year.

"Lower prices for wheat and cotton have resulted in an increase in the export demand for these commodities and have developed an improvement in the domestic demand. Cotton mills in the South are working full time and the industry is generally more active than at any time for several months.

"Though money has been flowing into permanent investment at a higher rate than ever before in the history of the country, the money market has remained fairly stable, with ample supplies of credit available. Some increase in the demand for funds is expected with the approach of the season for the movement of the crops from the farms to the points at which the produce will be consumed.

"In Europe, the situation, except for the formation of a Government in France which is pledged to protect the franc, remains about unchanged."

CURB MARKET TAKES LATE UPWARD TURN

Trading Covers Wide Range of Stocks and Trend Is Lacking in Uniformity.

There was an appreciable increase in trading in the Curb Market yesterday and a broad list of securities was covered in the operations. Prices, however, had difficulty in keeping in line and the list at the close of the day showed the effects of being churned. If anything, gains outnumbered losses, although the ratio of advance, except in a few widely moving specialties, was not sufficient to impart the appearance of stability to the general market.

In the last half hour of trading the best uniformity of trend was exhibited. Prices previous to that time had hovered around their low marks for the session, and when the belated advance began such stocks as Standard Oil of New York, General Motors new, Humble Oil, General Baking "B," Warner Brothers' Pictures, American Seating, Du Pont Motors new and Glen Alden Coal were favored by the speculative clientele and pushed from fractions to more than a point above the previous finals. The upward tendencies in these stocks naturally prompted short covering in many other shares, and while quotations presented a diversified appearance at the close, they were much firmer than they had been.

The Standard Oils, although a few of them were among the last-hour leaders, failed as a group to improve their position as much as they had done on Monday. Possibly another gain in production and a lowering of prices for coastal heavy crude made for caution.

Public utilities shared to a larger extent in the day's doings and in the main prices adhered to a steady course. There was good buying in American Light Electric Bond, Mohawk Valley and Pennsylvania Power. Each of which ran up a point or more. A few specialites reached new high ground, these including American Hardware, Estey Welte, Giant Portland Cement, Purity Baking "A" and A. O. Smith Company.

Erie Shovel common, which was offered for public subscription at $25 a share, was introduced to dealings and sold up to 25½ early, with a subsequent reaction to 25.

Trading in bonds increased. Westinghouse Electric new 5s were in demand and made a new high at 99⅝. General steadiness characterized changes elsewhere in the domestic list. Foreign obligations ruled irregular.

DENIES EXCHANGE IS OUT OF BUSINESS

Leader of Consolidated Says Offices at 14-16 Pearl Street Will Be Permanent.

NO CUSTOMERS THERE NOW

The statement by Special Deputy Attorney General Keyes Winter, in charge of the State Bureau for the Prevention of Fraud, that Attorney General Albert Ottinger has "put out of business that notorious gambling shop, the Consolidated Stock Exchange," was challenged yesterday by Philip Evans, President of the exchange, who denied that it was out of business, and cited the fact that new quarters had been engaged at 14-16 Pearl Street.

It has been reported for some time that the Consolidated was out of business and that the officers now in charge are merely keeping active a skeleton organization. The quarters of the exchange at Broad and Beaver Streets were sold several weeks ago and the purchasers have announced their intention of erecting a thirty-story office building there.

President Evans said yesterday that the new quarters at 14-16 Pearl Street would be permanent. Asked regarding the statement by Deputy Attorney General Winter that the exchange had failed to fulfill the requirements of the Attorney General's office in employing an auditor designated by Mr. Ottinger, the President of the Consolidated said the exchange still desired to meet the requirements laid down when the Attorney General discontinued his action for an injunction.

It is known that the Consolidated has done virtually no business since it consented to the terms imposed by Mr. Winter. President Evans and a few other attaches have remained at the offices of the exchange, and the tickers which formerly were the life-blood of the organization have continued to function. But there have been no customers and few traders.

"Mr. Winter omits to say," said President Evans, "that it is not true that the Consolidated Stock Exchange is or was a bucket shop, and that his charges of fraud as to the exchange were equally untrue.

"It is a matter of serious moment when an Attorney General resorts to the use of the prestige and power of a State office in an effort to destroy an institution of over fifty years' standing. It should be a matter of concern to the people of the State to know that the Attorney General alleged in a sworn document that the members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange were insolvent, and that on these grounds he asked the Supreme Court to appoint a receiver. In his recent gesture Mr. Winter points with pride to the Attorney General's courage in attacking the same institution as reputed to be worth millions, despite the fact that he had previously declared the members insolvent.

"The Consolidated Stock Exchange will no doubt survive these inspired attacks. The matter is, however, of much more importance to the public. When such high office is used for the purpose of self-aggrandizement by political schemers it is high time that the proper authorities became cognizant of the facts and investigated these activities."

DEVICE FINDS COLOR OF HAY

Developed by Department of Agriculture to Set Value of Product.

A machine recently developed by the United States Department of Agriculture has made it possible to determine accurately the shades of color on which the value of hay is based. The color of hay determines its food value and hence its price.

The machine devised by the Department of Agriculture consists of an electrically driven rotator and Munsell color system disks. The hay to be tested is placed in a flat metal disk and secured by wire mesh. The tray is revolved at high speed, so that all the colors in the hay appear as one. Munsell disks of various colors are attached to the axis of the machine until one is found that harmonizes with the color of the hay. The disks are then interpreted in color terms.

BIG TRADE IN GRAINS MARKS MONTH'S END

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—There was the heaviest liquidation of September contracts that has been known in months, with elevator people taking the coarse grains and millers and some of the elevator interests absorbing the wheat and exporters and elevator people taking the rye. Deliveries for Wednesday are estimated at 1,500,000 bushels to 2,000,000 bushels of corn and oats, and possibly ranging up to 2,500,000 bushels of oats and 1,500,000 bushels of rye.

Sentiment at the close was more mixed. There has been a 10-cent break in wheat, about an 11-cent break in corn and good declines in oats and rye from the recent high points. Millers have absorbed a great deal of wheat, and the markets are regarded as oversold.

A combination of varied conditions made an erratic movement for the grain markets, with a larger trading and a liberal range of prices. A bulge early was followed by a break and a relatively tame close on wheat and rye and a stronger tone in corn and oats.

The outstanding feature was the liquidation in September, with a widening of the spread between September and December wheat to around 4 cents, while in corn changes were at 7 to 7⅞ cents and oats 4¼ to 4⅜ cents and rye 5¼ cents. Spreads on coarse grains were the widest known and were taken advantage of by elevators to turn over their hedges at the most profitable differences ever experienced at this time of the year.

At the close wheat was ½ to 1⅜ cent lower, with September leading. Corn was 1½ to 1⅞ cent higher, the latter on May. Oats were steady to ¼ cent higher and rye 1¾ cent lower for September to ½ cent higher for May.

The wheat market was mainly a professional affair, with steadier cables than expected and lighter selling pressure early, and a fair advance followed by weakness and lower prices. September went down to $1.31¼, December to $1.34⅞ and May to $1.39⅝. The close was practically the bottom for September and ⅝@⅞ cent for the deferred futures.

Rains in Western Canada, lasting for around one to seven hours, which will delay the thrashing and marketing, advanced Winnipeg nearly 2 cents after an early break, but, like Chicago, the top prices failed to hold, although the strength there had a good influence here.

A strengthening influence in wheat was the decrease of 7,500,000 bushels in Bradstreet's available supply against 2,900,000 bushels last year, but the total was largely in excess of last year.

Export buying was better, and there was an absorption of wheat on the weak spots by millers, while houses with Eastern connections who were buying for several days were heavy sellers of December.

September corn was sold freely by tired holders throughout the day and taken by elevator interests. The price dropped to 74½ cents, with December down to 81¼ cents and May to 87⅝ cents, the lowest on the present downturn, with a rally at the last on covering by shorts. There were 60,000 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn posted as out of condition.

Some of the crop reports were taken as bullish and induced buying, making a close of 75⅞ to 75½ cents for September, with December 82½ to 82⅝ and May 88⅞ to 89 cents.

WHEAT FUTURES DECLINE.

Local Market Develops Weakness Soon After Opening.

Net losses of from ½ cent to 1¼ cents marked the close of the wheat futures market on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday as a result of liquidation, a very limited amount of export business, and weakness in the outside market. The market opened with a fair display of strength but lost ground after the first hour and gradually sold lower.

Commission houses were in the market throughout the session, and there was good buying on the breaks Toward the close of the market there was a let up in selling pressure, due in part to profit-taking by shorts and reports showing a substantial decrease in the visible supply. The cash trade and weather conditions are being closely watched as two of the most important influences on the present market.

Fur Sale Results Normal.

Reports that have reached the local fur trade from out-of-town sources in the last few days indicate that the results of the August fur sales have so far been normal. None of the larger stores was handicapped by a shortage of stock as a result of the long strike of the furriers, despite the apprehension that existed earlier in the season. Some of the smaller retailers who came on the ground a little late were said not to have got all the merchandise they wanted, and in isolated cases sales were not put on for this reason. The favorable reception of the new season's models by the women of the country has been gratifying to the producing end of the trade, and present indications point to one of the best Fall and Winter seasons in some time. While goods can be had without much difficulty now, it was said yesterday, there are not the market surpluses which have hampered business in recent seasons.

Resort Preparations Held Back.

The continuance of the strike in the women's coat trade is serving to hold up developments in the fabric fields that would normally be transpiring at this time. It is evident that, even if the strike should be settled soon, it would be some time before the trade could reach active production, which in turn would mean a longer drawn out Fall season than is usually the case. With the situation in mind, the mills and fabric designers are holding back for a while the preparation and development of ideas for the Palm Beach season. This delay is temporary, and will not materially affect the Winter resort prospects. It will rather serve to eliminate too early preparation, which is not always advantageous, as was shown in the case of prints last year.

Market in Women's Fabrics.

The women's wear fabric market continues very quiet. Some of the large operators have placed volume business in staple twills and sheens for next Spring, while there have also been some orders booked in novelty lightweight worsteds. The cutters, however, are not inclined to do much in the way of advance business for next Spring, and the mills have little desire to force things. In Fall cloths, particularly coatings, a mark-time attitude continues because of the strike. Stocks of fabrics are very light, and all indications point to a shortage when the big demand comes a few weeks hence.

Some Lines Well Bought.

Business in men's wear Spring fabrics has progressed to the point where some mills have taken about all the orders they can handle on certain numbers in their lines. Some of these factors have already announced a sold-up condition, while others are expected to so inform their customers by mail in the near future. The fabrics most in demand are mixtures and twists, and in these goods the large mills have had a strong price advantage over their smaller competitors. It is the belief of many in the trade that a number of the larger mills will be able to show a profit for the lightweight season, the first that they have had in two years or so.

Velvets Are Doing Well.

Strong cobperative efforts to bring velvets back into vogue are being put forth and they are generally credited with considerable success. It is held likely that as the season advances velvet will lead the mode not only in evening wear but also to a marked extent in garments for afternoon wear. Chiffon velvet has been in growing demand since the latter part of July and is being bought extensively now in both afternoon and evening shades. Brocaded and metallic velvets are also strongly in the lead in the novelty silks offered for the Fall. They constitute, in fact, the only novelties of importance offered for the new season and as such have been stressed for formal wear.

Shows Newest in Mohair Fabrics.

Sell Women's Hats With Shoes.

The continuance of the ensemble idea in women's dress has given several progressive retailers an opportunity of increasing millinery sales by offering certain types of chapeaux in their shoe departments. The kid ensemble lends itself especially to this kind of merchandising, it consisting of shoes, bag and hat to match. It has been found a simple matter to sell bags along with the shoes, and it is further said that, since both head sizes and designs have become more or less standardized, it is not so difficult to sell hats as it might seem. The novelty of seeing hats offered in a shoe department has a sales value not to be taken lightly.

Jerseys Growing More Popular.

Junior wear lines show a strong trend at the moment toward jerseys, especially in the firmer, smoother weaves. The combination of this material in several tones of one color is an attractive and favorite offering of the manufacturers. In three shades of green, or in three shades of wood brown verging on red, two-piece models are shown without trimming other than a narrow leather belt that is placed slightly below the normal waistline. Most of the Fall models are made either with a V-shaped neck or with a collar that closes at the base of the throat. The blouses are of finger-tip length, and the skirts usually show "kick pleats" in front.

Gray Goods Sales Were Fair.

A pretty fair volume of business was put through in the local grey goods market yesterday at recent prices. Near-by deliveries of 39-inch 72-76 printcloths were sold at 9¾ cents, and similar shipments of 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 64-60s were disposed of at 8¾ and 7¾ cents, respectively. For near-by 38½-inch 60-48s buyers paid 6¼ cents. In the sheetings September business was done in 37-inch 48-square four-yard cloths at 9 cents, and in 36-inch 56-60 four-yard goods at 9¼ cents. Trading in 37-inch 3.35-yard drills was done at 8¾ cents. Sateens sold well on the basis of 11¾ cents for 37½-inch 64-104 4.37-yard goods. In the fine-yarn cloths a nice business was reported in voiles and specialties.

CITY SALE DATES FIXED.

The Board of Transportation yesterday fixed the dates for the public auction sale of twenty-six parcels of city property, the total upset price of which is $2,177,090. The sale of the property in Brooklyn will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague Street, Brooklyn, at noon. The sale of the Manhattan and Bronx parcels will be held on Thursday, Oct. 28, in the real estate auction rooms at 58 Vesey Street, Manhattan, at noon.

The board formally adopted an agreement with Joseph P. Day, Inc., and Henry Brady, auctioneers, to conduct the sale of these properties.

Twenty-two of the twenty-six parcels are in Brooklyn, one is in Manhattan and three are in the Bronx. All of the parcels were acquired through condemnation for the construction of some of the existing rapid-transit lines. The subway structure is under the property and the resale next month will be suoject to the retention of easements or reservations for future rapid-transit development. These reservations or easements will be fully described in the real estate sales booklet.

LEASES ON WEST SIDE.

Manufacturers Take Large Space in Manhattan.

The same brokers have also leased 5,000 square feet in the building known at 13-15 West Twenty-seventh Street to William E. Cain Company of Newark, N. J., manufacturers of brassieres. The leases are for a long term of years.

Costume Blouses Moving Well.

Costume blouses are among the garments that are doing well early this season. Velvet brocade, crepe-back satins and other rich materials are being used in their manufacture and embroidery, contrasting materials and metal pieces clamped into the fabrics are employed as trimmings. Many blouses in the semi-dressy styles are designed to be worn not only with a two-piece suit, but with a separate skirt as well. The latter may either match the blouse or be of some contrasting color. As a blouse, especially in the better grades, will generally outwear two skirts, it really does double duty. Some manufacturers, according to the United Waist League of America, are showing the blouses with the skirts "mounted" on a bodice.

The new buildings will be erected on a plot measuring 100 by 205 feet and will be occupied by the Church of the Heavenly Rest and the Church of the Beloved Disciple, the two congregations having been combined after the sale of the former's church property on Fifth Avenue between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth Streets, which is now being improved with a thirty-one-story office building.

BRONX BUILDERS BUY APARTMENT SITES

IMPROVED PROPERTY SOLD

Karwell Holdings In Ownership Changes—Investor Buys a New Warehouse.

Several apartment house improvements for vacant Bronx sites were foreshadowed in real estate transactions closed yesterday. A building client of Nat E. Fink purchased from Dr. Kovnat a vacant plot on the west side of Decatur Avenue, 150 feet north of Mosholu Parkway. The buyer is having plans prepared for a five-and-one-half-story tenement to be built on the property.

The Keating estate sold to a builder a plot of ten lots forming the northeast corner of Barry Street and Burnett Place. The property, which has been in the Keating family for more than forty years, will be improved. William J. Gebel and Michael Santori were the brokers who effected the sale.

Elizabeth Moore Ogden sold to a building client of Rullman Brothers, Inc., for immediate improvement the vacant plot measuring 50 by 125 feet on the east side of Nelson Avenue, 191 feet south of 166th Street.

The Ricardo Holding Corporation sold, through Albert G. Ilfeld as broker, the plot 100 by 100 feet forming the southwest corner of Miles and Balcom Avenues.

Twelve lots in the Wakefield section were sold for the Hargo Realty Company, Inc., through the Polsfield Realty Company, Inc., as brokers, to Morris Elkind. The lots are on both sides of Dereimer Avenue, between Pittman and Norvid Avenues. The buyer plans to improve with one and two family houses.

The Karwell Realty Corporation sold, through the Silverman Wallach Company, the five-story tenement with two stores, built on a lot 25 by 100 feet, at 2,068 Third Avenue. The property shows an annual rental of $7,500. The same seller also sold through Harry Oscar the recently completed one-story garage on the northeast corner of Westchester and Colgate Avenues. The building contains thirteen stores and is built on a plot 100 by 100 feet.

TRACTOR KILLS LAD OF 11

Morris Korman, 8 years old, of 119 Orchard Street, was playing ball yesterday afternoon in front of 105 Ludlow Street when he got in the path of a taxicab. He was knocked down and received injuries from which he died. The driver of the cab, Moses Sannonblick, of 188 Russell Street, Brooklyn, was locked up on a technical homicide charge.

Three hours before this accident, Isidore Telkin, 6 years old, of 29 Pike Street, was run over and killed by a municipal bus in front of 148 Madison Street. The boy had been playing on the stoop of his home with his five sisters and several other boys. He had jumped on the rear of a motor truck and had been driven off by the operator. Dropping to the street, he ran in front of the bus and the front wheels passed over him. William Gottlieb, the chauffeur of the bus, of 18 Jackson Street, was arrested on a technical homicide charge.

Joseph Pennibedo, 6 years old, started with three companions to run across the street in front of his home at 114 Trowbridge Street, Astoria, Queens, at 4 o'clock yesterday. He was struck and killed by an automobile driven by Duncan McRae, 21 of 2 Lebanon Terrace, Astoria. McRae was held on a technical homicide charge.

Miss Helen Musick, 20, an employe in a Government office in Washington, D. C., alighted late in the afternoon from a motor bus near her home in Oxford, N. J., for a visit to her parents. She was struck and fatally injured by a motortruck. She died soon after the accident in a hospital at Easton, Pa. Arthur Linnaberry, the truck driver, of Hope, N. J., was arrested on a technical manslaughter charge.

Alfred Kraemer Jr., 11, of 133 Tenth Street, College Point, Queens, started to operate a motor tractor in the lumber yard of his father at Fifth Avenue and Clinton Street, College Point, in the afternoon. When the tractor struck a rut, the boy was pitched headlong in front of it. He was run over and died soon afterward in the Flushing Hospital.

When the automobile in which he was riding was overturned in a collision with another car in Harrison, N. Y., Nelson Philips, 10 years old, of Dobbs Ferry, was instantly killed. The police said his neck was broken. Miss Mabel Frank of 151 Ashford Avenue, Dobbs Ferry, was driving the car in which the boy was riding with his nine-year-old sister, Elizabeth, his grandmother, Mrs. N. Philips of Mohegan Park, Dobbs Ferry; Mrs. S. Carpenter of Dobbs Ferry and Robert Windanger of 189 Roberts Avenue, Yonkers. At the intersection of Highland Road and Bowman Avenue their sedan was struck by the automobile being driven by John Stebel, 36, of 166 Williams Street, Port Chester, an employe of the Westchester Biltmore Country Club. Stebel later was arrested on a technical homicide charge and held in $1,000 bail.

Costa Voss, 5, of 329 East Thirty-second Street, was taken, dying, to Bellevue Hospital last night, after being struck by a motor truck in front of his home. The vehicle was operated by John Downie, 617 West 169th Street, an employe of the American Railway Express Company.

Wife Charges Veteran Fired Pistol in Home When Annoyed.

Asserting that she had several times apparently been a target for pistol shots, Mrs. Claire Curtis of 635 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, applied to Supreme Court Justice Burt J. Humphrey in Brooklyn yesterday for counsel fees and alimony, pending trial of her suit for separation from former Lieutenant Charles Curtis, who was an interpreter during the World War, and was said to have been attached to General Pershing's staff.

"During the war," Mark H. Schneider, her attorney, said, "he obtained au automatic revolver from a German prisoner and brought it home as a keepsake. Whenever things did not please him he threatened his wife with it. Several times he shot above her head into the walls of their home."

Curtis denied abusing his wife in any way and alleged she abandoned him, taking the furniture of their apartment with her. Justice Humphrey granted $15 a week alimony and $150 counsel fees to Mrs. Curtis.

JUDGE KILLED IN HIS HOME.

WETUMPKA, Ala., Aug. 31 (AP).—Judge Lamar Smith, Private Judge of Elmore County, was shot to death and his wife seriously hurt last night when an unidentified person fired two charges of buckshot through a window of his home from ambush.

Judge Smith was lying on a bed reading a newspaper when the shots were fired. His skull was shattered by one of the charges. Mrs. Smith was discovered on the floor by neighbors who heard the shots.

A negro with whom Judge Smith was said to have had a dispute a week ago is being sought by posses. Neighbors told of seeing an automobile parked near the house shortly before the shooting and of seeing two white men and a negro jump into the machine and drive away immediately after the second charge had been fired. Telephone wires to the Smith home had been cut.

Mrs. Smith was attacked a month ago by a negro armed with a club. The negro fled when Mrs. Smith screamed.
